Dock Strike Settled With Compromise Pact

'Extend Viet Truces'

Pope Appeals For Peace Talks

VATICAN (UPI) — Pope Paul Thursday appealed to both sides in the Viet Nam war to extend the Christmas and New Year holiday truces into a full-fledged "armistice" for peace talks.

He said failure to take advantage of such a "golden opportunity" will be "fraught with danger."

(UN Secretary General Thant said in New York he hoped all parties involved in the war would "heed the Pope's appeal." Thant made a similar truce extension suggestion when he accepted re-election Friday.)

It was the pontiff's first specific public Viet Nam peace proposal since last Jan. 29 when the Communists ignored his plea for neutral arbitration of the war.

SINCERE TALKS

Speaking at a mass in St. Peter's Basilica, the pope urged the Communists and South Viet Nam, United States and the other free world allies to merge the 48-hour Christmas and New Year truces already announced into an extended cease fire.

"We earnestly beg and beseech ... that this truce become an armistice and that the armistice be the occasion for since negotiations, negotiations that will lead to peace," he said.

"We are aware that this possibility is favored by influential men," said the pope, who has discussed the Viet Nam conflict with a succession of world leaders in private audiences. "But why should it not win the consent of all?"

'HONOR OF ALL'

"Such a decision would redound to the honor and credit of all concerned, but the neglect of such a golden opportunity to bring an end to this sad episode of contemporary history will involve heavy responsibilities and be fraught with danger."

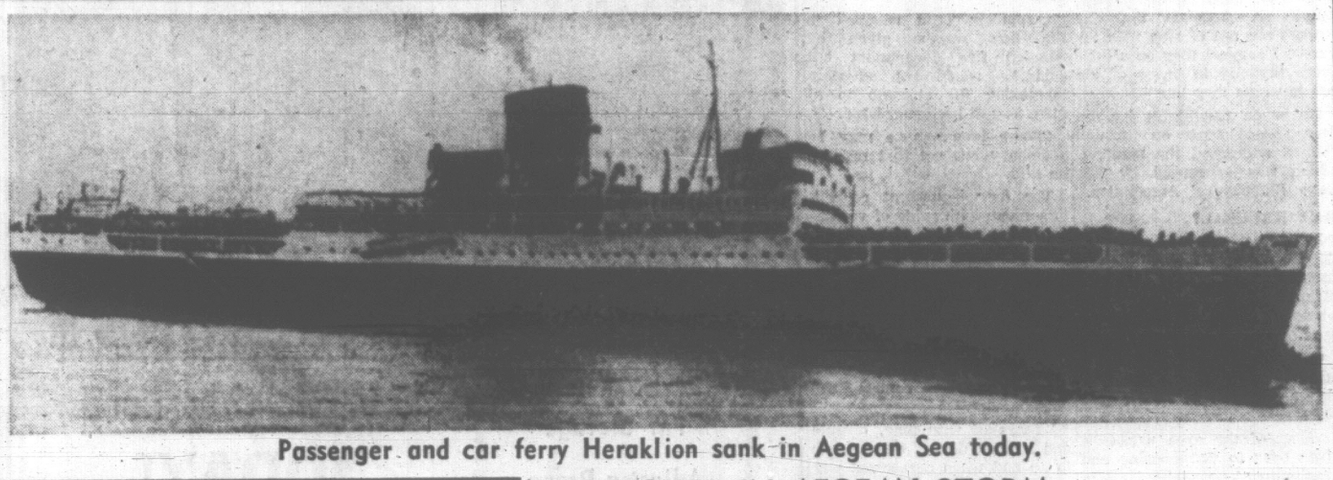

Among those with whom the pontiff has discussed peace proposals in recent months were Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, U.S. presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman and Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

But he gave no hint if any of these were among the "influential men" favoring extension of the holiday truces into an armistice.

IRAQ HIKES TENSION WITH OFFER OF TROOPS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq tightened the tension in the Middle East another notch today with reports that it was preparing to send troops into Syria to face the Israeli Army.

Baghdad radio said an Iraqi military delegation would visit Syria to confer on positions where the Iraqi troops could be stationed along the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

Passenger and car ferry Heraklion sank in Aegean Sea today.

Gov't Takeover Move Averted

From Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Labor Minister Jack Nicholson told an applauding Parliament today that the British Columbia dock tie-up is over.

At 11:40 a.m. Victoria time, he told the House that work was expected to resume on the West Coast within a matter of hours.

The minister stated both sides have agreed to the compromise proposal he made in Vancouver at the weekend to end the economy-crippling, almost three-week tie-up of shipping.

He said one additional condition has been added.

He will set up an industrial inquiry commission to inquire into the question of work stoppage with a view to recommending what might prevent any other such stoppages.

Nicholson told Parliament that the matter had been resolved within five minutes of his speaking to the House.

He said he had received confirmation in writing from one side — presumably the employees who had agreed to the proposal he made at the weekend — and he had received a wire from the other side.

He said certain supplementary clauses had to be added to the wire and he expected they would be sent out to Ottawa later today.

'One of the Few Occasions . . .'

Nicholson told the House when he got to his feet: "This is one of the few occasions that the minister of labor can act with some satisfaction. A problem that has been confronting Canada for the past several weeks seems to have been resolved."

He referred to the serious situation that had developed and said both sides had maintained that they had a certain position to maintain.

But he said because of the tie-up of grain, lumber, other forest products, and all other waterborne products, both sides had agreed to the proposals made and the appeals of Prime Minister Pearson and Premier Bennett.

The amicable solution resolved a tricky situation in Parliament.

When Nicholson sat down to applause, among those applauding was Gilles Gregoire, a Quebec separatist who defected from the Creditistes to sit as the independent member for Lapointe.

On Wednesday night he had refused to give unanimous consent for legislation the government wanted to bring in at a special session this morning to appoint a public administrator and re-open the docks.

Without unamimous consent, the government was required to give 48 hours' notice and the legislation could have been delayed until Friday.

Cabinet Met This Morning

Cabinet met early today to discuss the situation and how to handle it.

When the House opened at the normal time, 11:30 a.m. Vancouver time, Gregoire was in his seat at the far end of the chamber.

He had set as his price for consent an assurance that the St. Lawrence River would be kept in full operation this winter by means of ice-breaking.

Gregiore had been roasted by the Quebec press and commentators for the stand he had taken.

But when proceedings started it still was uncertain what he was going to do.

Gregoire, questioned by reporters, had said he was not sure of his action, and was awaiting what the government proposed.

But Nicholson's statement ended the impasse.

Gregoire joined in the applause.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said it was too bad that the ports could not have been opened sooner.

Trade Minister Robert Winters, who is responsible for the

White Whale Rescue Better Than Expo

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP)—An Edmonton salesman is convinced the 17 Beluga whales trapped near Inuvik should be saved as a Centennial project.

Peter Benson, of Edmonton, says saving the trapped white whales "would be a better Centennial project than Expo 67".

The whales swam last summer into the Eskimo Husky Lakes region 30 miles northeast of Inuvik and were trapped when winter ice started closing in.

Mr. Benson suggested the use of massive bonfires or large portable industrial heaters to keep open several air holes in the ice.

45 RESCUED IN AEGEAN STORM

235 Feared Drowned As Greek Ferry Sinks

(Times News Services)

ATHENS—The 9,000-ton Greek ferry Heraklion sank in a raging storm in the Aegean Sea early today with a heavy loss of life.

The Greek ministry of merchant marine said the Heraklion carried 210 passengers and 70 crew members and there were 45 known survivors. This would make the feared death toll 235 in one of the worst shipping disasters of the decade.

(The Typaldos Steamship Line office for Italy said in Venice it had received word the passenger ship Chanea, sister ship of the Heraklion, had picked up 62 passengers and crew members.)

The steam ferry was en route from the island of Crete to Piraeus, the port for Athens.

Cretans in Athens stormed the office of the Typaldos steamship office today, wild with anger and grief. They attacked with clubs and rocks which broke company windows but police kept them out.

The U.S. 6th Fleet rushed the aircraft carrier Shangri-La and a cruiser and a destroyer to the disaster area while U.S. Air Force planes flew in from Germany to aid the search for possible survivors. Helicopters fired flares which lit up the area.

King Constantine flew over the disaster area for five hours in his own plane to see the disaster that plunged the nation into shock and official mourning.

Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos declared a period of national mourning.

The justice ministry ordered a maritime commission formed of naval officers to open an investigation of the disaster.

The 17-year-old vessel was on a regular 10-hour overnight run from Crete when a great storm of the type once attributed to the anger of Zeus sank her near the rocks of Milos Island, where the Venus de Milo was found.

The Heraklion was built in Glasgow and first sailed as the British Leicestershire. Captained by E. Vernikos, she was one of three ferries operated between Crete and Piraeus by Typaldos brothers of Athens.

She was converted to carry a maximum 1,000 passengers and 300 automobiles.

The ship was making its

Roadside Tests Hit Vial Snag

The provincial government's plan to put its roadside suspension program into effect here and in Vancouver during the Christmas rush has run into a roadblock of its own.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he did not know whether a supply of cheap breath-test vials will be available in time.

He said it was "doubtful" but not impossible.

The vials would be used by police when invoking the still-unproclaimed amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act which would enable them to stop any motorist they suspected of having taken a drink.

Driving licences and car keys would be lifted for a 24-hour period if the vials showed a motorist's breath contained .08 per cent or more of blood-alcohol.

Mr. Bonner said a U.S. manufacturer had run into "some sort of technical difficulty in meeting our requirement that the device give a straight 'yes' or 'no' reading."

The firm now manufactures vials, filled with chemical crystals, which give graduate readings of blood-alcohol content when a subject blows into them but the department wants vials pre-set to change color only if the content is .08 per cent or more.

HELLYER:

Single Chief Key in New Unified Force

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Wednesday the appointment of a single chief of the defence staff was the keystone of the reorganized command structure.

It provided that one man would be responsible to the minister for the control and administration of the Canadian forces.

The new position combines the functions of the chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee and the Chiefs of Staff of the three services. It meant that the three services were no longer independent entities for the purpose of control and administration, said Mr. Hellyer.

"Thus military command and management came into line with the unified policy direction which was established with the appointment of a single minister responsible for defence in 1964," the minister added.

He spoke in the Commons when he moved for second reading of the bill to amend the National Defence Act and bring about the re-organization of the Canadian armed force.

TWO PARTS

The bill is divided into two parts. Part one relates to the structure of the Canadian forces and contains the provisions necessary for unification.

Part two contains a number of amendments consequential upon the changes made by part one and other amendment designed to simplify administration and to clarify and improve provisions of the code of service descipline.

In a 65-page speech he launched his campaign to convince Parliament that unification was the right move for the nation and essential for the armed forces.

After a one-day skirmish, the consideration of the unification bill was put off until a later date. A marathon debate is expected to develop when it again comes before the House.

Progressive Conservative Marcel Lambert of Edmonton provided the first reaction to Mr. Hellyer's actions.

Mr. Hellyer and the Canadian government was in effect converting Canada's forces into a peacekeeping force for the United Nations, said Mr. Lambert.

But peacekeeping is no longer "in good odor" at the UN, he contended.

RELY ON U.S.

"We would have to rely more and more on the U.S. to defend us in future attacks," he said.

"We would have to look to the presence of U.S. troops and installations on Canadian soil."

In this way Canada would

MOST AGAINST UN SANCTIONS

LONDON (AFP)—An opinion research survey published today by The Evening Standard indicates more people in Britain are against the government's proposals to ask the United Nations to impose mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia than are in favor.

Only one-third of British people believe that sanctions will force the Rhodesians to make a settlement.

FIRE KILLS 65 SOLDIERS IN BARRACKS

ANKARA (AFP) — Sixty-five soldiers were killed and another 27 severely injured by an explosion in the sleeping quarters of the Dumlu army barracks near Erzurum in eastern Turkey early today.

The explosion was followed by a rapidly spreading fire which caught the sleeping soldiers by surprise.

COURAGE, DETERMINATION HELPS KEEP FAMILY ALIVE

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

This is the tale of a Hong Kong woman who has nothing in the world — nothing but three children.

A heavy load of responsibility and great courage and determination are her other possessions.

And at an age when many women in Canada could sit back and enjoy their grandchildren and their garden club, her struggle is just beginning.

Although it began 10 years ago when her husband died, it is likely to go on well into old age.

She is now 52. Her two oldest children, a daughter, 17, and a 14-year-old boy, must work.

But her son brings in an income of only one dollar a month, and the girl not much more.

The mother's occupation: ragpicker.

Every day she scours the back streets of Hong Kong slums picking up scraps of paper.

She brings them home, then with great care she washes the bits of paper and hangs them out to dry.

When the process is finished, she sells the paper scraps which are made into cheap innersoles in a factory elsewhere in the city.

From this she earns 80 cents a day, which must feed, clothe and shelter herself and her family.

When the rain comes, she can't work. The paper can't be dried outdoors, and in her shack there is no room to hang it.

"During the rainy season," she says, "we add more water to our rice gruel at night."

And then she and her children pray that the rain will stop so she can continue her ragpicking.

This woman, and others like her in India, Hong Kong and Korea, are helped immensely by relief organization like the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund.

Contributions to the fund may be sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.

Home Warns Wilson Against Oil Sanctions

LONDON (UPI) — The opposition Conservative party demanded today that Prime Minister Wilson promise to veto any United Nations move to impose oil sanctions on South Africa.

The backlash from such sanctions could ruin Britain financially.

Former Conservative prime minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home asked Wilson in the House to give such an assurance before Foreign Secretary George Brown's UN Security Council speech.

'Canada Security' Reason for Bugs

(See story Page 9)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former assistant to a private detective accused of bugging rooms at a Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention said Wednesday he was told an investigation of Communist activity that could involve national security was the reason for the electronic eavesdropping.

Howard William McAnish told a royal commission inquiry into the bugging he was given the information by private detective Weldon (Bud) Graham.

Mr. McAnish said Mr. Graham claimed he was requested "by people he had worked with before to do certain things."

Mr. McAnish said he knew the private detective had worked for the RCMP security and intelligence branch and assumed the RCMP made the requests.

He said Graham gave the names "Braaten and McPhee" as persons alleged to be Communists. Angus McPhee is vice-president of the Canadian union and Orville Braaten is an executive board member of the union.

Ex-Officials Arrested

BELGRADE (UPI) — Yugoslavia has arrested two high officials of the former secret police dominated by ousted vice-president Aleksander Rankovic, informed sources said today. The arrested officials were Vojin Lukic, former federal secretary of internal affairs, and Zivotije-Srba Savic, who held the same post in the Serbian Republic appartus, the sources said.

CONTROLS B.C. PACKERS

Stunning Scope of Weston Empire Unfolds

OTTAWA (CP)—The stunning scope of the Weston - Loblaw food empire was unfolded for all to see today in a full disclosure of the names of its 150 active companies.

The extent of the great North American organization was made known simultaneously to shareholders and to the Senate-Commons committee investigating living costs.

Biggest surprises: A controlling interest in the Tamblyn drug chain and British Columbia Packers Ltd., largest fish-packing company in Canada.

The sales volume of the George Weston Ltd. and Loblaw Cos. Ltd. groups, now approaching $3,000,000,000 annually, is said to make them the fifth-largest merchandiser in the world.

Their assets are set at $793,000,000, including 1,850 supermarkets and retail outlets, interests in another 1,500 through franchise arrangements, 80 plants and 250 warehouses.

The empire's tentacles had already been considerably exposed this fall in hearings of the parliamentary committee.

The Weston-controlled Loblaw Groceterias Co. has testified that it owns or controls such food chains as Power Supermarkets Ltd., O.K. Economy Stores Ltd., National Grocers Co., and Kelly Douglas and Co.

WERE OTHER SURPRISES

Today's revelations include besides B.C. Packers and G. Tamblyn Ltd., such interests as the Dionne Ltd. supermarkets in Montreal, Donalds Dairy Ltd., Zehr's Markets Ltd., and Federal Farms Ltd., a produce company in Holland Marsh north of Toronto.

Some other new ones: Eplett Ice Cream Ltd. and Eplett Dairies Ltd. in Northern Ontario, Lane's Bakeries Ltd. in the Maritimes, Devon Dairies Ltd. in Toronto, and Universal Coolers Ltd. of Barrie.

After a corporate chart had been tabled before the committee, Weston lawyer Struan Robertson of Toronto told reporters it had been intended to disclose the complete group before long.

When the committee last month asked Loblaw Groceterias to name companies above and below it on its own chart, Weston executives decided it was the "appropriate time" for disclosure of the entire group.

MAY CALL OFFICIALS

The steering committee of the prices inquiry will consider calling Weston executives to testify. It has been reported that 30 per cent of the food industry in Canada is controlled by Weston-Loblaw.

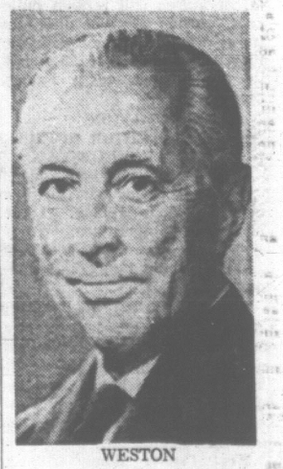

At the head of the Weston and Loblaw sections of the group are holding companies whose existence has helped keep secret the identity of some of the group's holdings.

Even the chart now public leaves out the names of several important non-operating companies whose activities are handled by the parent companies. These include such well-known names as Sunbeam Bakeries Ltd., Montreal Biscuit Co., and Paulin Chambers Ltd. The Canada-wide Red and White franchise belongs to the group.

Operating profit of the Weston and Loblaw sections was about $43,000,000 last year. After deducting minority interests, the group's share was $32,000,000.

Most of the business is in manufacturing, wholesaling and re-

Wheat Board, said that the Pacific grain transportation committee will be re-convened under William Riddell.

This group was formed earlier this year to co-ordinate grain movements and help facilitate export shipments through B.C. ports.

Winters told the House that he hoped that, with co-ordinated grain movements and co-operation from all sides, the Wheat Board would be able to keep its commitments in grain exports.

The tie-up has resulted in a back-up of loaded grain cars from the West Coast to the Prairies.

Alex Patterson, (SC—Fraser Valley) said he hoped satisfactory procedures would be established to safeguard the national economy from a repetition of what has happened.

And Nicholson got a pat on the back from Raymond Langlois, the Creditiste member from Megantic.

He said it was always easy to criticize, but he wanted to congratulate Nicholson for a good job.

regular 10-hour overnight run from Iraklion, capital of Crete, to Piraeus.

Strong gales were sweeping the area at the time of the ship's last radio message, and the marine ministry earlier had warned small ships to stay in port.

The Heraklion went down about 90 miles south of Piraeus.

The Heraklion was plowing through the Gulf of Candia at the lower end of the Aegean when the storm worsened.

"Huge waves are smashing our sides and water is pouring in," the captain radioed. "S-O-S . . . we are sinking." And then there was silence. At the scene there was only scattered debris and a great quantity of oranges and tangerines from the cargo bobbing about in the waves.

In the first hours after the disaster, the merchant marine ministry said there appeared to be no hope of survivors. But as ships and planes converged on the disaster site wreckage and people were seen in the water. Planes dropped lifebelts and rafts.

At noon Marine Minister Isidore Mavridoglou announced that 11 survivors had been picked up and that others were still in the water.

During the afternoon the total of those recovered rose.

CLING TO RAFTS

Survivors were clinging desperately to three rafts among a litter of floating wreckage. Near them, an automobile bobbed about on the rough sea.

The planes dipped overhead and dropped life jackets, rubber boats and medical supplies and the first nine survivors were later picked up by a ship, a merchant marine ministry spokesman said.

Businessmen, villagers, students, tourists and servicemen filed on to the ferry at Chanea Wednesday night. On board with them went cars, trucks loaded with oranges, and hens and pigs which the villagers were taking to friends in Athens for Christmas.

Some of the survivors were found clinging to the rocks of the uninhabited island of Falconera in the Cyclades Islands where according to Greek mythology lived the Gorgon Medusa whose gaze turned people to stone.

There were scenes of hysteria at Piraeus, the sprawling port five miles from Athens. Men and women crowded the docking area begging for news and old women who believed relatives to be on board tore their hair and screamed.

There was more hysteria in the Cretan towns of Canea and Rethmnon, the homes of the ill-fated passengers. Relatives flocked to the churches to pray on the island.

The sinking of the Heraklion was one of a series of post-war disasters to Greek ships. The cruise ship Lakonia burned and sank during a Christmas cruise in the Atlantic two years ago and 128 persons died. Europe's worst post-war maritime disaster was the sinking of the Himera, which went down off Athens in 1947 with a loss of 392 lives.

ultimately become a satrap of the U.S. and how much acceptance of Canada's peacekeeping forces would there be at the UN if Canada became a satrap of the U.S.? he asked.

Mr. Hellyer, defending his bill which is the final instrument for the unification of the armed forces ushering in a single uniform and single rank structure, told the House:

"The object of this bill is not to destroy and erase at one stroke the traditions of the past but to build, on the solid foundation we have forged, a strong and viable force to meet Canada's needs of tomorrow.

IMPOSE RESTRICTIONS

"Those needs are not readily predictable in a rapidly changing world. But it can be said with assurance that Canada's influence in the years ahead and its capacity to act in favor of peace and settlement of disputes that endanger peace will grow with its own development," said the minister.

Canada's military organization should not be circumscribed in any way, including inherited traditional means of organization, from developing into a force to best meet the demands that may be placed on it in the years ahead, Mr. Hellyer said.

He said that he believed that the present division into three separate service components imposed restrictions. These barriers should be removed both in the interests of the most effective military forces for the future and in the interest of the men and women who belong to the force.

Community Seminar Set On Education

Greater Victoria school board and the greater Victoria Teachers' Association are sponsoring a community conference on education to be held on two successive weekends in January.

The conference, to be held at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel, will deal with all aspects of the educational system. It is intended to not only acquaint interested persons with what is going on in the system but to hear their views on it.

The conference will be held on a Friday evening and a Saturday morning of successive weekends. It is being split up to accommodate the large audience that is expected to attend.

Invited to attend are representatives of service clubs, the armed forces, municipal councils, social welfare groups, department of education, police, political parties, trade unions and management and professional organizations.

LUM CRITICIZES LACK OF FACILITIES AT DOUGLAS PARK

City 'Living in Horse, Buggy Days'

Victoria's city aldermen are still living in the horse and buggy days, Saanich Councillor Edward Lum told an all-candidates meeting in Royal Oak Wednesday night.

He criticized the council for not installing boating facilities at Mount Douglas Park.

"This is an age of boating for recreation," Mr. Lum said. Our city fathers seem to have forgotten that Mount Douglas Park was deeded to them for the use and enjoyment of the public at all times.

"If two acres out of 400 cannot be used by the boating public, it suggests the city fathers are out of step with the times. I suggest they do a little more thinking in terms of the era in which they live."

All seven candidates for the four vacant seats on Saanich council addressed the meeting, which was sponsored by Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association.

WHY REFUSAL?

During the question period they were asked why Saanich council had refused to allow Eaton's to build a combined wholesale and retail store in the area.

Councillor Lum said he voted against the application because Eaton's proposed to build a 50,000-square-foot warehouse.

"Most of the area would be given over to warehousing and distribution," he said.

Councillor Allan Newberry said he also opposed the warehouse development.

"I don't want Saanich to be another Burnaby," he said. "In any case, Eaton's have indicated they have a new proposal in mind and will be coming back to Saanich council.

"I shall be very surprised if, by the end of next year, we don't see an Eaton's store in Saanich."

Reeve Hugh Curtis said he felt Eaton's should have been encouraged to build in Saanich.

"I shall encourage them to come back rather than find a location elsewhere," he said.

George Harvey, speaking from the audience, said he understood Eaton's project for Saanich would be 60 per cent warehouse and 40 per cent retail.

SWAN LAKE SMELL

Councillor Leslie Passmore was questioned concerning the smell from Swan Lake.

He did not agree that the runoff from the sewage treatment plant in the municipal yard was responsible.

"Any water from the plant is chlorinated. The reason for the smell is that the lake is shallow. It takes the effluence from two wineries, as well as the seepage from the septic tanks north of the lake.

"Swan Lake will continue to smell until there are sewers in the entire surrounding area," Councillor Passmore said.

Douglas Brown, making his second bid for council, said it was regrettable that voters did not have a sewer consolidation referendum before them.

"The four incumbents (councillors) are only paying lip service when they say they would like to see a solution if they don't put such a referendum before us," Mr. Brown said.

Raymond Hayes, also seeking a seat for council a second time, said it would be unwise to have a referendum on sewage consolidation until ratepayers had more information on the subject.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said he disagreed with council members who had opposed the referendum.

"However, I do feel that the Saanich council of 1967 will agree that the establishment of a single enterprise is wise, most economical in the long run and absolutely necessary if we are to expand our sewerage facilities in a major and progressive way."

Councillor Harold Todd said the sewer consolidation referendum was held in abeyance because much of the information sought by ratepayers was unavailable.

"Until all the details can be put before the ratepayers, they should not be asked to vote on the matter," he said.

Councillor Todd also spoke of the lack of hospital beds for Saanich and said the provincial government should contribute more to hospitals.

"It is unfair that property owners should be saddled with half the cost of hospitals," he said.

Councillor Todd referred to the fine service given by Saanich fire department but said he would not advocate increasing the strength to 80 men, as had been suggested.

"Some increase may be necessary but not that many," he said.

The four incumbent councillors spoke with pride of various projects accomplished during the past year.

Reeve Curtis said only a few technicalities have to be completed before the nine-acre, city-owned Gorge Park, on the Saanich side of the Gorge waterway, is turned over to the municipality for control and development.

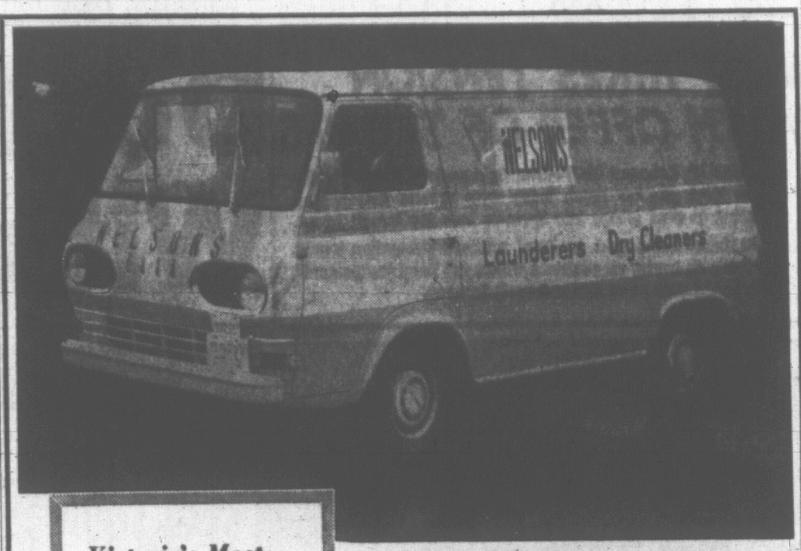

"Years of wrangling, dispute and a great deal of effort came to an end when agreement was reached between Saanich and Victoria concerning Gorge Park," he said.

Reeve Curtis said he hoped Saanich would be able to proceed with a low-rental public housing authority in 1967.

He regretted that Saanich is still without its own police court.

"There has been no change in the attitude of the attorney-general's department in the past year, and it is continuingly frustrating to see that fine courtroom in our Saanich police-fire building sitting empty."

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

A few snow showers persisted along the southern mainland overnight but elsewhere along the B.C. coast skies were mainly clear. Minimum temperatures ranged from a chilly 14 at Prince Rupert to near 30 on Vancouver Island. Quesnel was coldest in the interior with 22 below zero early this morning.

Steadily rising pressures promise mainly sunny weather for coastal areas Friday but temperatures will remain quite cold. Arctic air will maintain its grip in the interior with the mercury dropping to 20 below in the Cariboo early Friday morning.

'JUST WALK IN'

Price Probers Going on Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary food prices committee will hit the road to hear from consumers across the country, members told delegates to an organizing convention for a national consumers' protest group Wednesday night.

Reid Scott, NDP member of Parliament for Toronto - Danforth, told about 50 delegates the committee decided to go to the consumers "because they can't afford to send delegates here."

M. T. McCutcheon, Conservative MP for Lambton Kent who also addressed the meeting, said later the committee will probably be on the road by Feb. 1, 1967.

The group will hear from organized consumers' groups and individuals who can "just walk in—like they did tonight."

The MPs got some animated backchat from the delegates, mostly women, who came from Toronto, Montreal, Windsor, Fort William, Port Arthur, Hamilton, Brantford, Halifax and Saint John.

Groups from Vancouver and Winnipeg were held up in Toronto when their plane was grounded.

ORGANIZES MEETING

The meeting was organized by Mrs. Lawrence Wilson of Manotick, a small community just outside Ottawa. She started the supermarket boycott movement here about two months ago.

Briefs have already been submitted to the Ottawa group by protest organizations across the country. An economist heading the research branch of Mrs. Wilson's group is condensing them for submission.

Mrs. Wilson said the national organization might arrange a coast - to - coast boycott "on a given product or a given chain of stores."

She said the Ottawa boycott had resulted in food prices going down about seven per cent since Nov. 1.

"But this is the crucial period. We can't just stop now."

HITS AGENCIES

In his speech, Mr. Scott said advertising agencies are "a bunch of bandits who beam TV advertising at children before they can even talk."

Later he told reporters advertising agencies had told the parliamentary committee they sold children on cereal by identifying it with a cartoon character.

Children would then "blackmail" their mother into buying the brand at the supermarket when she was rushed and had other small children in tow.

He said advertising should tell "the worth of the product and its advantages."

In his speech, he said a permanent prices review board for the food industry "might be able to stop the gouging and profiteering."

Warren Allmand, Liberal member for Montreal - Notre-Dame-de-Grace, told delegates the food committee's report would possibly recommend a department of consumer affairs, which could investigate and lay charges on complaints from consumers.

EXPECTED SOON

The committee's interim report is expected about mid-December. Mr. Allmand said it might also contain recommendations on grading of products and size and labelling of packages "so you could tell what was in there besides air and water."

He advised the group to direct their action also to provincial governments.

SHE'S HORRIFIED

Mrs. James Palmer of Halifax told the MPs she was "horrified and amazed" that they asked consumers to go back and do research on their local food situations.

"We're paying you to do it. It's a racket. You know it's there. We can't do any more than we're doing."

Delegates hooted when Mr. Scott said "we don't have a lot of money either."

UNIFICATION WILL SINK NAVY: LANDYMORE

By IAN DONALSON

HALIFAX (CP)—Rear - Admiral William Landymore intensified his attack on unification of the armed services Wednesday, describing the program as a threat to Canada's defence and his opposition to it as the most important duty of his career.

The former sea operations chief, fired last summer by Defence Minister Hellyer for opposing the unification plan, released a 29-page brief which he had written for the Commons defence committee but which he now feels will never be presented.

The brief blasted the unification program as uneconomic, demoralizing, destructive and little more than "change for the sake of change."

The 50-year-old admiral, veteran of 30 years and two wars in the Canadian navy, said unification presents "potential danger to the country's defence," threatens morale and will lead to a crippling exodus of serving officers and men.

Admiral Landymore, who survived the 1940 sinking of the destroyers Fraser and Margaree, said unification will sink the navy with projected reductions in manpower leaving eight or nine destroyers without crews by as early as next June.

The brief says the admiral was dismissed three days before he publicly criticized unification last July 15. And his private refusal to co-operate with the minister's program—not his public criticism of it—was the true reason for his dismissal.

The brief also describes how naval officers reacted to unification. "They tried desperately to tell me they didn't like the idea," the admiral said. "I couldn't escape the message they gave me—they were pinning their hopes on me to do something to save the navy."

He said "the public has been duped into believing unification is the end all and be all of integration. I predict it will be the end of effective defence of Canada and I don't envy you (the committee) your task of explaining your mistake if you support it."

New uniforms for a unified force — uniforms most serving officers and men don't want—would cost $60,000,000. Canada could build two fleet replenishment ships for the same amount.

The brief asks the defence committee to call an immediate halt to all processes of unification and launch a thorough inquiry into the program.

Effectiveness of the armed services would be impaired for years "due to misplaced enthusiasm for the untimely experiment of unification."

The program would leave Canada's defence "woefully inadequate" and would prohibit the country from meeting its commitments to NATO.

Admiral Landymore said chiefs of staff in Britain, the United States and all NATO countries were convinced that navies have a distinct and separate role to play.

He describes unification as futile, expensive, folly, dangerous and destructive.

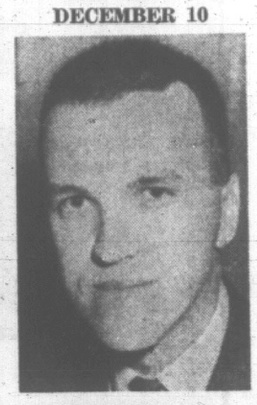

Property Returned

JAKARTA (AP) — Indonesia's cabinet presidium decided Wednesday to return all foreign property seized during the confrontation against Malaysia, government sources said. Plans are under way to increase production of the seized plantations and companies but, the sources said, this meant returning them to foreign control.

A Wasteful Method

THE RECENT HALT IN ACtivity on the docks, like other stoppages of essential business in Canada during the past year, gave a clear demonstration of the need for bargaining procedures which will avoid these costly and destructive industrial lapses.

The provision of vital services to the public, including utilities, transportation, handling of cargo for ships and other carriers, public security and health media, and similar activities essential to the existence of a community or nation, cannot be permitted to break down every time there is a difference of opinion between management and labor. It is serious enough when production is held up for days or weeks in routine industries; the situation becomes impossible when the lifelines of organized society are snarled and cut.

The longshoring controversy involved directly only a handful of men seeking unionization. Yet stemming from their strike, the slowdown of work crews, the refusal of stevedoring companies to hire without assurance that normal labor will be performed—from this tragic sequence of disagreement unemployment spread in a host of enterprises—lumber camps, mills, other forms of transport, and so on.

The federal government rightly gave the disputing parties a fair period of time in which to reach agreement without governmental intervention, then prepared legislation to establish an administrator who would temporarily manage the docks. But a last-minute compromise solution has now settled the dispute.

This is a late but workable solution to meet an emergency, but it is not the answer to the whole array of management-labor problems. We spend millions in research on health, scientific advance, various economic and social programs. Yet the periodic dislocation of production throughout this country — and many other countries besides — is emerging as a very serious threat to our realization of the riches that our resources can provide us. Millions of dollars a year are lost through our inability to find early answers to wage, jurisdictional and similar disputes. The morbid and expensive charade of strike or lockout holds the stage until, inevitably, a solution is found. Surely the need to end this mutually destructive system warrants the investment of large sums to find a remedy.

Two rights are involved: the right of management to operate its property and equipment in the way it sees best for the prosperity of the enterprise; and the right of the worker to a fair return for his labor —a return which in these days includes provision for his future as well as his present needs. These rights must be protected. But in cases of essential services they are not the only rights to be considered. The rights of the public, of the local or national community, must also be firmly asserted where the well-being of society—which includes proprietors and workers—is threatened.

This indicates a need for basic legislation which would effect fair agreements without the attrition of imposed unemployment. It also suggests attention to the matter of real wages rather than money wages—the actual value of the pay cheque in purchasing goods rather than the size of the figures on it. This has been urged by both extremes of the economic spectrum—the federal experts who chart the nation's economic course and no less a champion of labor than Mr. Colin Cameron, MP, who recently emphasized the importance of the relationship between productivity and wages (and profits) in combating inflation.

The present archaic system of industrial agreement through attrition is just not good enough in a world that is making amazing strides forward in almost every other field of human endeavor. In the closely knit economy of our increasingly crowded twentieth-century world, it is society as a whole that suffers most from the attrition. Eventually society as a whole will have to devise and establish a workable alternative.

Doubt on Restrictive Measures

MR. G. ARNOLD HART, PRESIdent of the Bank of Montreal, was widely quoted as saying in his recent address to the bank's annual meeting that Canada's economy no longer needs additional monetary restraints to fight inflation in view of the indications of uncertainty in the current economic outlook.

What Mr. Hart actually said was something a little different. The quotation was taken slightly out of context from a press release, rather than from the speech itself, and the distinction is important. Mr. Hart said that "there are enough signs of uncertainty in the economic picture to raise serious doubts about the necessity for any further restrictive measures right now." This is quite different from saying that the inflation situation has been beaten, as the erroneous quotation seemed to imply. Earlier in the speech, the bank president indicated his concern over rapidly rising prices "not only because of the inequities and distortions created within the economy but also because of their potential impact on Canada's international trade."

Mr. Hart's quarrel with restrictive monetary policy, which is expressed in high interest rates and shortage of funds to lend, is two-pronged. In the first place he is unhappy over the situation which has resulted because the heaviest impact of restriction falls on the chartered banks while non-bank financial institutions have been able to a degree to avoid the restraining influences.

This means that the chartered banks have been placed in an invidious position with regard to growth of assets and are not advancing at as rapid a pace as the non-bank institutions. This is a legitimate grievance for a bank president to express but it is not necessarily a legitimate reason to ease off monetary restraints.

Mr. Hart's second point is that "if the government considers that it is necessary to reduce still further the demand pressures in the economy, then I think it should take the lead . . ." Beyond mentioning that almost 19 per cent of the Gross National Product is now being spent by all levels of government, Mr. Hart ventures no further into this labyrinth and no wonder, for the problem of checking government spending — at all levels — is one of the most perplexing puzzles facing the nation.

What is to be lopped off? Mr. Hart and others who call for less government spending must be more specific if they are to be credible.

A Commendable Statement

THE CATHOLIC WOMEN'S League of Canada merits commendation for the clear enunciation it has made of its views on divorce.

"While we do not believe in divorce ourselves," says a submission made by the League to the parliamentary committee considering the subject, "we cannnot expect the laws of this country to be used in such a manner as to prevent those who, unlike ourselves, do not believe that marriage is monogamous and indissoluble, from acting in accordance with their own religious convictions."

The Catholic Women's League of Canada is not the first group within that denomination to express this opinion. But it has a stature which should carry weight with members of parliament holding power to change the law.

"Anything special you'd like for Christmas . . .?"

FROM WASHINGTON — By WALTER LIPPMANN

Variables in the Johnson Quagmire

THERE is general agreement that the election returns and the polls which have followed them show that Mr. Johnson is in deep political trouble. No one can say exactly how deep the trouble is. On this question opinions differ. In the White House the optimistic guess is that the incumbent president is usually re-elected (although Herbert Hoover was not re-elected), and that Mr. Johnson would be re-elected if he had the luck to find Mr. Nixon running against him.

Lippmann

The more common view, which is held by many who are very close to the President himself, is that unless the fighting can be wound up by the end of 1967, Mr. Johnson could be defeated by any reputable Republican, such as Governor Romney, and that in any event the Democratic nomination will be worthless.

Guessing about what may happen two years hence is a very uncertain business. How many were there in 1950 for example who were at all sure that General Eisenhower would be nominated and elected in 1952? His many admirers were Democrats and no one could be really certain that he would become a Republican president. So also, nobody was sure of Kennedy in 1958 or of Franklin Roosevelt in 1930. Two years are a long time in American politics. Who could have been sure even the year before the election that Harry Truman, whose popularity had fallen very low, would be re-elected? And who would have guessed that after his triumphant election Lyndon Johnson's popularity would fall to a point that there are some observers today who wonder whether he will not withdraw before 1968?

Alternatives

In attempting to guess what may happen in 1968 there are, it seems, three main variables. The first is the course of the war and the secondary consequences of the war, the high cost of living and the virtual stoppage of internal development and reform. The second variable is how Mr. Johnson will react to the trouble he is now in. The third variable is whether the Republican party will know how to exploit the dazzling opportunity which is open to it.

As for the course of the war, the most optimistic responsible view, for example that of Ambassador Lodge, is that in 1967 the Viet Cong may give up large-scale operations and return to guerrilla warfare. In view of the enormous superiority of American weapons, Ambassador Lodge's guess would appear to be a reasonable forecast. But it offers little or no prospect that the war will end and American troops can be disengaged.

There are wishful thinkers who say that if large-scale combat is terminated in 1967, "final victory" (whatever that may mean) will be in sight. All the reports I hear from observers who have talked to the principals in Saigon agree on the expectation that the guerrilla war would probably last from ten to twenty years.

It is reasonable to assume that the war now being fought will not be terminated — by victory or by negotiation — in 1967. It is therefore extremely probable that the whole package of programs, known as the Great Society, will not be carried forward and will be cut back.

Personality Question

The second variable in the political calculation is the personality of Lyndon Johnson. There are quite expert observers of politics and of the president himself who think that he would choose to overcome the unpopularity of the war and its consequences by stirring up a war fever. He is certainly toying with the idea, as his most recent aspersions on his critics show — aspersions, be it said, by the head of an administration which is living in a glass house and should be careful about throwing stones.

Since conducting the war as at present will not do, since arousing a great war fever would divide the country bitterly, wreck the Democratic party for a generation, and would probably not cure Mr. Johnson's political troubles, we must look at the other course which is open to him. It is to recognize the fact that while American intervention has prevented a defeat of the South Vietnamese government, it has achieved only a military stalemate in Indochina. President Johnson is the commander-in-chief in a war the declared purposes of which have not been achieved and are not within range of being achieved.

It is the president's refusal to recognize the military and political reality that stands in the way of a cease-fire and a negotiated settlement. It is not easy for Lyndon Baines Johnson to swallow the bitter pill of recognizing the fact that he is in a war which he cannot win. It would take a man of noble stature and of the highest moral courage to do that. There is no reason to think that Mr. Johnson is such a man. But if he were, if he dared to settle the war, he would find himself riding a surging wave of confidence and gratitude and popularity at home and abroad.

The third variable in the political calculation is whether, as the Johnson administration flounders in its quagmire, the Republicans will unite under someone who does not divide and in fact unites the voters. That is to say, on another Eisenhower. It is easy to argue that none of the Republican possibilities now being mentioned is such a man. But the truth is, I believe, that in politics necessity is sometimes the mother of invention, and if the only way out of the quagmire is to elect a Republican it is not improbable that there will come forward a Republican to elect.

FROM CALGARY — By JAMES H. GRAY

Under the Holy Blanket

IF there is one posture Alberta Social Crediters assume with greater alacrity than any other, it is self-righteousness. It is difficult, of course, for any group of people to hold power as long as the Socreds have done — 30 years — without becoming infected with superman and Messianic complexes. The extent to which a "holier-than-thou" attitude permeates Alberta politics was illustrated in Edmonton last week in what might be called the Turcott affair.

Gray

Garth Turcott is the new NDP member for Pincher Creek who was elected in a recent by-election. The legislature was called to approve of the fiscal agreement reached in Ottawa this fall. Mr. Turcott arose to demand that a legislative committee launch an investigation into conflict of interest charges against former and present cabinet ministers and a former deputy minister.

Premier Manning came down on Mr. Turcott like the walls of Jericho. He said:

"This is the same malicious gossip peddled from one end of the province to the other by your party. The Government will not regard slander and the bandying about of malicious charges as business of the House. As long as we are responsible to the people of Alberta, we will never lower the dignity of the House."

Then he said, according to the Edmonton Journal, if the government were to deal with all the charges of this kind, there would be no room for public business.

What must strike the objective observer as passing strange is Mr. Manning's choice of words. Far from spreading what Mr. Manning called "malicious gossip and slander," Mr. Turcott was only quoting court records and public statements.

This latest uproar in Alberta stems from a long drawn-out series of lawsuits over the failure of the Edmonton Airport Hotel. During these proceedings, the original promoter swore that the original agreement called for him to transfer 10 per cent of the shares in the company to E. W. Hinman, provincial treasurer, 10 per cent to Arthur Arnold, former deputy minister of public works, and 5 per cent to N. A. Tanner, former minister of resources.

Legal Contract

When reached by the Calgary Herald to confirm the arrangement, Senator Harper Prowse said that "there was a legal contract if anyone wished to enforce it."

According to the Herald story, the transcript quoted Mr. Arnold as explaining that his 10 per cent was as a finder's fee for securing a mortgage from Credit Foncier for the hotel. In respect to Mr. Hinman's alleged involvement, Mr. Manning when asked earlier brushed the query aside as being Mr. Hinman's private business.

But can members of a Government engage in private business while ministers of the Crown?

If the answer is "yes" as it obviously is in Alberta, how can public suspicion of influence peddling be avoided? Or the suspicion that cabinet ministers may be using information gained as cabinet ministers for their private gain?

Looking Back

From The Times of Dec. 8, 1906:

On Tuesday evening of next week a public meeting will be held at the city hall to form a Canadian club for this city. The meeting is being called by the preliminary committee.

This committee met again last evening and completed its report, the major portion of which will consist of a suggested constitution for the new organization almost identical with those of Canadian clubs in other parts of Canada. The purpose of the club is to foster patriotism.

Inconsistent?

To refute the claims of the obvious anti-fluoridation campaign now flourishing, I should think that the statement of our Minister of National Health and Welfare, the Honourable Allen J. MacEachen, as given April 20, 1966, should convince a clear-thinking public which path to take.

He said: "Perhaps the most important preventative measure is the fluoridation of water supplies. I think it is correct to say that this is the most effective, safest and least costly method of reducing the need for dental care. The dental profession, the medical profession, the Hall Commission, and countless other professional, scientific and community organizations have given unequivocal endorsation to fluoridation. I can assure you that my department regards the fluoridation of water supplies as an important public health measure and you will be pleased to know that steps are already being taken to fluoridate water supplies under federal jurisdiction.

The British Ministry of Health recently had this to say about fluoridation:

"Rarely has any health measure been the subject of so much study and research. Every allegation of harm has been painstakingly assessed. The safety of the measure has now been placed beyond doubt."

Can any statement carry greater authority and conviction? — B. Kjekstad, President of Victoria District Dental Society.

Compulsion

The point at issue is whether or not an individual or group of people has the right to compel others to drink water, against their will, to which sodium fluoride has been added.

Vote no on fluoridation so that each person may exercise his right to determine what is beneficial or otherwise for his own body. — J. E. W. Collis, 921

Faith In Fluoridation

By special ballot the executive members of Willows P.T.A. have approved the following statement.

"The Executive Members of Willows PTA wish to make known to all parents and other voters in Oak Bay that we place more faith in the following responsible groups which endorse fluoridation than in the miscellaneous layman's group which wishes to defeat it. After intensive and careful study, the following professionad groups endorse fluoridation; Canadian Dental Association, Canadian Medical Association, Canadian Public Health Association, National Research Council, U.S.A., United States Public Health Service, American Dental Association, Federation Dentaire Internationale, World Health Organization, and our own responsible doctors and dentists in this community upon whom we rely for sound advice in personal health matters." — W. J. Williams, President Willows PTA.

Hands Held Out

Those of us who can remember the First World War will perhaps call to mind a popular song of those days, "Hold your hand out — naughty boy." The first four words seem to have taken a firm hold in many quarters.

People hold their hands out for the most extraordinary projects. Sturdy independence and the now outmoded idea of "if you can't afford it, go without it" has gone down the drain with many another worthwhile concept. Now it is "let anyone pay so long as we get it." What we need is a change from "Hold your hand out" to "Paddle your own canoe."—L. F. H.

Protest

Sterile Thinking

Re F. C. Brown's dissertation and defence of South Africa in which is exhibited the sterility of much of the white man's thinking . . . please spare us that old ointment about the 30,000 immigrants who believe in South African policies.

Belief has nothing to do with the propositions which take the majority into the land of unparalleled privilege and slavery . . . it's the promised plums for the chosen few that does it, pal.

I know because I was once signed-up, along with a band of people who were solely inspired by assisted passages and the quick jump from the work bench to the unwarranted superiority of Supervisory Boss.

Even so, some of the 30,000 have gotten much more than they bargained for . . . like house arrest and the inescapable fear of being, quote "murdered in our beds one night." — Mrs. E. L. Bailey, 728 Haliburton Rd.

A Christian Disgrace

What a disgrace that a constitutionally Christian country should appeal to a constitutionally Godless United Nations Organization for help against Christian Rhodesia. And Canada, under present leadership is all for it. Something wrong there surely! — E. W. Abraham, 1125 Faithful.

Riddle of Truth

Truth in art as interpreted by Robin Skelton is quite arbitrary and fortunately not the last word acceptable on the subject.

Canadian Labor Looks For 'The Good Life'

By GERALD CLARK

(This is the fourth in a series of articles by Mr. Clark. Today he examines the new militancy in labor and its relationship to the general restlessness to be found among Canadians.)

The new militancy of labor is often referred to as evidence of today's ferment.

One of the country's leading authorities on industrial relations, Dean H. D. Woods of McGill University, explains it thus:

Clark

"Perhaps for the first time in history, the public not only has expectations that 'the world owes me a living,' but 'it owes me a good living.' In the 1930s we would have been satisfied with job security. Now almost everyone has a kind of security built automatically into the growth of the community. The good life, therefore, means not only security but higher and higher income."

When the "good life" appears slow in coming — according to this analysis — we have strikes.

Another point intrudes. Public servants and professionals for the first time are conscious of the power of collective bargaining. A few years ago it was unheard of for teachers, nurses, postmen, to join unions and walk off their jobs to enforce wage demands.

Break in Line

For one thing, belonging to a union was considered a loss of distinction, a break in the line that separated white-collar from blue-collar workers.

A change in social values, however, has been hastened by a glaring anomaly: During a long period of prosperity, any benefits from wage increases have been cut in half by the rising cost of living, while business profits have nearly doubled.

But are these factors — economic factors — the only ones?

The psychologists say "no." They say that the unrest of labor is complicated by deeper reasons than the demand only for a bigger piece of the pie or the urge to own a 1966 Chevrolet instead of a 1962 model.

Here the belief is that man has such innate lust for competition or conflict that even if labor and management should reach perfect equilibrium — agreement on wages and work conditions — there still would be inevitable strife.

The element of "status" alone would dictate this. Who, for instance, would have the greater standing in the public eye: The union leader or the corporation chief?

The trade unionist rejects this gloomy postulation about man's primitive streak. Instead, he adds another ingredient: The craving for dignity.

To C. H. Millard, the retired head of the United Steelworkers of Canada, the whole business boils down to the struggle for "recognition." Not in the sense of recognition of unions as bargaining agencies — an accepted principle now — but rather the recognition that "the worker is a human being who wants and needs respect."

Being Stared at

Millard, a gentle, pensive man, puts it graphically in terms of his own first job, on a General Motors assembly line in Oshawa. General Motors encouraged potential customers by inviting them on tours of the plant. Millard still shows bitterness as he recalls being stared at by well-dressed men and women.

"I felt," he says, "like a monkey in a cage."

That was his first conscious stirring in the search for dignity and now, in retrospect, he admits that economics must have complicated matters. In those days — the mid 1930s — it was a fanciful dream for a working man to think of owning his own home or a car. Maybe, Millard figures now, he resented the plant visitors' apparent capacity for possessions he could not enjoy.

But today, as he points out, nearly everyone boasts a car or a television set, so that physical assets or status symbols no longer are lacking.

Millard sums up the struggle this way: "When I was a boy, my father was my hero. I think it was the same for every boy, regardless of the work his father did. Today a boy resents it if his father is just a 'working man,' if he hasn't attained some kind of recognition."

Since material comforts are not sufficient compensation, what are the answers?

Millard is not at all sure. No legislation can force industry into the kind of recognition that he seeks for labor. And yet some beginnings are possible, and here Millard turns to the example of Sweden, where labor is given a fair degree of participation in management.

For another labor specialist, Pierre Vadeboncoeur of Quebec's Confederation of National Trade Unions, the operative word, in French, comes out the same way: dignite.

He illustrates: In the construction industry of Montreal there are, inevitably, deaths due to accidents on the job. Yet safety standards are set by engineers and managers — not by men directly involved in the work and running the risks.

Vadeboncoeur illustrates further: If a large company decides to start a new factory it picks the place and time to suit itself and neither consideration may be in the interest of the community at large.

"When a small group," he is convinced, "decides on its own a matter that affects a large group, we are heading into anarchy."

Thus, he sounds much the same as Millard when he says: "It is not only a question of economic security. It is a question of dignity, and who will decide what for whom."

More Planning

Vadeboncoeur calls for an increased measure of planning by society, or government. Millard also says that government leadership must help to find the answers.

It is an odd fact, so frequently overlooked — Millard observes — that the general manager or president who sits across the bargaining table from a labor representative does not own the plant; he is salaried, too. But an inequality of status persists because of an inherent notion that labor must be kept in its place.

Millard is well aware that the same kind of status conflict even intrudes in unions, with local leaders challenging the authority or prestige of national leaders.

He is also frank in saying that trade unions themselves are largely responsible for fomenting a materialist concept, certainly in the earlier days of the labor movement, by demanding bigger wages as though these would solve all problems.

Now trade unionists are groping for other answers because they know that higher wages and greater fringe benefits are not providing total satisfaction. And, since the search entails "dignity," an elusive and hard to define objective, the restlessness will be with us for a long time.

THE GALLUP POLL

Canadian Majority Favors Recognition of Red China

While the United Nations again debated the issue of whether or not Communist China should be given a seat in that international body, Canadians were showing a steady increase in those who feel that our country should now recognize the government of mainland China.

Over the past seven years Gallup Poll interviewers have sounded public opinion on this question. In 1959 only about a third of the population (32%) favored recognition of and diplomatic relations with Red China. Today more than half the voters (55%) feel this way.

The question: "Do you think Canada should or should not recognize the Communist government in China, that is, appoint an ambassador to China and have dealings with that country?"

The Rotting Log Is Host To Many Forms of Life

By DR. CLIFFORD CARL
Director, Provincial Museum

The rotting long on the forest floor is more than just a tree-trunk attacked by decay — it is the means of livelihood for a host of creatures, both plant and animal and in the meantime it represents just one step in a cycle that involves all living things.

Carl

The fallen tree may persist for decades before completely disintegrating or it may disappear into the soil in a few seasons. The speed of the breaking down process is controlled by many factors: the amount of available moisture, the temperature, the organisms present and its own resistance to decay. A log completely immersed in water or dehydrated on a desert will last indefinitely; one in a warm, humid atmosphere will collapse in a remarkably short time.

Even before the trunk has fallen it may have become populated with a few associates. Various lichens, mosses and ferns may have become established on the bark and several kinds of fungi and insects may have invaded the dying wood within. When the log eventually comes to rest on the ground most of these inhabitants continue to flourish and they are joined by others.

The flora and fauna of a rotting log are of two types: those which simply use the log for attachment, for shelter or as a hunting ground, and those which actually consume the wood itself. The latter are relatively few in number because not many organisms can break down wood and use it as food. Fungi are probably the leaders in this activity. The minute living strands of these organisms finger their way through the woody tissues causing disintegration which we call "rot." Periodically their fruiting bodies appear externally as bracket fungi, toadstools or mushrooms, their form depending upon the species.

Only one group of land animals is capable of digesting wood; this is the insect group. The larvae of several species of beetles regularly bore in downed timber, apparently breaking down the sawdust and using its components as food. Termites, sometimes called "white ants," also eat wood but they obtain nourishment indirectly. Single-celled animals in the termite gut carry on the actual digestive process for the benefit of both themselves and their hosts. The end result of both beetle and termite activity is the same — a series of galleries that allows entry of other organisms which in turn hastens the destruction of the wood.

The non-eaters of wood include a host of creatures seeking homes or prey. Among the former are carpenter ants which excavate tunnels in which to set up residence and from which they can forage in search of food. In time these runways and other cavities within the log are used by centipedes, rove beetles, spiders and other predators and these in turn are stalked by salamanders, snakes and shrews.

In the meantime various shrubs and tree-seedlings become established on the surface of the rotting log. Their roots penetrate the crumbling interior where they absorb materials released by the break-down processes carried on by fungi and other micro-organisms. Eventually these root systems reach the soil and form a secure anchorage before the "nurse log" completely disintegrates.

Thus the complex chemical components of a living tree may remain out of circulation but a short time after death. Mechanical and chemical destructive agents in the form of a diverse assemblage of living creatures soon reduce them to simpler substances which are rapidly absorbed once more into life processes.

The Japanese . . .

. . . Remember Hiroshima

. . . More Than Pearl Harbor

How Japanese Feel Towards Americans 25 Years Later

By RICHARD HALLORAN

TOKYO—Japanese attitudes toward Americans 25 years after Pearl Harbor, the anniversary of which is today here because of the time difference, are a curious mixture of indifference and sensitivity, cordiality and occasional antipathy.

The feelings operate on two different levels, the national and impersonal, and the individual and personal.

As a people, the Japanese are somewhat indifferent to America. They are not concerned much with what goes on outside Japan, being preoccupied with their own affairs, which today revolve largely around the material advance of their lives.

Turn to U.S.

If they do think of things outside Japan, their thoughts most likely turn first to America because of the long involvement in war and occupation, in the Korean War and the subsequent cold war in Asia and the successive mutual security treaties.

It's fashionable in intellectual, some political, and a few business circles to be anti-American these days.

Some of this comes from the war, which still rankles in some souls, as might humanly be expected, and especially from the atomic bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

More comes from a resurgence of national pride, which urges Japan to declare itself independent from America in world affairs. This nationalism, too, has caused a re-examination of the causes and effects of the war and more public explanation, if not justification, of Japan's role in it.

Most of the anti-American feeling, however, comes from present-day disagreements with American policy toward China, the U.S. action in Viet Nam, and the government policy of alliance with the United States. Many feel that these ties only make Japan a target in the event of an all-Asian war.

Uses of Power

Other Japanese, however, would argue that their nation should maintain its alliance with the United States for the protection it gives them. The Japanese probably have the world's most keenly attuned sense of the uses and subtleties of power and they have respect for the power of the United States.

Perhaps the most obvious symbol of the frictions between Japan and America is Okinawa, the island south of Japan that the U.S. captured during the war and has retained as a major military base. The Japanese want it back because the islanders are Japanese. But the U.S. want to keep it for military reasons. The Okinawa issue raises more emotional feeling against America than almost any other.

Popular anti-American opinion led the government to cancel President Eisenhower's planned visit in 1960 and to make clear to President Johnson that he was not welcome here during his recent trip to Asia. One of the ironies of the situation is that the president of the victorious nation in the war, and the present protector of Japan, should be precluded from visiting Japan for peace and goodwill.

News of the United States takes up a proportionately larger share of space in newspapers here than that from other countries. The trade ties between the two nations and the impact of what America does that affects Japan accounts for much of this. In this respect, Japan is far more sensitive to America than America to Japan.

On the personal level, the Japanese are usually most cordial and tolerant of the Americans living in their midst but rarely take them into their personal lives. This is not discrimination against Americans but the Japanese sense of isolation from all foreigners.

Distance Helps

The cordiality and helpfulness of Japanese toward foreigners tends to increase the more distant the foreigner is from other foreigners. In Tokyo, Japanese neighbors take more interest in the foreigners next door in areas where few outsiders live. When one travels, the further he gets from Tokyo, the more the Japanese will go out of their way to assist him.

There have been some small changes noticeable over the past few years. Before, anti-American demonstrations have usually been impersonal to the point of chanting anti-American slogans one minute and joking with American bystanders the next.

Now, there's an occasional direct, personal comment of the "Yankee, go home" variety. And recently there have been a couple of instances where American women were molested on the streets, an unheard of event not long ago.

If Only the Albanians Had a Sense of Humor

I. F. STONE'S WEEKLY
Washington, D.C.

If the Albanians had a sense of humor, they would have supported the Italian resolution at the UN for a commission to study the China problem, but with an amendment, instructing it also to study the American problem.

They would have suggested that the UN, if it was to survive as a force for world order, really had two problems. One was whether to let Peking in. The other was whether to let Washington out.

The Americans, the Albanians might admit, are smoother than the Chinese. While Peking insults U Thant, the wily Occidentals flatter but ignore him. Both undercut the UN.

Qualifications

As the delegate from the other China argues, it's not simply a question of universality. Membership should be open only to those nations sincerely prepared to abide by the Charter. Article 2, Sec. 3, obligates all members "to settle their international disputes by peaceful means in such a manner that international peace and security . . . are not endangered." Is the bombing of North Viet Nam in accordance with this principle?

Peking is not the only big power which worries its neighbors. Article 2, Sec. 4, obligates all members to "refrain . . . from the threat or use of force" against the "political independence of any state." Under Eisenhower the U.S. overthrew the government of Guatemala; under Kennedy, it tried to overthrow the government of Cuba; under Johnson, it sent troops to reshape the government of Santo Domingo.

These American "wars of national liberation," the Albanians might point out, are as upsetting as China's.

Article 51

An even greater danger — they might argue — is Washington's interpretation of Article 51. This allows any member, "if an armed attack occurs," to take measures of "individual or collective self-defence" but only until the Security Council acts.

Any measures under Article 51 must be reported "immediately" to the Security Council. The purpose was to allow for self-defence without splitting the world again into hostile blocs.

Chapter VIII of the Charter does allow for "regional arrangements" but within control of the world body. Article 54 says the Security Council "shall at all times be kept fully informed of activities undertaken or in contemplation" under these arrangements.

Alliance Net

Washington has used Article 51 and Chapter VIII to create a world-wide network of alliances. The military planning committees of the OAS, NATO, CENTO and SEATO have never yet reported their plans to the Security Council.

The result is a rival system for policing the world, indeed two of them, one led by NATO, the other by the Warsaw Pact.

The framers of the Charter sought to prevent just such a squaring off for a new war. The Albanians might suggest that both Washington and Moscow be asked to dissolve these rival alliances as the price of continued membership in the UN.

The Albanians might also propose that while the Commission looked into the two China problem, it study a parallel difficulty. The world was confronted with many divided countries. In some, as in Korea, Germany and China, division had worked fairly well in preventing or ending civil war. In others forcible efforts at reunification were a constant threat to the peace.

Still Unreconciled

In the United States, for example, even after a century, the South was still unreconciled to its forcible subjugation by the North. Every UN member knew what shocking murders went unpunished in the South as Northern agitators infiltrated, particularly when they tried to stir up the peasantry in the Mississippi delta against their landlords.

The situation was incredibly confused, with a Southerner leading the North and another Southerner from Alabama named Wallace trying hard to stage a counter invasion. There was the constant danger of a new civil war and foreign intervention.

If in the interests of world peace, there were to be two Chinas in the UN, perhaps there ought also to be two Americas, one Confederate, one Yankee, with Lyndon Johnson in the Security Council and Lurleen Wallace in the General Assembly.

Hong Kong Survivors Pay Tribute

HONG KONG (CP) — The live remembered the dead today in the latter's silent city of stone on a steep hillside overlooking Hong Kong harbor.

In moving dignity, 58 surviving Canadians of the 17-day battle of Hong Kong 25 years ago paid tribute in an hour long ceremony at Sai San Commonwealth War Cemetery to their 557 comrades who perished in the battle or in Japanese prisoner-of-war camps.

At the end of the ceremony, each of the 58 strode to the foot of the sunlit cross of sacrifice and saluted or bowed his head.

Many of the gravestones bore only the legend "A soldier of the 1939-45 war in a Canadian regiment: Known unto God."

For those whose bodies were never found, the names are inscribed in the stone memorial which commands the descending hillside cemetery.

Among those names is that of CSM J. R. Osborn of Winnipeg who won Canada's first Victoria Cross in the Second World War. His son, Sgt. Gerald Osborn of the Canadian Guards Regiment, posted the four sentries at the Cross of Sacrifice.

Senator Ross Macdonald, leader of the Canadian government delegation and a First World War veteran, addressed the congregation simply as "comrades."

To this sacred place, he said, friends of the fallen had come from half way round the world to pay their respects. Canadian servicemen lie buried in 70 countries and in all the seven seas.

A. H. Delbridge of Winnipeg, president of the Hong Kong Veterans association, delivered the exhortation and padres read verses from the hymn O Valiant Hearts.

The ceremony was conducted partly in French. The two Canadian battalions which fought at Hong Kong were the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Royal Rifles of Canada, a Quebec regiment.

Three volleys were fired by a party comprised of Hong Kong veterans still serving in the armed forces. The crashes echoed and re-echoed through the crags high above the harbor.

LODGE EXPRESSES REGRETS OVER INCIDENT

Pistol-Packing Saigon Mayor Arrested

SAIGON (UPI) — American military police today seized, subdued and arrested the pistol-packing mayor of Saigon for firing a submachinegun across a river after a night-long frolic in some of the city's better nightspots, a U.S. mission spokesman said.

The arrest brought an immediate strong Vietnamese protest. U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge expressed his regrets about the incident, but did not apologize, the spokesman said.

The mayor, high-spirited Col. Van Van Cua, one of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's strong supporters and confidants, was dressed in civilian clothes when he was arrested.

The spokesman said he was not only firing a submachinegun but also had a loaded .38-calibre pistol stuck in his belt.

Cua had liquor on his breath, the spokesman said.

He was quickly released once his identity was established.

However, Brig.-Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, chief of both the Vietnamese national police and the military security service, said he would personally "remind the U.S. military that only Vietnamese police can arrest Vietnamese . . ."

Cua, who goes about his official duties in a military uniform with a pistol on his hip, said he allowed himself to be arrested to see how American military policemen treat Vietnamese they take into custody.

Highly informed sources said Cua was in high spirits following an evening of entertainment and fired the submachinegun — apparently into the air — more or less to "let off steam." No one was believed injured in the firing near the port of Saigon before dawn.

Military police nearby heard the shooting and quickly moved in. They took away the mayor's submachinegun and marched him off in handcuffs.

Why Union Rooms Bugged Never Explained: Witness

VANCOUVER (CP)—A witness told Wednesday what he knew of the bugging of hotel rooms occupied by union delegates and said he had literally been left holding the bag after the operation.

Howard William McAnish, former assistant to private investigator Weldon Graham, told a royal commission inquiry that on Graham's instructions he booked into the Ritz Hotel under an assumed name Nov. 2.

WITH BAGGAGE

On Nov. 7, at a time when he knew two other rooms were supposedly bugged, Graham left him in another room with some baggage and then left.

McAnish said he expected Graham back but about three hours later seven or eight police officers moved in and seized the baggage containing the bugging equipment.

"I was very unhappy about it," McAnish told Commissioner R. A. Sargent. He said he quit Graham's employ the same day.

McAnish, one of three witnesses who testified on events surrounding the bugging at the Ritz, said neither Graham nor Graham's partner, R. N. Griffin, had ever fully explained the purpose of the operation.

He said he did not know when he checked in that the idea was to bug the convention.

OTHER NAME

He said when the police moved in he spoke with RCMP officers Sgt. Richard Gould and Cpl. Al Richards, but he didn't recall mentioning the names of a Sgt. Nixon and a Sgt. Cox. He had been introduced to them at Graham's home before the bugging incident, he said.

Technician Neville Bayley said he originally met Griffin when they worked at Pinkerton's agency. Bayley was an investigator and Griffin was with security.

Griffin asked for his help on a job involving electronic equipment, he said. They tested a transistor receiver, two wireless microphones and a tape recorder and later went to the Ritz, where Graham and Griffin made further tests of the equipment.

He said he did not think use of such equipment was illegal.

Earlier, Commissioner Sargent said tape recordings made at the hotel will not be admitted as evidence immediately.

NOT ON CONTENT

Mr. Murray also said no witnesses will be questioned about what they heard on the tapes.

Earlier, Mr. Sargent said if the tapes were admitted, it would be in a secret session. He said he does not want to "pass up anything that can be held to be evidence."

Mr. Sargent was appointed as a one-man royal commission after the Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada charged that its convention at Vancouver a month ago was bugged.

Tapes and electronic equipment were seized from room 309 of the hotel where the convention was held.

Mrs. Gilda Bryant, in charge of the front desk at the convention hotel, produced registration and telephone records relating to several rooms.

The records showed room 309 was registered to William J. Dawson of Kamloops on Nov. 2 and Weldon (Bud) Graham came into the room later.

B.C. TRAFFIC INDEMNITY FUND

Faster Payment for Hit-Run Victims

VANCOUVER (CP) — Victims of hit-and-run drivers can expect speedier payment of damage claims as a result of recent changes in the British Columbia Motor Vehicles Act, the royal commission on automobile insurance was told Tuesday.

Joe E. Morley, Traffic Victims Indemnity Fund claims manager, was testifying on the third section of an All Canada Insurance Federation brief.

Changes enacted last spring enable the fund officials to sign a settlement with the victim on behalf of the absconded driver, eliminating previous delays, he said.

"The changes eliminate the necessity of proving fault in the case of an absconding driver and empower our officials to sign a settlement with victims," he said.

"This is already beginning to result in speedier and earlier claims settlements."

The Traffic Victims Indemnity Fund was set up in the late 1940s by the industry to provide compensation to victims of non-insured, foreign and hit-and-run drivers. It is financially supported by the automobile liability insurance companies.

The fund has as good a record of claims payment as private companies, Mr. Morley told the commission.

CZARS' NUPTIAL CROWN SOLD AT U.S. AUCTION

NEW YORK (AP) — A Russian imperial nuptial crown, fashioned from Catherine the Great's belt and studded with 1,535 diamonds, was auctioned Wednesday for $77,500. The tiny 19th century crown was worn by the last three czarinas of Russia at their weddings. Its jewels total 283 carats. Harry Levinson, of Chicago, its purchaser, said he hopes to sell it to a museum or private collector.

Weekly Garbage Take Urged During Winter

Saanich should have a weekly garbage collection all the year round, Councillor Alan Newberry told an all-candidates meeting in Royal Oak Wednesday night.

He said the council had shown foresight in establishing weekly collections throughout the summer months. But this was still not enough.

Reeve Hugh Curtis said the system by which each municipality delivers its garbage to various dumps in the highland district is out-of-date. "We must seek a more sanitary and effective method of ridding ourselves of our daily trash," the reeve said.

VANCOUVER (CP)— British Columbia's 1,150 psychiatric and registered nurses employed in seven government hospitals are seeking a 25 per cent across-the-board wage increase. Psychiatric nurses now receive between $362 and $432 a month while registered nurses' pay ranges from $375 to $450 depending on length of service.

BELL

BROWN

LOCK—

TOOBY

Esquimalt has a total of six candidates in the race for three council seats in Saturday's elections.

The three incumbents, Couns. Walter Lock, Ed DeCosta and James Bryant are all seeking re-election. Of the other three candidates, only one, L. Fred Tooby, has been in a council race previously.

Chief topics of discussion in the campaign so far have been Esquimalt's participation in the regional parklands acquisition scheme, hospital financing and implementation of the regional sewage study.

James W. Bell, 542 Lampson, is employed at the Esquimalt liquor store. He wants Esquimalt to participate in Regional Board acquisition of parklands and would like to see more light industry established in the municipality.

Low rent housing for the elderly and a separate pensioners' recreational centre for Esquimalt are included in his platform. Mr. Bell feels council should be brought into closer contact with Esquimalt residents to avoid misunderstandings.

Ernest R. Brown, 649 Admirals, is a government electrician and a newcomer to municipal politics. He feels present regulations discourage apartment construction in Esquimalt, which would be a welcome source of extra tax revenues.

Mr. Brown is also opposed to the recent anti-noise bylaw, passed by council after much controversy and states he would like to see Esquimalt's present "Gilbert and Sullivan" arrangement with the naval fire fighters improved.

James Bryant, 1140 Esquimalt, retired, is senior councillor in Esquimalt, having served 16 years. At present chairman of the fire committee and the Sports Centre Commission, he is also a member of council's zoning committee.

Mr. Bryant would like better and extended facilities for Esquimalt's senior citizens. He represents Esquimalt on the Regional Board, the Intermunicipal Committee and on the Capital Region Planning Board.

Ed DeCosta, 774 Hutchinson, is an HMC Dockyard employee who has served eight years on Esquimalt council and is a 48-year resident of the municipality.

Mr. DeCosta favors Esquimalt participation in regional parkland acquisition only after Esquimalt's are improved. He is particularly concerned with the municipality's cost commitments in the capital region and with holding the mill rate down while still honoring these commitments.

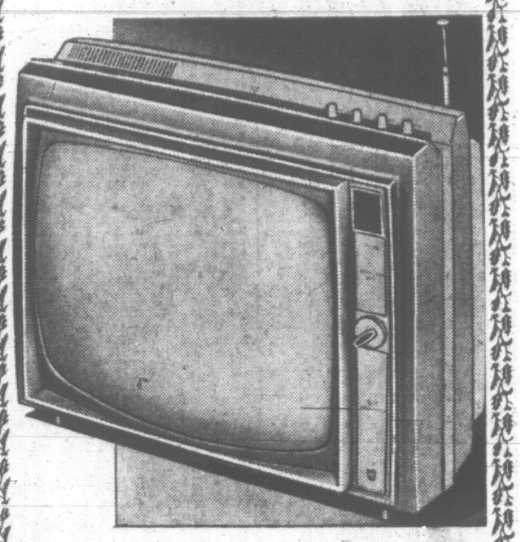

Walter Lock, 1192 Highrock, is a laboratory technician for the federal government who has served four and a half years on Esquimalt council.

Mr. Lock opposes Esquimalt participation in the regional parkland acquisition scheme on the grounds that "we have to spend our own tax dollar in our own backyard." He also presses for implementation of the overall sewer plan to the hospital question is a necessity.

L. Fred Tooby, 935 Old Esquimalt Road, HMC Dockyard employee, has previously sought a seat on council unsuccessfully. He has worked in the municipality for more than 12 years.

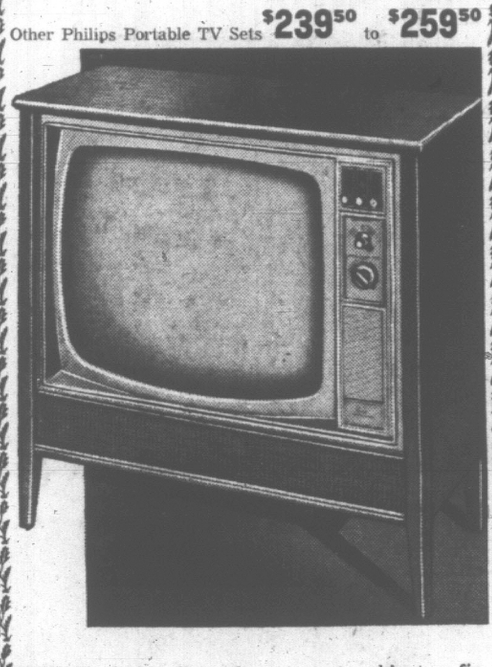

Mr. Tooby opposes the recent controversial anti-noise bylaw passed by council. He also feels proposed View Royal panhandle amalgamation with Esquimalt is "not a good policy" as he says it would lead to a heavier tax load for Esquimalt residents.

Guinness pulls this off five million times a day

How's that for openers?

Why do people drink five million glasses of Guinness daily? Well, it could be Guinness' delightful touch of bitterness. Or that rich, creamy texture. Or perhaps its deep ruby colour. This old Irish brew is unique. Constantly unique. Now in British Columbia, Guinness is available where beer is sold and enjoyed. So why don't you discover the brew that tastes like no other on earth. Just for a change.

Prairie Provinces Study Abolition of Estate Tax

By AB KENT
Business Editor

Prairie moves to consider the abolition of estate taxes will be followed with interest in British Columbia, where $14 million was expected to be portioned out from the federal revenue this year.

The Canadian Chamber of Commerce is already concerned about the matter, evolving from a resolution taken to the national chamber's annual meeting by the Windsor, Ont., chamber.

The resolution called for abolition of the federal tax, which was supported by the Victoria delegation.

But since then, Victoria chamber director Gordon Holms has researched the matter and notes that death duties contributed $101 million to the federal budget.

He asks what other sources can be suggested to make up this amount of revenue should estate taxes be thrown out.

A recent directors' meeting of the Victoria chamber suggested he contact the Windsor group to see if they had further ideas on the subject.

Meanwhile, Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher is giving serious consideration to refunding all or a portion of its share of the estate tax levy, which amounts to $1.5 million a year.

He complains that while the provincial treasury gains that much in revenue, the province is losing estates valued at $20 to $30 million a year.

This is capital taken by persons who retire from Saskatchewan to live in other provinces, notably British Columbia.

Alberta, where a similar situation exists, also is considering giving up on estate taxes.

The prairie premiers believe more residents would remain in Alberta and Saskatchewan on retirement if they knew their estates would not be taxed for the provincial share.

B.C. lumber exports for the first 10 months of 1966 still rate higher than for the equivalent period last year although shipments are slumping in the last quarter.

Top grades of spruce were in good demand in October, while middle grades of spruce were fair, and most balsam, all hemlock and most cedar were rated as poor.

The first eight grades of fir were in fair demand.

Waterborne lumber shipments in October totalled 159,357,207 board feet against 176,119,692 in October of last year.

This brought the 10-month total to 2,018,404,633 board feet this year and 1,998,267,412 in 1965.

Shipments to the Atlantic seaboard and to California during October were down 2 million board feet and 2.6 million board feet respectively.

Orders to all parts of the Western Hemisphere declined 4 million board feet during the month compared with October 1965.

And for the same comparative period shipments to the U.K. were off 1 million board feet.

Housing start incentives in both Canada and the U.S. could brighten the lumber picture by spring.

The B.C. canned salmon pack this year amounted to 1,816,503 cases of 48 pounds each, well above last year's 913,975 cases. Highest total in the last five years was 1,816,585 cases in 1962.

Most of the pack this year was in pinks for 950,555 cases, with the balance in sockeye, coho and chum salmon.

Shareholders at the annual meeting Monday of Utica Mines Ltd. will be asked to approve an application for an increase in authorized shares in order to cover option agreements.

Options totalling 370,000 shares are outstanding and if they are exercised, the company would need an additional 154,371 shares to make up the agreements.

Utica is authorized to issue 5 million shares, of which 4,784,371 have been issued.

If the meeting rejects the bid, a shareholder has offered to provide enough of his own shares to enable the company to meet its obligation to option holders.

Meanwhile Utica has financing for a 300-tons-per-day mill to treat Horn silver ore due to start milling next year. Estimated cost is $1,240,000.

Rootes Motors Holding Talks With Chrysler

LONDON (Reuters)—The directors of Rootes Motors said Monday night they are holding talks with Chrysler Corp. of the United States which may lead to a closer association between the two companies.

Earlier, £2,000,000 ($6,000,000) was added to Rootes share market value on the strength of reports that Chrysler might be seeking to gain control of the British firm.

Monday night's statement from Rootes said no discussions were in progress or contemplated concerning an offer by Chrysler for any of Rootes ordinary shares.

Chrysler already owns about 45 per cent of Rootes voting shares and a majority of the non-voting shares following an investment of about £23,000,000 ($69,000,000) in 1964.

Rootes' main products are Humber, Singer and Hillman cars.

Living Costs Still Gain

OTTAWA (CP)—Eating cost the average Canadian less in November, but he paid more to keep a roof over his head and clothes on his back.

With minor exceptions, beef, chicken, pork and fish were less expensive than a month earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Wednesday in its consumer price index.

Important price decreases also occurred in root vegetables, cabbage, fresh fruits and sugar.

Although various price changes together made for a decline of six-tenths of one per cent in the food group, the higher cost of housing and clothing wiped out the improvement and pushed the over-all index to 145.5 from 145.3 in October, an increase of one-tenth of one per cent.

Rents, home-owner repairs, property taxes, furniture, textiles, utensils and most supplies and services were heavier burdens on the householder.

Major increases occurred in men's wear, children's wear and footwear.

The index was 3.8 per cent higher than in November, 1965. Foods, after their third consecutive monthly decline, were 4.7 per cent higher than a year earlier. This compares with a year-to-year difference of 7.2 per cent between August, 1965 and August, 1966.

Minor price decreases occurred between October and November in eggs, butter, dairy products, infants' food, tea, instant coffee, shortening and frozen orange juice.

Higher prices were reported for turkeys, smoked hams, veal chops, margarine, corn flakes, regular coffee, tomatoes, celery and lettuce.

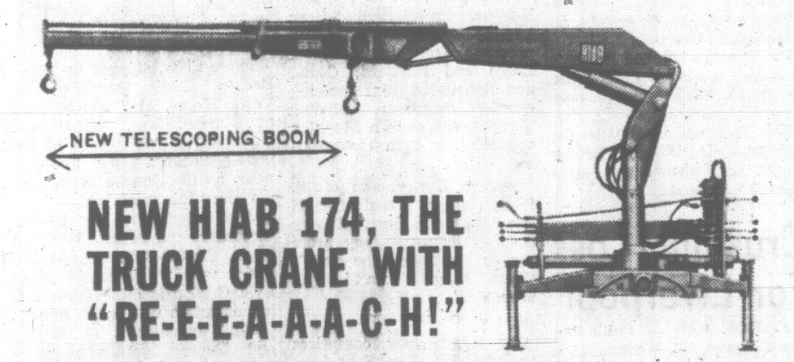

Transportation costs remained unchanged during the month as lower train fares offset increased gasoline and oil prices.

SHACK OFF THE TRACK

Derailed by check thrown by Montreal defenceman Ted Harris, Toronto's Eddie Shack gets attention from trainer Bob Haggert and teammate Larry Hillman. Injured in National Hockey League game at Montreal, Shack was helped from ice and received 15 stitches in cut over right eye while Harris got major penalty for elbowing. Maple Leafs went down, 6-3, to flying Canadiens. (AP Wirephoto.)

Lead Comes Off Skates And Habs Flying Again

Gilbert's Two Goals Help Rangers in 4-2 Comeback

By The Canadian Press

Takeoff time may be here for Montreal Canadiens. After a lead-footed start that put them in last place in the National Hockey League for the first time since 1948, there are increasing signs that the Flying Frenchmen have again learned to fly.

They thumped league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs 6-3 Wednesday night for their third straight win to gain a little altitude, although they remain in fourth place behind New York Rangers, who beat Boston Bruins 4-2 in the other NHL game.

Right-winger Claude Larose score two goals for the Canadiens. The other scorers were Henri Richard, Yvan Cournoyer, Bobby Rousseau and Jean Beliveau.

Jim Pappin, Tim Horton and George Armstrong scored for Toronto.

Rod Gilbert scored two goals to lead the Rangers to a come-from-behind win over Boston Bruins. Bob Nevin and Orland Kurtenbach scored the other New York goals. Ron Schock and Ted Green scored for Boston.

Richard's goal was his seventh of the season and 250th of his 12-year career with the Canadiens.

Shack Hospitalized by Hard Check

Richard, 30-year-old brother of Maurice (Rocket) Richard, one-time great with Canadiens who scored 544 goals in his career, moved into 18th place in the all-time NHL scoring leaders and 10th among still-active players with his first-period goal.

Richard said he is looking forward to at least another 50 goals in his career.

It was Canadiens' first win against the Leafs this year in five meetings. It also marked the first time that Montreal managed to score more than three goals in a game in 19 starts.

Leaf forward Eddie Shack was taken to hospital for observation after being hit by defenceman Ted Harris. First reports said Shack had a cut requiring 15 stitches over his right eye.

CAUGHT IN FLIGHT

Harris was given a five-minute major penalty for elbowing Shack, who was caught travelling at full speed with his head down.

Shack remained under observation in the neurological wing of the Montreal General Hospital today.

Harris said after the game he thought his shoulder had hit the Toronto player and that he too had been "knocked dizzy" by the impact.

Imlach said "it was the worst cut I've ever seen, but it was a case of bad luck, nothing else." He said he thought Shack was cut when his head struck the ice.

Both clubs used two goaltenders in the game. Montreal's Gump Worsley played the first period before giving way to Charlie Hodge because of a knee injury. Sawchuk, who let in five of the six Montreal goals, was replaced by veteran Johnny Bower at the 8:01 mark of the third.

The Leafs fired 26 shots at the net while the Canadiens had 25.

Gilbert, with a sore right ankle, broke an eight - game scoring drought with his two goals against the Bruins as the fired-up Rangers moved into a tie for second with Chicago Black Hawks. His second goal snapped a 2-2 tie.

TAKE EARLY LEAD

The Bruins took a 2-0 lead in the first 10 minutes of the game on goals by Schock and Green. Kurtenbach made it 2-1 late in the first and Gilbert put the Rangers ahead to stay with his two second-period goals, his ninth and 10th of the season.

Nevin put the game out of reach when he scored just after the 13-minute mark of the third.

The loss extended Boston's winless streak to six games, in which it has tied one.

The Rangers bombed Boston's Ed Johnston with 46 shots while the Bruins could manage only 20 at Ed Giacomin.

New York will clash with the sixth-place Red Wings in Detroit tonight and Boston will meet Chicago in Boston.

Canucks Deep in Gloom As Gulls Zip by Leafs

Dame Misfortune took a double swing at Vancouver Canucks Wednesday, and gloomy officials of the Western Hockey League team are hoping it isn't indicative of things to come.

Canucks lost a game and a winger.

Brit Selby, rookie of the year in the National Hockey League last season, suffered a broken leg and will be lost to Vancouver for at least six weeks.

Selby, shipped to Vancouver by Toronto Maple Leafs for "rehabilitation," sustained the fracture in Canucks' 3-2 overtime loss to San Diego Gulls.

By virtue of the victory, San Diego climed out of the cellar and past Victoria Maple Leafs, by one point. The Leafs, who have two games in hand over San Diego, will be at home Saturday night to Seattle Totems.

The Totems, as did the Gulls, came up with an overtime surprise. Seattle won its fourth straight game, upsetting front-running Buckaroos 4-3 in Portland. Totems now have won six of their last seven starts to move into third place, five points behind second-place Vancouver.

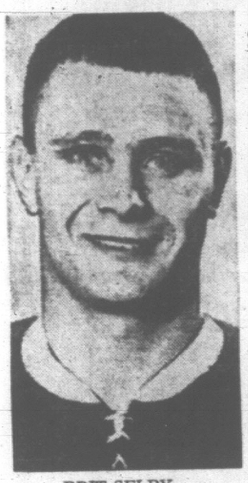

Vancouver's luck hit rock-bottom 38 seconds into the second period when the 21-year-old Selby was hit by San Diego defenceman Jim Watson. Selby underwent surgery later in the evening.

Len Ronson supplied a crushing blow at 2:45 of overtime, scoring the goal that stopped Vancouver. It was only the third loss for Vancouver in the last 14 games.

It was Ronson's 12th goal of the season and the sixth in the last six games. Warren Hyne and Al Nicholson scored San Diego's other goals while Marc Dufour and Bob Cook connected for Vancouver.

At Portland, hard-working Bill Dineen was the Seattle hero. He scored his second goal of the night with only 33 seconds ticked off in overtime to defeat Portland. Dineen also made the play on Larry Lund's second-period goal.

Guyle Fielder scored Seattle's first; Bill Saunders, Len Lunde and Dick Van Impe hit for Portland.

GIRLS HAVE PUCK DATE

Men Will Understand If They Have to Wait

Girls will be muscling into man's territory Friday.

Friday nights at the Sports Centre have been reserved for Esquimalt District Hockey League teams, but two girls' teams plan to put in an appearance this week.

The teams—both Esquimalt-based—are Kittens and Carsons. They'll play an hour-long exhibition preceding the regular Esquimalt League game between Tudor Monarchs and Stockers North Americans.

Girls start at 7:30 and the boys will be back in the limelight at 8:30 (providing, of course, they're not kept waiting).

Esquimalt Tardy In Solving Defence

Mount View and Claremont collected victories Wednesday in inter-high school girls' basketball competition.

The Views downed Esquimalt Dockettes in a defensive battle at Esquimalt. Trailing 13-4 after three quarters, Dockettes finally solved the Mount View defence and staged a strong rally in the final period but couldn't overcome the big deficit.

Val Truiet paced the Views with six points.

At Oak Bay, Claremont squeezed out a tense, 25-24 triumph over the Oaks as Penny Brown sparked the winners with eight points.

Oak Bay's Lynette Gough topped all scorers with 13 points:

MOUNT VIEW (17)—Heather Wood 4, Diedre Ogden 1, Val Truiet 6, Penny Druce 4, Linda Nix 2, Peggy Levert, Margaret Cross, Darlene Ferguson.

ESQUIMALT (12) — Pam Harknett 2, Shiela Turner 4, Maureen Lawson 4, Judy Tassel, Wendy Moser, Shirley Garrington, Lorraine Court, Grace Feiko 2, Gail Thompson, Janet Stillwell.

CLAREMONT (25) — Sarah Hillis, Joan Sandwith, Vivian Underwood, Penny Brown 8, Jeannie McHattie 5, Trish Spooner 6, Barbara Tribe 6, Kathy Spooner, Shelley Dodds, Lee Atkinson, June Thompson, Linda Kiwitkoski.

OAK BAY (24)—Mona Robertson 5, Lynette Gough 13, Vicki Williams 2, Marsha Mintoff, Val Smith, Maureen Wills 1, Terry Neal, Carla Van Shaik, Shelagh Hayward 3.

THREE SPOTS SETTLED

Ladies Leading Curling Races

In curling, as everywhere else, it's "ladies first".

Playdowns are gaining momentum, and women's rinks are running far ahead of the men in determining club representatives in the annual scramble leading towards Canadian championships.

Three of the six berths in the South Vancouver Island women's finals have already been claimed and remaining spots should be decided by next week.

But the men, in most cases, are only beginning club playdowns.

Stepping forward as club representatives are rinks skipped by Nan Sexton of Allan's Club, Marg Brillinger of Esquimalt Evening Ladies and Lee Jameson of the Victoria Afternoon Ladies' League.

The six-rink southern finals will be played at the Esquimalt Sports Centre Dec. 17-18. The Island final will be held at Duncan Jan. 7-8.

Mrs. Sexton, supported by Shirley Raike, Marg Pratt and Irene Moore, defeated Edna Bland's rink to emerge as Allan's representative.

The Jameson foursome, which also includes Helen Yoachim, Elin Petch and Trudy Hocking, breezed through the Victoria Afternoon League playoffs with a 3-0 record in round-robin play.

Important Weekend for the Women

The Quadra Street Club's evening representatives will be determined early next week. Leading the way in the double-knockout event is the Marion Smith rink. Mrs. Smith won out in the all-important "A" event and has advanced to the "B" bracket semifinals along with Flora Martin, Georgina Campbell and Dorothy Fukyama. The "B" semifinals will be played Saturday night.

The Esquimalt Evening League spot went to the Brillinger rink by acclamation. Mrs. Brillinger will be supported by Mabel Vyner, Cora Treby and Bette Browning in the South finals.

Ida Patterson's rink is leading the way in the three-rink, afternoon playoffs at the Sports Centre.

Three rinks, skipped by Helen Berkey, Emily Quarmby and Verla Evans, also started play at Duncan. Mrs. Berkey has captured the "A" event in the double-knockout affair and can wrap up the Duncan berth with a victory this weekend.

Only Esquimalt has started the men's playdowns. Don Edl leads the 10-rink, round-robin series with a 6-0 record while Lyle Gordon is still very much in contention with a 5-1 mark.

Men's playdowns at Allan's and Duncan get under way Saturday. Eight rinks are bidding for the Saanich spot while 10 foursomes are entered at Duncan.

The 11-rink playdowns at Victoria Club won't get under way until Jan. 11.

Palmer, Nicklaus Shoot 10 Birdies

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (CP)—Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer had a total of 10 birdies Wednesday and took the first-round lead in the $275,000 Professional Golfers Association national team championships with a sizzling 63.

In their best round ever as teammates—it was one stroke more than the course record—Palmer collected six birdies and Nicklaus four as they toured the front nine of the tough, 6,896-yard east course in 33 and came home in 30.

Brothers Jay and Lionel Hebert, Burt Weaver and Wes Ellis, Tom Shaw and Joe Carr and Howie Johnson and Chris Blocker were bunched in second place at 64.

HOMENUIK AT 66

Locked in third place with 65s were the teams of Bob Goalby and Doug Ford, Dave Hill and Charles Sifford, Doug Sanders and Al Besselink, Billy Farrell and Dave Lichardus, Larry Wise and Bill Storre, Bobby Mitchell and Wright Garrett and Chick Harbert and Vic Ghezzi.

Sixteen of the 120 two-man teams seeking the $50,000 first money were back in fourth place at 66. They included Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg, playing with Ralph Montoya of Little Falls, N.Y., and defending champions Gay Brewer Jr., and Butch Baird, who won last year's inaugural with a 29-under-par 259.

Celtics Take Ace of Hearts

GLASGOW (AP)—Willie Wallace, inside forward for the Hearts soccer team, was sold to Glasgow Celtics Wednesday for $112,000.

Wallace had refused to continue playing for Hearts and had threatened to play in the United Staes if his contract was not sold.

Gorge Vale's Wood Head Greenskeeper

Victoria Golf Greenkeepers' Association has a new president—Jack Wood of Gorge Vale.

Vice-president elects are Lyle Barnes, Cedar Hill; Bob Beggs of Victoria Golf Club, and Tommy Thorpe of Royal Colwood.

Executive members are Charles Smith, Victoria, secretary-treasurer; Frank Gavan, T. W. Thorpe and J. Wainscott.

VEITCH GETS LIONS' POST

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dennis Veitch will replace Herb Capozzi as general manager of the British Columbia Lions, the Western Football Conference team announced today.

Club president Allen Eyre said at a news conference that Veitch, 34, Lions' minor football co-ordinator for five years will take over from Capozzi January 1.

Canuck Loses Bowling Lead

LONDON (CP) — A miserable finish to a long and exciting day left Paul Yoshimasu of Winnipeg in second place at the end of Wednesday's play in the International Masters Bowling tournament.

Yoshimasu held first place for six of Wednesday's nine rounds, then was overtaken by John Wilcox of the United States. The final will be played tonight.

The Canadian tenpin bowling champion had finished Tuesday's seven rounds in third place. He grabbed top spot early in Wednesday's play, but was overtaken in the 14th round by Wilcox.

Crushing Loss For Liverpool

LONDON (CP) — Celtic defeated Nantes, 3-1, Wednesday to advance into the second round of the European Soccer Cup competition. The Scottish team had won the first game by the same score.

However, Liverpool suffered a crushing 5-1 loss to Holland's Ajax XI in the first game of their first-round series.

Other scores Wednesday:

Soccer Loop Reduced To 10 Clubs

CHICAGO (AP) — The new National Professional Soccer League Wednesday cancelled proposed franchises at San Diego and Hartford, Conn., and announced 10 remaining charter members including Toronto, will open a 34-match schedule for each club April 16.

Robert S. Hermann of St. Louis, league president, said San Diego and Hartford were dropped because they were unable to meet the loop's "tight organizational schedule."

★ ★ ★

The league now comprises Los Angeles, San Francisco, St. Louis, Chicago and Toronto in the Western Division and Baltimore, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New York and Atlanta in the Eastern Division.

The league said it has a 10-year, multi-million dollar television agreement with CBS.

U.S. TELEVISION MAKING PLANS . . . . . TO ENSURE COMMERCIALS

NHL Referees Must Learn to Delay Delays

NEW YORK (CP) — If you've been watching U.S. and Canadian professional football on television this fall, you may have noticed that the officials extend certain time-outs to accommodate the commercials on the small screen.

Aside from the normal breaks that occur after a scoring play, there are artificial halts in the play to give the sponsors a minute here or there to advertise products.

It's not surprising, considering how much the advertisers contribute to the game through television, especially in the National and American leagues.

Now, with CBS preparing to televise National Hockey League games in the United States, there may be similar arrangements.

Variety, the show business weekly, tells of tests being made on devices to ensure liaison between referees and camera directors when the NHL games go on TV after the football season ends in January.

The time out for a commercial is no problem when the game is put on tape, as was done by NBC last spring when it showed some Stanley Cup playoff games.

Nor is it a problem for the CBC and CTV in Canada which run brief superimposed commercials on the sceen before faceoffs.

But CBS, which has a rich contract to put the NHL on country-wide TV for the next three years, plans to carry the action live.

Tested recently in New York and Detroit was a device that the referee carries in his shirt pocket. It's about the size of the smallest transistor radio and picks up signals from the video director, letting the official know a time-out is desired at the earliest opportunity.

The normal delay between an offside whistle and faceoff may be 15 to 25 seconds, but when he gets that signal the referee is expected to stall the resumption of play another 30 seconds or so for a commercial.

How will hockey fans, accustomed to having their entertainment fast, furious and relatively uninterrupted, react to the extended time-outs?

Variety is both pessimistic and resigned.

"The added lapse may not sit too well with the fans, but then it's not their choice to make. The network has no other way to assure filling its quota of sponsor pitches."

In Canadian football, one way of signalling to the referee is to have someone on the sidelines put on a red cap when the commercial starts and take it off when it ends.

Perhaps if the electronic device works, it will be adapted for the gridiron.

GARY PLAYER'S GOLF CLASS: How to beat those problem putts

BOWLER OF WEEK

Big game of 205 sandwiched by singles of 181 and 194 helped Helen Young to 580 series and acclamation as "Bowler-of-the-Week" in women's tenpin division. Winner of city zone singles championship earlier this year, Helen also qualifies for berth in Times-sponsored "Bowler-of-the-Year" rollofs to be staged in May.

Rescheduling Annoys Victoria Rugby Union

Victoria Rugby Union officials have a beef.

They are making the complaint a gentle one but they believe they should have more advance information when their teams are to be bounced out of scheduled games at Macdonald Park, home of rugby for many years.

Causing the mixups and the miseries is the renovation of Royal Athletic Park, which makes Macdonald the only enclosed park available to rugby, soccer and football teams until well into next year.

Prompting the protest is the late scheduling of Saturday's Pacific Coast Soccer League match between Victoria O'Keefes and North Shore Luckies at Macdonald Park after an inter-city rugby match had been scheduled.

James Bay Athletic Association was slated to play Vancouver's Ex-Britannia in a first division game and the JBAA second division club had a league match with Cowichan.

The Oarsmen have now switched the first division tussle to Vancouver and slated the second division contest for 2 p.m. Sunday at Macdonald.

Next Saturday, JBAA is scheduled to host Vancouver Rowing Club and O'Keefes are slated to entertain New Westminster, both on the Macdonald pitch.

Gerry Main, president of the Victoria Rugby Union, this week sent to city council a letter, which said, in part:

"On Wednesday Nov. 30, we received word verbally that O'Keefes soccer team would be using Macdonald Park On Dec. 10 and 17. No prior intention had been received concerning the use of the park on those dates. . . .

Three Sports Make Park Busy Spot

"Early in the season, approximately summer time, we realized that Macdonald Park would be the only enclosed park available. The facts show that rugby co-operated fully with the other sports, changing its schedule for football and soccer. This of course meant rescheduling many of our games which had been laid-on prior to the summer. At first we were informed that this would be until the end of October, and later on, to the end of November, and our schedule was drawn accordingly. We were informed that there would be four dates for soccer and five for football required, but after this the field was for rugby. . . .

"It does not seem fair treatment at all that the Victoria Rugby Union must now make way for O'Keefes soccer in view of our scheduling and our published booklets and our commitments . . ."

Rugby officials feel that if they must be deprived of use of the park they should be advised well in advance of conflicting dates, since several important rugby matches, including McKechnie Cup games, are scheduled in the New Year.

"We certainly want to co-operate fully in all things," Main said Wednesday. "I can recognize that soccer and football are paying games and perhaps should have priority.

"However, we incur many responsibilities in making up our schedule and we feel that if we must lose promised dates we should at least be consulted far enough in advance that we would have a chance to make other arrangements," said Main.

"We felt that council should be advised of our position and we believe the city should reconsider its position in regards to rugby."

Not affected by soccer this weekend are Oak Bay Wanderers, who play home games at Windsor Park. Wanderers will be at home Sunday for a first division match with Cowichan.

SKI REPORT

Snow Cheers Slalom Set

The world began looking brighter to skiers this week.

Helping bring smiles to faces of the slalom set were reports from Green Mountain, where snow had reached a depth of six feet at noon Wednesday and was still falling.

Officials of the Green Mountain lodge announced that T-bar and rope tows would be operating Saturday and Sunday. They said the access road will be plowed from the highway to the parking lot, from where snowmobile service to the lodge will be available.

Rangers Advance

DORTMUND, West Germany (Reuters)—Borussia Dortmund, the defending champion, was knocked out of the European Cup Winners' Cup tournament Tuesday night when it drew 0-0 in its first-round, second-leg tie with Glasgow Rangers, winners of the first leg 2-1.

FIRST FOR CHRISTMAS

Grealy Knows What He Wants

Frank Grealy won't mind if they call him selfish, so the Victoria O'Keefes coach isn't hiding the fact that the package he wants for Christmas is first place in the Pacific Coast Soccer League.

For O'Keefes, there are only two "shopping days" left until the Christmas break.

They meet co-leading North Shore this Saturday and then draw New Westminster Royals to Macdonald Park on Dec. 17.

"They're both at home," Grealy noted the other day, "and as far as I'm concerned, both games are in the 'must' category. The players can make it very easy on themselves in the second half if they can win these two."

FIRST MEETING

The accent first falls on North Shore. The surprising youngsters from North Vancouver share the league lead with Victoria. Saturday's session is the first meeting of the co-leaders.

North Shore is one of three teams the unbeaten Victorians have yet to face. The others are Westminster and UBC Thunderbirds. O'Keefes, unbeaten in their first nine games, have completed their obligations with Columbus and have single dates remaining with Burnaby Villa, Firefighters and St. Andrews.

Read Returns To Guide UBC Rowing Crews

VANCOUVER (CP)—The rowing program at the University of British Columbia got two big boosts Tuesday, with the return of Frank Read as coach and announcement of a six-lane course to be built on the Fraser River near UBC.

Read coached UBC from 1950 to 1956, and again in 1960. In 1954, the UBC eight won a gold medal at the Empire Games here. In 1955, the eight beat Russia in the Henley Royal Regatta, losing to the University of Pennsylvania in the final.

At the Melbourne Olympics in 1956, the coxless four won the gold medal and the eight won the silver medal. At the Rome Olympics in 1960, the eight won a silver medal.

Mt. Doug Posting Impressive Notice

Mt. Douglas is pinning up the most impressive early notices on the Inter-High Rugby League bulletin board.

The Dougs reeled off their second straight victory Wednesday by dumping Mount View Hornets 14-3.

Victoria High won its first game, getting some last-second heroics from right wing John McKim to edge Claremont 6-3. A scheduled Oak Bay-Esquimalt meeting was postponed because of ground conditions.

NELSON SCORES

A try by Mount View's Tom Nelson provided the first points to be scored against Mr. Doug this season. But that was the best Hornets could do against a unit that bombed Esquimalt 60-0 in its opening game.

Craig Lawrence kicked a field goal and convert to pace Doug scoring. Rod Fiddick, Jack Clarkson and Ted Lister added tries.

At Claremont, an attempted field goal by Tom Walton was off the mark but McKim raced in to fall on the ball and give Victoria its thrilling victory over Claremont. Lorne Hamilton scored Victoria's first try and Ted Clark evened the score on a penalty goal mid-way in the second half.

Late Rally Stops Golf Challengers

The Royal Colwood combination of Larry McCooey and Roy Johnson, behind all the way, won the 16th and 17th holes to defeat Gorge Vale challengers John Carlow and Stew Mitchell and retain the senior golf buttons this week.

Uplands' Ed Lovell and Dick Egan fire out the next challenge to be answered at Gorge Vale.

They Love Cassius Over There

LONDON (UPI) Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, who defended his heavyweight title twice in England and once in Germany this year, Wednesday was named "sportsman of the year" in the annual balloting conducted in Europe by United Press International.

Clay, slated to make his first 1967 title defense against Ernie Terrell in Houston, Tex., Feb. 6, received 232 votes to outdistance premier miler Jim Ryun of the University of Kansas for the title. Ryun, who set a world mile mark of 3:51.3 on July 17, drew 143 votes.

The U.S. made it a sweep of the first three places as sprinter Tommie Smith of San Jose State collected 132 votes on the basis of world records in the 200-yard run (19.5 seconds), 220 yards around a turn 20.0 seconds).

BRABHAM FOURTH

Auto racing champion Jack Brabham of Australia was named fourth with 121 votes and Eusebio, Portuguese soccer star, was fifth with 117. Distance runner Ron Clarke of Australia was sixth with 97 votes, followed by England soccer star Bobby Charlton, 49; Polish track ace Irena Kirszenstein, 46; Russian gymnast Mikhail Voronin, 44, and the entire English soccer squad that won the World Cup, 43.

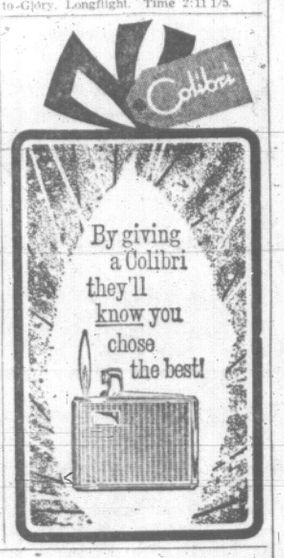

Don Schollander of Yale, received 34 votes for his swimming exploits.

There are very few things left for the men in this world.

This smooth dark rum is one of them.

And she said she married me for my looks.

Fine. But if I'm such a Brando, what am I doing with this dish towel? Drying, that's what.

And why? Because I hate that guilty feeling I get when I'm reading the newspaper and she's washing up. (I also hate helping, but I hate the guilty feeling worse.)

I should take the easy way out: get her an automatic dishwasher. The new ones wash everything. Pots, pans, even fine china and crystal. No pre-rinsing either. Just put them in the dishwasher and the whole job's done. Dishes come out extra clean because of the hot, hot water. And they're dried automatically, too.

By George, I'll do it! I'll give her a lifetime holiday from dishes.

She may have married me for my good looks, but it's my big heart that holds her.

Labor Asks Anti-Bug Legislation

The Victoria Labour Council Wednesday night endorsed an anti-bugging resolution.

But president Robert Barrie ruled out of order any comments linking this with the royal commission holding hearings in Vancouver.

A telegram from Tom Gooderham, regional director of organization for the Canadian Labour Congress, was read to the meeting.

It read: "Following consultation with CLC officers, am strongly urging Victoria Labour Council avoid reference to union matters now under investigation by royal commission. Comment before inquiry has concluded would be highly improper and would leave the council in a very vulnerable position before the courts."

Four letters, two from the Vancouver local of the International Woodworkers of America, one from the B.C Federation of Labour and one from the Victoria local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters were tabled without being read.

The resolution endorsed by the labor council was the same one passed nearly two weeks ago by the IWA's Victoria local.

It deplored bugging by electrical or mechanical means "of "any kind against an individual, group or organization and we urge the federal and provincial governments to enact legislation prohibiting the bugging of any kind, other than for the security of the country."

INVASION

The resolution will be forwarded to the B.C. Federation of Labour and the Canadian Labour Congress.

E. T. Staley, president of the B.C. Federation of Labour, recalled that the group, in a 1964 submission to the cabinet, opposed wire tapping and the use of secretive listening devices as a "loathsome invasion of privacy" and urged legislation to stop it.

When one delegate touched on the bugging incident being considered by the royal commission, president Barrie ruled any such reference out of order. He also said anyone could challenge his ruling, but no one did.

In other business, the council:

- Agreed to send a telegram to local MPs seeking clemency for four Vancouver labor leaders jailed for breaking an injunction;
- Condemned the decision of the independent International Brotherhood of Teamsters in announcing a mass raid of other unions as "contrary to trade union interests;"
- Heard from one delegate that the Teamsters union tried to raid other unions in six certification applications recently to the Labour Relations Board before its mass-raid announcement Tuesday;
- Endorsed Ald. Hugh Stephen for mayor and Charles Thompson for alderman in Saturday's city elections;
- Re-affirmed its previous support of fluoridation, an issue for Oak Bay voters Saturday;
- Supported longshoremen and the foremen in the current waterfront dispute;
- Agreed to request the assistance of the CLC in obtaining a 75 per cent increase in unemployment insurance. There was no debate on the subject.

Licence Fees Upheld

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government won a major case Tuesday when the Supreme Court of Canada upheld the validity of broadcasting licence fees totalling millions of dollars. In a 4-to-1 decision, the court ruled that federal licence fees levied since 1960 on Canada's privately-owned television and radio stations are valid and constitutional.

OPTIMISTS of Victoria and Oak Bay will hear Dr. Larrie Mason, governor of the 32nd district of Optimist International, at a dinner meeting in the Ingraham Hotel Thursday at 6:30 p.m. Born at Makinak, Manitoba, Dr. Mason obtained his MD from the University of Manitoba and now practises medicine at Boise, Idaho. Thursday's meeting is sponsored by the Optimist Clubs of Victoria and Oak Bay and the Evening Optimist Club.

Kills Wife, Self

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters) — A Guatemalan army sergeant shot his wife to death after she was badly injured in a fall from his motorcycle and then killed himself, police said Tuesday.

FORUM ADVOCATED

Council to Battle 'Ignorance' on Labor

The education committee of the Victoria Labour Council will consider the feasibility of a labor forum where the public could ask questions and get answers about unions.

Murray Drew, president of the Victoria local of the International Woodworkers of America, said the idea came because of the ignorance of people "supposed to be of stature" in Victoria.

He mentioned two moderators of an open line radio program and a city lawyer.

He said it is "very discouraging" to hear the public utterances of such "ill-informed people."

He had come across pamphlets in a school library distributed by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association while at the same time students were calling at union offices seeking information.

In another matter, council secretary Harry Anderson said teachers had visited him seeking information for a commercial course including unions and he had spoken at some schools.

ELECTION SEMINAR TOLD:

Schools Giant Sausage Factory

By DESMOND BILL

What is wrong with the educational system in British Columbia?

Lots of things.

But mostly poor teachers.

That, finally, was what a group of school trustees and school students agreed on after a three-hour meeting Wednesday night at the University of Victoria.

The meeting was billed as a forum for school board candidates. It ended up as an around-the-coffee cups discussion about education. And that was when the straight talking started.

Gordon Price, a student at Victoria Senior Secondary School, said the system ignores the needs and opinions of students. "The students have to adapt to the system. The system is not adapted to them."

CRUEL WORLD

George Curran, a school trustee up for re-election in Saanich, told him "You have to adapt."

Stephen Bigsby, student council president at Uvic, objected.

"Nuts to that," he said. "That is the attitude of the professional educators. 'Life is tough and you better get with it.' It may be humane to send students out fitted to take their place in a cruel world. But I don't want to have to adapt in school to the values of society."

Peter Bunn, vice-chairman of the board, was at the meeting even though he is not up for re-election. He have his views on the system.

NUISANCE

"It's an educational sausage machine. Those who don't fit in get cut off. Education takes up 32 per cent of the provincial budget and to the people in government it's a bloody nuisance.

"That is the impression I get from talking to Education Minister Peterson. This is how I see it after fighting with him for the last five years."

Dr. Carron Jameson, running for re-election in Oak Bay, agreed. "It is a sausage machine. And it might get worse." He said the restrictions of the system are probably an inevitable part of the way it is growing in size and complexity.

Dr. Jameson added, "There is the odd teacher who transcends the system. The basic problem is teachers who are not up to the job."

INCOMPETENT

Mr. Bigsby came back, "A bad mechanic can make a dangerous machine. But a teacher who is blandly incompetent is more dangerous than a mad dog."

Said Dr. Jameson, with a shrug of his shoulders, "A good teacher you can't pay enough. A bad teacher you can't fire."

Les Karagianis, an Esquimalt trustee who was returned unopposed, said, "That brings you right back to politics again. The department of education is staffed almost entirely by ex-teachers and while they are in control there is not much anyone can do."

STARTING POINT

Mr. Bunn said, and the group agreed, that the starting point for any improvement in the system is "to get good teachers. If we had even a few in each school they could fire up the other teachers around them."

By the end of the night both sides had agreed the meeting of trustees and students was useful and should be continued. Further meetings will be arranged between representative student groups and the entire school board.

$25,000 Essay Contest Closes This Saturday

Saturday is the deadline for a solution to the world's problems. That's the day on which the Lions peace essay contest comes to a close.

Student essays submitted to the Victoria Lions Club by that date will be judged by a local panel who will relay their choices of top essays to Lions district governors.

By January the thousands of entries from all over the world will have been whittled down to the top handful and the best essay on world peace will be selected by an international panel of judges.

The international peace panel will include former U.S. president General Dwight Eisenhower, former Costa Rican president Jose Figures, former UN General Assembly president General Carlos Romulo, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Nobel prize-winning Japanese physicist Hideki Yukawa, and Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands.

The author of the winning essay will be awarded $25,000.

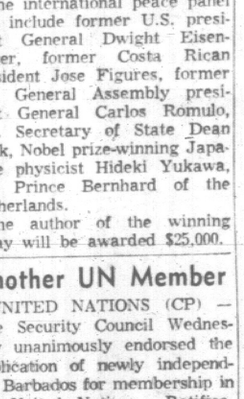

Another UN Member

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Security Council Wednesday unanimously endorsed the application of newly independent Barbados for membership in the United Nations. Ratification by the General Assembly Friday will make the Caribbean Island the 122nd member of the world organization.

Ford Galaxie 500

Say "Quiet Ford" and the next word has to be "Quality."

Fairlane 500

Falcon Futura

This year's Fords are quieter because they're stronger, stronger because they're better built. And again... the Quiet Ones come from Ford. The '67 Fords are even quieter than the '66's—and '66's proved quieter than one of the world's most expensive cars. This is the result of quality. And it's this quality that makes a Ford-built sedan better value than other cars. So when you buy one, you know you're getting a car that's worth more. One that's built stronger and lasts longer.

Ford sedans are the Quiet Ones, with the famous quiet ride. The quietness is the first thing you notice when you drive one and it's wonderful! These sedans have the solid worth that makes all the other features meaningful: the stylish appearance, the luxury touches, the roomy comfort—and one big Ford advantage you'll notice right in the showroom: the trunk has one of the lowest lift-over heights of any car.

Fairlane sedans are the middleweight champions. They're big, they're roomy. And they're performance packed! You'll find them easy to handle and a joy to park.

Falcon sedans are the limousines of the compacts. They're easy to buy, economical to operate. And you'll be amazed at their performance. Falcon has two V-8 options this year.

Take any one of these Ford-built sedans for a test drive. See what a difference Ford's extra quality makes.

OIL FIRM'S PROPERTY TAKEN OVER BY SYRIA

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syria's socialist government today seized all properties of the Western-owned Iraq Petroleum Co. and imposed new high royalties on oil being pumped through pipelines for European markets.

A communique broadcast by Damascus radio said the pipeline and other property of the company were under "executive seizure" to force the company to pay increased transit royalties for the first nine months of this year. It estimated the back royalties are more than £3,700,000 ($11,100,000).

Sheppard Admits He Plotted Own Death

NEW YORK (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard said today he plotted to force police to shoot him dead in the courtroom if he had been convicted a second time of killing his first wife.

The Ohio osteopath said that he carried a pistol into the Cleveland courtroom, hiding it in an athletic supporter he wore. If the jurors had found him guilty, he said, he had planned to take the gun from its hiding place and wave it.

At that point, Sheppard said, he expected to be cut down by bullets from the guns of courtroom guards.

Sheppard made the statements at a press conference marking the publication day of his book Endure and Conquer. It is about his case.

He insisted that he would not have shot himself or anyone else.

Sheppard had hinted in a television interview Wednesday night on the NBC Tonight show that he carried a pistol into the courtroom with him Nov. 16.

His blonde, German - born wife, Arianne, sat beside him. She said she knew he had had a gun and suspected that he planned his own death.

Sheppard's first wife, Marilyn, was bludgeoned to death in their lakeside home in Bay Village, a Cleveland suburb, in 1954. Sheppard was convicted of second - degree murder and spent nine years in prison before winning a new trial that led to his acquittal.

A spokesman for the publisher of Sheppard's book said Paramount Studios had purchased the movie rights to the book.

FOR ALDERMAN

Scott has a long and honorable record as a fighter against injustices in this city. His foresight and tenacity largely made possible the building of the University of Victoria on the Gordon Head site. Lawyer's clients owe the existing protection of their property to his fight 20 years ago in this city.

Police Commission
In the interest of the public, Scott claims two of the three members of the Police Commission should be elected representatives. He can give reasons.

Ombudsman
If elected, Scott will function as an unofficial ombudsman. He would invite written complaints from those who feel they have received unjust treatment from the authorities. If he felt the complaint to be justified, he would refer it to, along with his own comments, to the proper authorities.

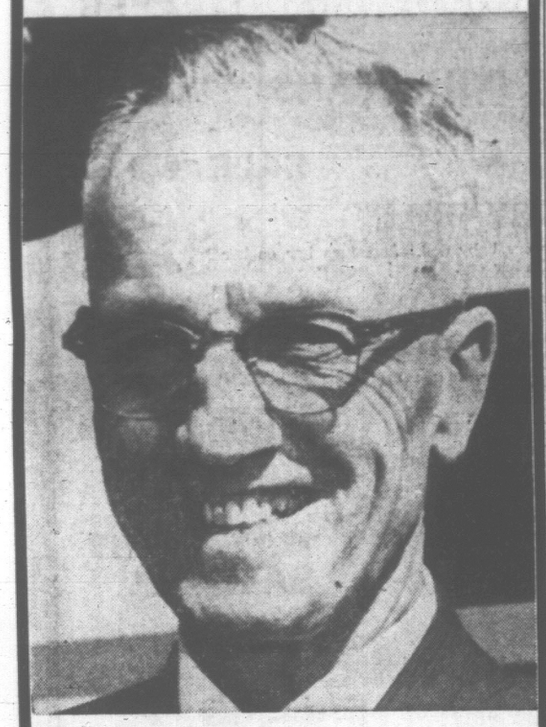

Victoria's Juvenile Delinquents
Scott claims adults in Victoria, more than youths, are mainly responsible for our youth's healthy and unhealthy revolt against age, law and order. If elected he will invite university students to assist in solving the so-called delinquent problem.

Free Port
If elected, Scott would press vigorously for Victoria's right to become, once again, a "Free Port," with all the advantages that go with this status.
Scott points out that this would revitalize Downtown Victoria, would make Victoria the most prosperous shipbuilding centre in Canada, and would establish it as a terminal port for world luxury liners. It would become a mecca for bargain-hunting tourists as Hong Kong is now.

FOR SCHOOL COSTS

Tax Change Advocated

WOOD

A former school trustee, a housewife and a retired electronics technician are running for the one vacant city seat on the school board.

Making a comeback attempt is Ted Wood, a company director who served one term on the board from 1963 to 1965. At that time he was very interested in providing facilities for retarded children and was partly responsible for the Victor School for the Retarded that was opened earlier this year.

Mr. Wood said his main concern now is to press for the province to take over the full cost of education. He points out that the province at present pays about 50 per cent of the costs but insists on full veto control.

Mr. Wood said the present tax system gives renters no vote in deciding educational issues affecting their children and imposes heavy burdens on old persons on fixed incomes who have already paid for their own family's education in earlier years.

He says a provincial income tax would be a more equitable way to finance school costs. He also is in favor of re-evaluation of school building concepts, suggesting that savings on land costs could be made by building schools "up instead of out."

Mrs. Daphne Temple has long been active in PTA work and such youth activities as Cubs but her interest in education was really sparked when she took on the job of building a library for the Institute of Adult Studies.

FIRST ATTEMPT

In was her work for the institute that decided her to run for the job of school trustee. It is her first attempt for public office.

Mrs. Temple wants more aides to relieve teachers of clerical work and free them to concentrate on teaching. She also wants psychologists to be put on staff to help disturbed children, a move she says would "not only prevent much suffering but also save money in the long run."

She wants immediate improvement of school libraries and a better information program to "let the public know what is going on in the schools and to interest them in education."

THIRD CANDIDATE

Joseph Haegert, the third candidate, is 65 but he is at present studying French at the University of Victoria. All his life he has pursued a better education for himself, attending classes at UBC in former years.

He thinks a person like himself, who knows by experience the difficulties of getting an education, would represent a fresh point of view on the school board.

Mr. Haegert is concerned about dropouts. "If a youngster drops out of school it is the fault of the system more than the child. The program should be geared to interest students. Students should not be forced to adapt to the system."

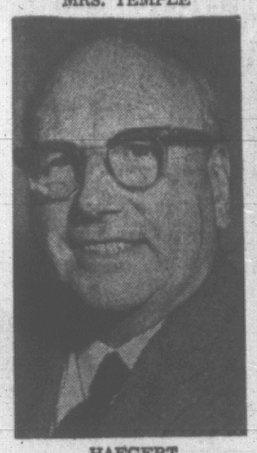

CONTROL SPENDING

Mr. Haegert said he realizes the main job of the board is to control the spending of money but he thinks more could be done "to experiment, to give more leeway to teachers and students, to be more imaginative."

And he wants to have more libraries in the schools. "They provide students with a great advantage at a very low cost."

Japan Bars Fishermen

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japan will bar foreign vessels from fishing inside its territorial waters — three miles offshore — and landing their catches at Japanese ports, the agriculture ministry announced Tuesday.

Smith's Creator At Book Store

Vancouver newspaperman and author Paul St. Pierre will be present at Ivy's Book Store, 1507 Wilmot Saturday to autograph copies of his latest book.

The book, Breaking Smith's Quarter Horse, a story of B.C. ranch country, has been praised in several reviews.

The autographing session will extend from 4 to 6 p.m. The store is located in Oak Bay near the municipal hall.

Committed for Trial

VANCOUVER (CP) — Helen Geisler, 28, a teaching assistant at Simon Fraser University, and her husband Jerry, 37, were committed Tuesday for trial on a joint charge of possessing marijuana.

1866...A very good Year

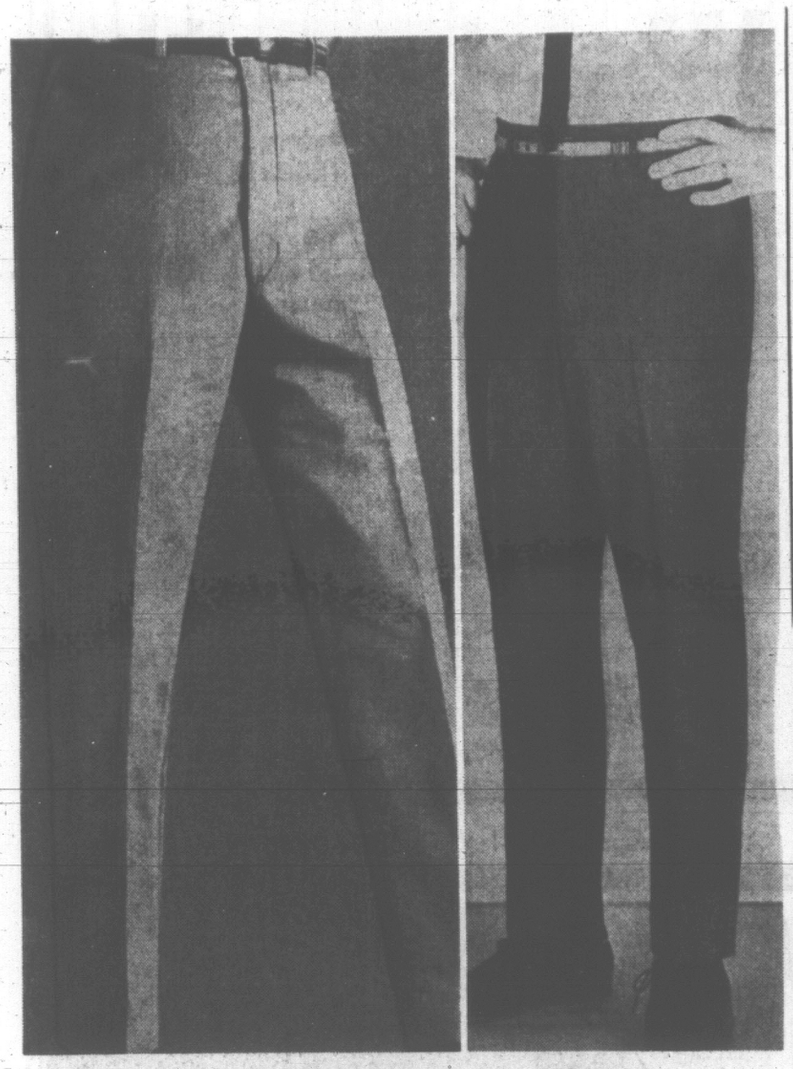

A very good year for the Crown Colonies on the Island and the Mainland, which joined together to become the province of British Columbia. Undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting went on. And undoubtedly, a good deal of toasting will mark B.C.'s 100th birthday. To honor the occasion, Andres introduce Richelieu—the aristocracy of wines—specially set aside for Centennial celebrations. Sherries, aperitif and golden cream; rich full bodied Burgundy and crisp Riesling; Champagnes bubbling with excitement.

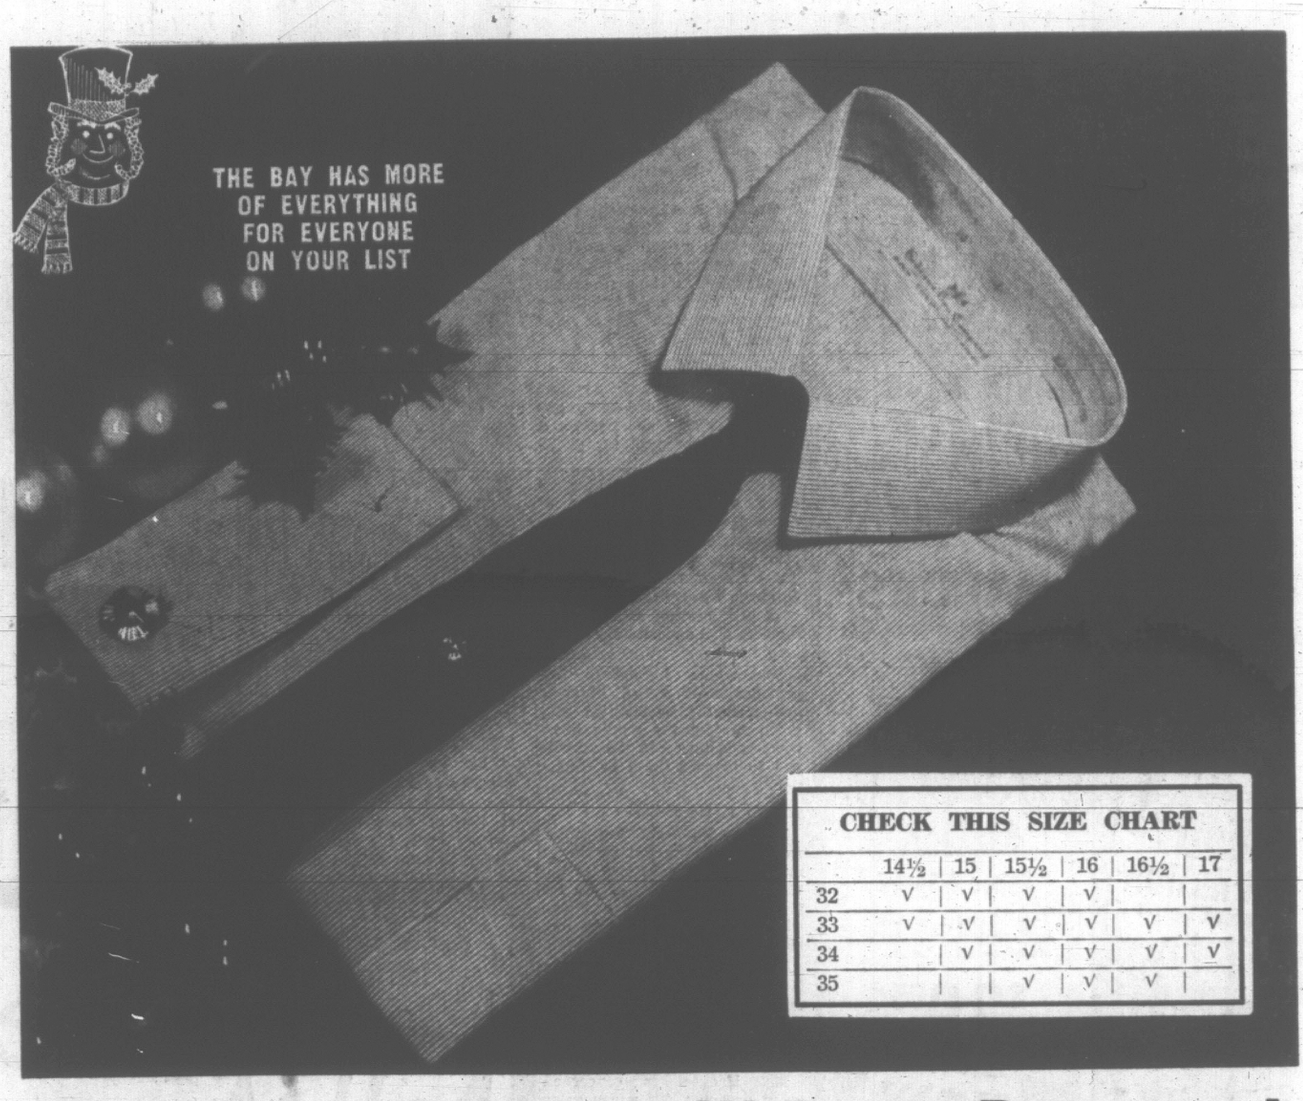

Andres Richelieu Wines...to make 1966 a very memorable year.

Record $15 Million Budget Faces 1967 City Council

Arthur Mayse

In its November issue, a mass circulation women's magazine offered a short story dominated by a female character of more than ordinary charm and grace.

Her name was Elaine and she had chosen to wed a fool.

This character is Richard, an academic type who has just blown his chance at a foundation grant or some such for the ninth consecutive time. Through most of the story, we observe him playing martyr, while his devoted slave of a wife attempts to convince him that life is worth living even though he can't escape to Italy after all.

But Richard prefers to remain miserable, salving his inability to cut the mustard by giving Elaine a bad time.

His wife, who should have sent the sullen fellow packing long ago, finally rebels, at which point Richard changes skins and becomes a human being.

The switch comes about pretty abruptly, and for a homework assignment, the adult education creative writing class I harangue each Wednesday evening undertook to tailor a more satisfactory end to the tale.

★

The students, a keen and argumentative group of mustard - cutters, turned in their revamps a week ago. As I read them it became plain that an arresting division of opinion had taken place.

Most of the men either made a case for the story as it stood, or subjected Richard to varying degrees of chastisement. I haven't got their papers here, and can't be certain; but I don't recall that any of them took potshots at Elaine.

And the women?

Well, I don't understand this, and hope someone, sometime, can come up with a satisfactory explanation.

In paper after paper, women students ignored the author's intent and by arbitrary tugging and twisting, managed to elevate Richard from toad to princeling.

In several versions, Richard, who through nine-tenths of the story had been about as futile as a man can be, was transformed into a roaring lion bent on rescuing his mate from another guy.

The fact that the latter was completely inoffensive didn't signify. Richard, for them, had to emerge a hero.

As for Elaine, the nice kid who had endured a stuffy, bossy opinionated spouse for year after year, it became apparent that if a reconciliation was to be brought about, she must achieve it.

This she was crowded into accomplishing by diverse unfair tactics.

The suggestions came through something like this:

'Darling, I am just a poor, weak, silly woman, and I have misjudged you ever since you were noble enough to marry me. You were right, I am wrong, and if you take me back I will mend my ways.'

★

There were, of course, exceptions, and a few women students acknowledged by their re-shaping of the denouncement that silk purses aren't made from pig's ears.

But the reaction was sharp enough to suggest certain deductions.

One of these seems to be that female emancipation hasn't yet penetrated much more than skin deep and possibly never will.

Another is that the man who insists on being the head of his household in fact as well as name may discover that his wife has been wishing he'd find the gumption to do so for many a year.

I guess, too, we'd better assume that the nicest girl may entertain a masochistic weakness for some Richard-type jerk who will keep her happily miserable for half a lifetime.

By way of warning, gents, I could be terribly wrong about all this. Come to think of it, there was one distaff member of the class who disposed of Richard by tumbling him over a handy cliff!

FOOD DONATION MAGIC KEY TO FESTIVAL OF CARTOONS

A can of food buys admission to the 13th annual cartoon show at the Odeon Theatre Saturday at 11 a.m. But youngsters or adults can bring as many cans as they wish.

All will be donated to Victoria's Free Food Stall for the Christmas season.

The show will include famous Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Bugs Bunny cartoons.

Help Yourself To Trouble, Say Burglars

Two Gangs Nabbed In Tire Shop Raid

Three youths who surprised burglars breaking into a city tire store Sunday night were invited to join in and help themselves.

They did and carted off more loot than the original gang, according to evidence in central court today.

Richard Drinkwater, 19; Benjamin Devison, 18, and John Butts, 18, all of 632 Manchester, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft when they appeared in court this morning. They will be sentenced Dec. 16.

Four of the five Nanaimo youths previously arrested for the same theft have already pleaded guilty earlier this week and will be sentenced Dec. 13. The fifth appeared in juvenile court.

Detective Richard Ward told the court today that the three accused spotted activity around Western OK Tire Store, 2968 Douglas, early Sunday and went to investigate.

HELP YOURSELVES

"C'mon and help yourselves," they were told by the youths who had already pried a hasp off a rear door of the store.

The Nanaimo youths' car was stopped by Saanich police within a half-hour of the break-in and about $170 worth of stolen goods recovered.

The three local youths took tires, wheels, discs, headrests, a typewriter and an adding machine, all worth about $360, court was told.

Police recovered most of the loot from where it was dumped behind a tree on Little Saanich Mountain. The typewriter and adding machine were disposed of at a downtown store, one being pawned and the other sold.

Sidney Gets 'Threads' In January

Decentralization of Victoria's overcrowded Silver Threads Centre will begin early in January with the opening of a new branch at Sidney.

The first branch centre, located in St. Paul's United Church Hall, will be open four afternoons a week. It will offer the same kind of recreational facilities as the main centre at 4 Centennial Square.

"This is a step in the right direction," Silver Threads director Mrs. Catherine Horne said today, "and there is every prospect similar extensions will follow in Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay.

"All the municipalities have endorsed our brief in favor of decentralization."

Membership in the Victoria centre topped 4,700 this week and no further registrations will be accepted until the first week in January.

But guest cards will be issued to men and women of 65 and over wishing to use the centre before then.

The membership fee will be increased from $1 to $2 in the new year in order to assist with branch programs.

EVERY STUDENT at McKenzie Elementary School turned out today to cheer Craig Anderson shown here completing his 1,000th lap around the school. That represents a distance of 100 miles that he has run since September. Sixty students at the school, including four girls, trying to get into the 100-Mile Club. Craig, a 12-year-old grade 7 student, said he "just wanted to see if I could run 100 miles before anyone else. I almost didn't make it. Two other fellows are just a mile behind me." He is now planning on running 200 miles. School principal R. J. Berod said the running was inspired by the school's physical education teacher Ed Hedley. Youngsters have been running "at recess and lunchtime, in rain or shine," said Mr. Berod. (Times photo.)

Prairie Blasts Go Astray More Cold, Snow on Way

Snow flurries are expected in Victoria the next few days as temperatures drop below freezing.

For the first time this year, city motorists had to hunt out their windshield scrapers this morning following a night which saw the mercury drop to 31.

And it looks like they'll be needing them for some time to come with even colder weather forecast for tonight.

Areas away from the sea can expect as low as 20 degrees while Victoria will drop to 30.

With even city roads slippery, highways crews the length of Vancouver Island were kept busy sanding major highways.

And further north, snow was still on the roads — up to 12 inches on the Alberni-Tofino highway — following Tuesday night's fall.

HIGHER GROUND

On higher ground, up to two feet of snow forced closure of several logging operations.

At the Courtenay division of Crown Zellerbach, 200 men working above the 2,000-foot level have been laid off.

While 40 or 50 will be kept busy on other operations, the majority will not return to work until mid-February.

And at Crown Zellerbach's Ladysmith division, plans were being made for the Christmas closure this weekend.

Some 300 men will be laid off until Jan. 9.

MacMillan Bloedel, which closed three Vancouver Island divisions Wednesday, had only one out today — at North West Bay near Nanaimo.

The 200 men who normally work there will work on a day-to-day basis if weather permits.

YULE CLOSURE

Snow plows managed to clear the way for work today at the Nanaimo River and Cameron divisions. Mac-Bloedel has not yet decided when the Christmas closure will come into effect.

At Gold River, where there is still three inches on the ground, the Tahsis company is continuing its normal work schedule.

Meanwhile, the Friday forecast is for increasing cloud over Victoria with snow or rain showers in the afternoon.

Temperatures will continue to drop below freezing overnight, rising to 40 - 42 during the day.

He'll Fish In February After Jail

Frank Ellis wants to go fishing in February.

He'll get his wish but until then he'll wait in jail.

Ellis, of no fixed address and a familiar figure in the prisoner's box, admitted in central court today that he had not worked for about two years.

But he wanted to go to work in February, commercial fishing with his uncle at Cowichan Bay.

He was jailed for two months when he pleaded guilty for the third time this year to vagrancy.

"You're a perfectly healthy, intelligent man who has ruined his life with alcohol," Magistrate Ostler told him. "It's a great pity."

The most merciful thing to do was to get him off the streets, said the magistrate in passing sentence.

"That should get you out just about in time to go fishing."

Swear-In Set 5 p.m. Monday

Swearing-in of new cabinet ministers at a Government House ceremony Monday has been set for 5 p.m., a government spokesman said today.

Premier Bennett has said a new health minister and three women ministers without portfolio will take the oath.

LIONS HOST FESTIVAL

Victoria Lions Club is sponsoring the 20th annual Christmas Carol Festival in Metropolitan United Church Friday at 8 p.m.

Choirs from secondary and elementary schools in Greater Victoria wil be conducted by Frank Tupman, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ and Irving Green on the chimes. Harry Bigsley wil be in charge of the program.

There will be a collection at the door and proceeds will be presented to the Silver Threads organization by Ted Chamberlain, Lions Club president.

NORTH SAANICH

All-Candidate Rally Assured Next Year

This will be North Saanich's last blind election, Reeve J. B. Cumming said today.

Next year, voters will have opportunity to see and hear their municipal candidates, he said.

"I am going to see to it that there is a public meeting for voters and candidates next year.

"The municipality will take the responsibility if no one else does," he said.

North Saanich electors will chose two councillors from four candidates Saturday. Two are incumbents and two are newcomers. But many voters have never had opportunity to meet any of the four.

THREE BACK OUT

An all-candidate meeting was called by the Sidney-North Saanich Chamber of Commerce Tuesday but was cancelled Tuesday afternoon when three of the candidates backed out.

Told that the Times had received complaints from some residents, the reeve said he felt some effort should have been made earlier. The lapse could not be laid to any one person, he said.

But while he felt the candidates are all good men, he agreed also that the candidates themselves bear some responsibility.

THEIR MINDS

One candidate, Joseph Saville agreed that as matters stand, ratepayers have not even been able to assure themselves that their candidates can read or write. Many voters will be making up their minds on the basis of who has the nicest-sounding name.

He said he was prepared to attend the chamber-sponsored meeting which was to have taken place tonight. It was cancelled when candidates Frank Adams and J. H. Wilson said they could not attend. The fourth candidate, George Aylard then backed out also.

Mr. Aylard today said the meeting was called too late in the election campaign. He added, "I would have been able to attend. But I didn't see much good in my going if the others were not going."

NO ISSUES

Mr. Wilson was asked to explain why he was unable to attend.

"I don't know that I should," he said. He suggested that because there are no contentious questions involved in North Saanich, the issue was not too important.

Mr. Wilson said he too, however, would be willing to attend an all-candidate meeting "if the others were, too."

Frank Adams was not available for comment.

Wages, Costs Force $1 Million Boost

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria's new mayor will be charged with supervising the administration of a $15.2 million budget in 1967.

Preliminary budget figures, scheduled for release in January, will show a $1 million increase over last year's record high.

City hall officials refuse to comment on the estimate but admit "it isn't far out."

The budget was struck last year at $14,141,685, a close to $2 million jump over the $12.7 million of 1965.

Preliminary budget figures are traditionally presented to the first council meeting held in January with the final budget presented in detail in the late spring.

The mill rate, the figure which finally informs taxpayers what their bill for the year will be, will remain a mystery until late spring when the school board makes its budget known and the provincial government releases its tax grant figures.

GENERAL DEBT

Last year the mill rate was struck at 62.5, being comprised of 39.3 for the general debt mill rate and 23.2 for schools.

The mill at present is valued at $116,130 as compared with the 1965 mill valued at $103,221.

The mill rate in 1965 was set at 62.9.

City officials point out that while council candidates may assure voters of tax reductions, the hard facts of wage increases and ever-rising costs make it impossible to hold the line on expenditures if the city is to make progress.

Wage increases scheduled for 1967 will account for almost a quarter of the anticipated $1 million boost in the budget.

SCHOOL COSTS

Taking up the balance will be education, debt charges, and special expenditures such as extraordinary grants to hospitals.

Council has already agreed to set aside a specific sum, as yet unstated but expected to be in the $100,000 bracket, to relieve the serious hospital crisis.

This year the city paid $83,850 in emergency funds to hospitals.

But all is not gloomy on the budget front.

City treasurer James Bramley is reluctant to discuss specific figures before his preliminary budget is discussed by council but he estimates, tentatively, that the city will close the 1966 books with a $50,000 surplus.

BLACK SIDE

"That's the way it looks now," he said. "Although it is impossible to say accurately at present. But I think we shall finish up a few dollars in the black."

Mr. Bramley declined to comment on the possible mill rate for 1967 or the possibility of a tax increase.

"Until we know just what the government grants will be — and they don't tell us until just before we bring down our budget — it is impossible to forecast what a logical mill rate would be. And we have to wait for school cost figures, too, before we know just what is expected of us locally."

NO GUARANTEE

Even if the mill rate is held there is no guarantee that the tax bill will be reduced or even confined to this year's level.

In his 1966 budget report in the spring of this year Mr. Bramley reminded council members that "though it should be possible to maintain the same over-all mill rate ... it must be pointed out that even if this is done that the over-all tax bill would still jump by some $800,000.

"Only 32.4 per cent, or $260,000, of this increase would be picked up by new assessment, while the balance of $540,000 would be met from increases in existing assessment, mainly by land.

"This fact should not be lost sight of in establishing this year's budget."

Indications are that the same statement will still apply when council begins its annual wrestle with department budgets in 1967.

One Big Union For Shipyards Wins Support

All unions have joined in joint certification applications at the big three west coast shipyards, it was announced Wednesday.

Two spokesmen for the Joint Shipyard Conference said the applications are being considered by the Labour Relations Board after hearings Tuesday and part of Wednesday.

If granted, the applications will wrap up 36 individual union certifications into three — one each at Victoria Machinery Depot, Yarrows and Burrard Dry Dock.

Spokesmen for union locals which earlier did not go along with the larger Joint Shipyard Conference could not be reached for comment.

The latest move was disclosed by William Stewart and Neil Hindle, two spokesmen for the Joint Shipyard Conference.

BUSINESS AGENT

Mr. Hindle, business agent of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers in Victoria, said he is "most happy" at the outcome.

In the past, unions have bargained together through a voluntary arrangement.

But two years ago, after a strike ended, one union remained on strike seeking an extra 10 cents which it eventually won.

This fall, negotiations have proceeded on several levels with electricians and pipefitters bargaining separately.

Talks and conciliation moves have been delayed pending the outcome of the joint certification applications. A decision by the Labour Relations Board is expected shortly.

Woman's Tip Ends Flight Of Youth

A 17-year-old prisoner who gave police the slip Friday night was recaptured Wednesday when a woman store detective recognized him from a telephoned description.

Jan Moller of 1162 Fort bolted through a window and down a fire escape at his home Friday night after two detectives had taken him home so that he could hand over goods he had stolen.

Mrs. Margaret Campbell, a Woodwards security officer, recognized the lanky youngster in the store Wednesday and alerted several clerks to watch him while police were summoned.

She was able to identify him from the description that had been telephoned to her in the area-wide search.

Moller pleaded guilty to seven counts of theft as well as escaping lawful custody when he appeared in central court today. He will be sentenced Dec. 17.

Among the goods he admitted shoplifting from several stores in the past 10 weeks were two cameras, one of them worth $350, an electric shaver, a hair clipper, a tape recorder, a transistor radio and a wrist watch.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the largest port in the world. T. H.

A. The largest port in the world according to the Guinness Book of World Records is New York Harbor with a total navigable waterfront of 755 miles — 460 miles in New York State and 295 in New Jersey. A total of 400 ships can be berthed simultaneously in 331 general cargo berths and 78 other piers. Total warehousing space is 422.4 acres and the number of ships handled annually is about 30,000.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problmes. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

Falling Tree Cuts Fairfield Power

Power was off for 30 minutes in Fairfield Wednesday afternoon after a falling tree limb sliced through a circuit on Moss Street, with the additional result of several traffic signal failures.

FEARS FOR EMPRESS, CRYSTAL IN SALUTE

Hundred Bangs and All Fall Down

Victoria's finance committee this morning approved the use of floats in the Inner Harbor for a Centennial Celebration New Year's Eve.

But it did so with reservations and some rare flashes of humor.

The Greater Victoria Centennial Society wants the use of city-owned floats to stage a 100-gun salute as the midnight hour marks the arrival of 1967 on Dec. 31.

"One hundred?" questioned Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow. "The Empress almost collapses when they fire a three-gun salute. What's going to happen if they fire 100? I can see the Empress and the Crystal Garden falling down."

City manager Dennis Young explained that the "guns" referred to were not the military kind.

"They are actually giant firecrackers," he said.

"Even at that I don't think we should fix the Crystal roof until it's all over," said Ald. Edgelow. "You never know."

In addition to the 100-bang salute to Centennial Year the society will release 100 helium-filled balloons.

"I must admit I can't see the purpose of releasing 100 balloons at midnight," said Mr. Young.

"I just hope they stay up, that's all," quipped Ald. Edgelow. "I still remember 1958."

It was in 1958 that Ald. Edgelow championed giant balloons to mark special city-wide celebrations. They never did stay inflated.

IT'S TOO DARK

It was pointed out that whether they stayed up or not wouldn't really matter New Year's Eve because it would be too dark to see the balloons anyway.

"Maybe they're going to put messages in them," grinned city treasurer James Bramley.

The committee gave its blessing to the request for balloons and bangs and the playing and singing of "Auld Lang Syne" as the New Year comes in.

And they all expressed the hope that the Empress and the Crystal would come through intact.

Miss Catherine Bell curtseys low as His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor greets her with a friendly smile and warm words of encouragement at the annual debutante ball, sponsored by the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island on Wednesday evening. (Bill Halkett photo.)

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

To Attend Reception

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will be among those attending a reception Friday, given by the commanding officer "E" Division, Assistant-Commissioner F. S. Spalding, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and his officers. Approximately 100 guests are expected to attend the annual affair, from 5 to 7 p.m., in the Officers' Mess, Colville Road. Buffet refreshments will be served.

To Tour Europe

Miss Margaret McCaffery, who graduated this year with a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Victoria, left Victoria recently for New York. On Friday Miss McCaffery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McCaffery, East Burnside Road, will leave aboard the SS Statendan for Dublin, Ireland. She plans to work and travel in Europe and then study for her master's degree.

Announcement

Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Smith 1315 Carnsew Street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Margaret, to Mr. Donald Peter Laughton, son of Mrs. Harold P. Laughton of North Surrey, B.C. and the late Mr. Laughton. The wedding will take place on Tuesday, December 27 at 1:30 p.m. in the chapel of First United Church.

Marry on Monday

Mr. and Mrs. William T. Reid, 3163 Carrol Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their twin daughter, Gwendolyn Lois (Gwen) Wilcox, to Seaman First Class Gerald L. (Nick) Nickelson, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Nickelson of San Diego, Calif. The wedding will take place on Monday in San Diego.

Wed in England

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. C. Archbold, Lane's Road, Cobble Hill, announce the marriage of their daughter, Wendy Mary Grace, to Mr. Iain Edward Murray, Ipswich, Suffolk, Eng. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Murray of Aberdeen, Scotland. The wedding took place on Saturday, December 3 in Swindon, Wiltshire. The bride attended Norfolk House School before travelling to Ottawa and Europe with her parents. Before leaving for England, where she is nursing at Ipswich and East Suffolk Hospital, Ipswich, she attended the University of Victoria. The newlyweds will travel to Germany in the new year, where Mr. Murray is posted with the Royal Air Force.

Wine and Cheese

About 200 guests are expected to attend a wine and cheese party this evening, to be held in the Rockland Avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Hurley under the sponsorship of the Mothers' Auxiliary to the University School. Guests will include the school's headmaster, Mr. J. J. Timmis, and Mrs. Timmis, members of the board of governors, masters and their wives and parents of pupils.

Record Gathering

A record number of nearly 150 members of the Air Force Officers' Association and their wives attended the group's recent annual pre-Christmas cocktail party, held in the Officers' Mess of the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's) Regiment at the Bay Street Armory. Greeting guests were president Air Commodore Gordon Truscott and Mrs. Truscott. Following cocktails, supper was served and dancing enjoyed until midnight. Tombola prizes, autographed copies of Mr. R. M. Patterson's latest books, were won by Mrs. Allan Smitz, Mrs. A. W. J. Smith, Mrs. E. A. A. Boulden, Mrs. E. A. McGowan, Dr. Harold Hunt and Mr. Hugh Hammersley.

CASTLE SOCIETY MEETS

The annual meeting and membership tea of the Craigdarroch Castle Society will be held at the castle this coming Saturday. Mrs. J. Dimery Johnson, Mrs. A. Douglas Turnbull, Mrs. W. Lloyd Morgan and Mrs. Naomi Woodburn will preside at the head table for the social hour which will follow the business meeting.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes are the society's patrons and the mayor of Victoria, honorary president.

Serving with president James K. Nesbitt are vice-president C. C. Wyatt, secretary-treasurer Mrs. Gwladys M. Welsh and executive members Mrs. Morgan, Kenneth C. Drury, Dr. G. Ross Sinclare, Miss Inez Mitchell, James G. P. Audain and Mrs. Edith Luney.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Out With the Old —In With the New

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a saver! He saves old magazines, newspapers, sports equipment, clothes, and all kinds of worthless junk. Our basement is loaded with it and so is our guest room. I am at my wits end. If I so much as ask him when he is going to get around to sorting that stuff, he blows up. A year ago his aunt died, and she never threw anything away either, so he had all her junk sent over here, and we have it in our garage. Don't tell me to send him to a psychiatrist. YOU should be so crazy.

SICK OF JUNK

DEAR SICK: Your husband is a pack rat. This is fine if you have the storage space for it and it isn't a fire hazard, but that's rarely the case. Give the old hoarder one week in which to clean house, and tell him if he doesn't do it, you'll call the Salvation Army, Goodwill, or some church auxiliary to pick up the junk and put it to good use. Then do it.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we were invited to a wedding. For a gift we sent a sterling silver candle snuffer. I just received a note from the bride, thanking us for the "darling little gravy dipper!"

I was stunned when I read it. Should I call the bride and tell her? I'm sure she'd be very much embarrassed if she had guests for dinner and used a candle snuffer for a gravy ladle.

STUNNED

DEAR STUNNED: If you really fear that she will use the candle snuffer as a gravy ladle, call her and tell her nicely.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and am planning my wedding for next spring. My fiance and I both wanted a large wedding. The problem is his new stepmother. After his mom died his dad remarried. We were all real happy until we met her.

She never combs her hair, refuses to wear her false teeth, and she is a mess in general.

I would be embarrassed to death to have this woman in front of all my friends. My fiance doesn't care for her at all.

Abby, are we going to have to let all our plans go up in smoke and have a small wedding because of this woman? We would appreciate your advice.

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: It is unfortunate that your future mother-in-law isn't more presentable, but she IS married to your fiance's father, and you can't hide her in a closet. Proceed with your original wedding plans.

Perhaps her husband can persuade her to get a hair-do, put her teeth in, and spruce up a bit for the occasion. In any case, it is YOUR day, and this woman will not be as conspicuous as you imagine.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THINKING IT OVER": Yes, two can live as cheaply as one — if they both have good jobs.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

With every eye upon her, Miss Barbara Wade, last of the debutantes to be presented, walks down the long stretch of red carpet to where His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes wait to greet her. The other debutantes and their escorts know that, for her, this is the highlight of the evening. (Bill Halkett photo.)

Debutantes Capture Limelight at USI Ball

By PAT DUFOUR

Couturier ballgowns, dress uniforms and impressive rows of miniature medals paled into insignificance, Wednesday evening. All were outshone by 12 young women, this year's debutantes at the annual ball of the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island.

Dressed in traditional white, the lovely debutantes upstaged everyone as, one by one, they entered the ballroom of the Empress Hotel. At the far end, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes waited to receive them. To the debutantes, the walk between was the step from childhood to exciting maturity.

The first to be presented was Miss Cairine Ash, daughter of former Victorians, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ash, who now make their home in Reno, Nevada. Sequins glinted on the satin bodice of her chiffon and satin gown that was styled on simple lines with a tiny satin bow highlighting the waistline. Satin banded the gracefully full skirt of chiffon over satin. A rhinestone necklace and earrings completed the picture. Her escort was Mr. Donald Mosedale and her sponsor was his father, Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale.

Miss Catherine Bell was the epitome of regality as she made her appearance in a gown of white chiffon over taffeta that proved a perfect foil for her dark hair. The slim-fitting sheath was topped with a bodice that was traced with floral appliques of organdy and finished with shoestring straps. Daughter of Mrs. C. S. Bell, 3120 Humber Road, and the late Mr. Bell, the young debutante was sponsored by Wing Cmdr. C. J. H. Holms, and escorted by Officer Cadet Ken Bindernagel.

A front panel of satin and overlay of lace highlighted the A-line skirt of the satin gown worn by Miss Jacqueline Burling, daughter of Major H. G. Burling and Mrs. Burling, 1724 St. Ann Street. Lace also fashioned the empire-line bodice that had a scoop neckline, tiny cap sleeves and a bow at the front waistline. She wore a tiara of rhinestones and a diamond cross. Miss Burling was sponsored by her father and escorted by Officer Cadet Ken Benoit.

Lovely with the freshness of youth, Miss Diana Crabtree, daughter of Major K. S. Crabtree and Mrs. Crabtree, 2083 Windsor Road, chose brocade in shades of off-white and gold for her classically styled gown. The skirt was gentled with a double box pleat at the waistline, giving it an A-line effect. The fitted bodice had a scoop neckline and narrow straps. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings. Miss Crabtree was sponsored by her father and escorted by Mr. Paul Stenner.

Two sisters, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. L. Fanthorpe, 2934 Cedar Hill Road, were the next to be presented, both being sponsored by Lt.-Col. R. D. Travis, a former USI president.

Miss Lynne Fanthorpe chose a gown of white delustred velvet for her debut. The skirt was pencil slim with a side slit. The sleeveless bodice was slightly fitted and finished with a scoop neckline. A pearl pendant and earrings formed jewelry accents. Her escort was Officer Cadet Geoff Haswell.

Miss Maureen Fanthorpe chose a brilliant and pearl necklace, rhinestone bracelet and earrings to add brilliance to her gown of peau de soie. Wide inverted pleats at the side emphasized the full skirt. The sleeveless bodice had a rounded neckline and was corded at the waist. She was escorted by Mr. Michael Fall of Cobble Hill.

Miss Kirsty Gladwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gladwell, 2830 Murray Drive, had worn a stole of white satin and fox on her arrival at the hotel. Making her appearance in the ballroom, the fair-haired debutante had removed it to show a classic gown of rich white satin that had a band of metallic velvet giving softness to the strapless top and ending in a large bow at the back. Fullness at the back of the skirt gave dignity to her walk down the long length of carpet. She wore a diamond tiara and pearl necklace. Major Crabtree was her sponsor and she was escorted by Mr. David Redmond.

Tall and graceful, the next debutante to appear was Miss Gillian Gregory, daughter of Chief Constable J. F. Gregory and Mrs. Gregory, 3240 Uplands Place. Back tucking lent interest to the squared neckline of her simply-styled gown of peau de soie that was A-line and sleeveless. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls. Chief Constable Gregory was sponsor for his daughter and her escort was Mr. Mark Clark.

A tiny star centred the pearl tiara which Miss Heather Henderson teamed with earrings for her choice of jewelry. A peau de soie band, ending in a tiny bow at the front, cinched the crescent waistline of her gown which had a bodice of re-embroidered Venetian lace and a slim-fitting skirt of knife-pleated chiffon over taffeta. The young debutante is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Henderson, 3131 Woodburn Avenue. Mr. Henderson was sponsor and Officer Cadet Terry Rogers acted as her escort.

Miss Cecily Mosedale, daughter of Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale and Mrs. Mosedale, 3923 Cumberland Road, looked as if she had just stepped out of a painting by one of the old masters when she entered the ballroom. Her gown of white silk crepe was fashioned on Grecian lines with a crystal brooch giving accent to the shoulder from which her gown draped in the appearance of a toga to the tips of her shoes. In perfect harmony, her blonde hair was piled high in Grecian curls and adorned with a tracery of narrow white velvet ribbon. Crystal earrings lent the final touch. She was sponsored by her father and escorted by Officer Cadet Robert Ogilvy.

Delicate touches of pink enhanced the floating panel that gave extra beauty to the white and silver brocade gown worn by Miss Kathy Smith, daughter of Col. Norman Smith and Mrs. Smith, 1984 Waterloo Road. Backed in shell pink, the panel had pink and silver beading outlining the flowers in the brocade. The skirt was slightly A-line and the empire bodice featured a scoop neckline. Only jewelry was a pair of crystal earrings. Officer Cadet Martin K. Middleton escorted Miss Smith, who was sponsored by her father.

Miss Barbara Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wade, 2357 Pacific Avenue, provided a fitting finale to the parade of 1966 debutantes. All eyes were on her as she walked the length of the ballroom in a gown of Swiss organza that had an underlay of satin. The empire-line bodice had a low oval neckline and the skirt was gently A-line. Her pendant rhinestone earrings repeated the sparkle of the silver embroidery on her gown. The fair-haired debutante was sponsored by her father and escorted by Mr. Allan McDiarmid.

WHO CAUSED THE DELAY AT USI BALL?

Even a well-organized affair like the USI Ball can have its anxious moments. Guests waiting in the ballroom for the arrival of His Honor and Mrs. Pearkes were treated to twin fanfares, an abashed length of silence between. Explained one red-faced official, "The Pearkes have so many friends, they must have stopped to chat to someone on the way in."

Have Cosy Breakfasts With This Egg Cosy

By PENNY SAVER

Breakfasts around the Saver household are things that any household could do without, I'm sure. They're those "pleasant" occasions where you don't dare say a word for fear of ruffling the neck hairs of someone who may have jumped out of bed on the "wrong side"! I've often wished that there was something that would make that first meal of the day just a little cheery, or bright, or anything but what it is.

One shop has a little item that brightens up the breakfast table. It's an egg cosy that is very unique indeed. These wonders actually serve a double purpose. Not only do they please the eye first thing in the morning, but they keep eggs warm for late-comers who would naturally be upset for the rest of the day if their eggs were cold.

These egg cosies are dolls, made completely of wool. Each one is different. They have different hair styles and facial expressions. One has ringlets and a little cap, where others have a shorter coiffure with a cap of another type.

Each doll is carrying a handbag, too. Perch these dolls on your breakfast table. Price is $1 each.

The pride and joy of many a little girl is her own doll house, complete with furniture and a miniature "family". Tiny doll "babies", just perfect for doll houses, sell in this store for 29 cents. These come in wee pink bunting bags, hand-knitted by a Victoria woman. Each doll is dressed in a white romper suit. These dolls are about as big as your little finger. Matter of fact, if you take the doll from out of the bunting bag, you must force the bag open with that finger before the doll will go back inside.

The ideal item for the tea-totaler on your list is a tea cosy. One in this store is completely crocheted in a loop stitch, with a large pompon on the top. They come in any color, and price is $3.50.

If you're an old hand at knitting yourself, pick up one of the fancy knitting bags in this shop. They're plasticized, with a zipper running down the side. They come in an assortment of colors, in a floral design, for $2.25.

Don't forget Penny's number is 382-3131. Give her a call if you want to know where she found these items.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I was interested in reading a recent report released by a Subcommittee of the United States Senate's Special Committee on Aging. The report is titled "Needs for Services Revealed by Operation Medicare Alert."

Lowman

As you probably know, Operation Medicare Alert was a program which utilized older workers to seek out those in their own age group who might not know about the health benefits Medicare provides or what action is necessary in order to profit by it.

From this standpoint the project was highly successful, and also equally so for another reason. Talking with all of these elderly folks gave a vivid insight into their needs which could not have been obtained otherwise.

I was not surprised to read that loneliness is one of the most serious problems of old people. Loneliness and an opportunity to be useful are as fundamental as the need for homemaker services, better housing and health services.

Actually loneliness is a problem of some in all age groups. There are always those who withdraw from life, who approach it timidly or with suspicion. This snowballs. The more isolated you become, the more difficult it will be to get back into the main current of living.

The older person is particularly likely to suffer from loneliness. Perhaps poor health limits activities. Children have grown up and left home. It may be that during the time they were growing up the parents did not have outside interests. Their whole world was within the walls of their home and peopled by their children.

The older person is apt to have less money. Many of them have a pitifully small amount. Even if it is adequate for simple living, there may be practically none left over for social life.

However, there are all sorts of activities at your church, and in most communities there is now some organization which caters to the older citizens. As time goes on there will be more. Get in touch with the family services organization in your community or your local Red Cross chapter and ask them what is available near you. Take that first step away from loneliness!

If you would like to have my leaflet "How to Overcome Loneliness and Self-consciousness" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Program—A varied program of musical and vocal selections was presented when the Victoria Musical Art Society held its recent meeting in the Sidney home of Mr. and Mrs. John Pedlow. Those performing were Allision Marshall, piano selections by Chopin and Debussy; Darien Hunt, Susan Phillips, Diane Hayward and George Kiraly, three violins and cello; John Smith, vocal selections from Kennedy-Fraser and Scottish music; Phyllis Hick, piano, and Friedl Waelti, speech arts.

Vote Funds — The Esquimalt Chapter IODE voted $30 for the provision of cod liver oil for use by the Victoria Order of Nurses when the group met for a recent meeting in the Old Esquimalt Road home of Mrs. A. G. Fulmer. Mrs. C. A. Dodimead presided and reported on the semi-annual provincial meeting she attended in Chilliwack. Reports showed that members had contributed 54 hours of service at the Red Cross Lodge of the Veterans' Hospital. Mrs. A. L. Oakley was named to organize Christmas hampers and Mrs. G. P. Clarke was appointed ticket convener for the delicatessen stall which the chapter will run at the IODE Festival, to be held in the McPherson Playhouse in February. Mrs. J. T. Jones was welcomed back after a lengthy absence, due to sickness. Tea hostesses were Mrs. N. Ormond and Mrs. Fulmer. It was agreed to hold the next meeting at the Jubilee Hall, Fraser Street, on Monday, December 12 at 7:30 p.m., with a Christmas party following the regular meeting.

Her Former Church

Mrs. H. W. Kerley, wife of the former minister, made a return visit to Belmont United Church recently to officially open a bazaar and tea, held in the church hall. She was introduced by UCW president, Mrs. N. Langton.

Artist Les Harper had assisted members of the Canadian Girls in Training in decorating the hall for the event which realized proceeds of $225. A well-patronized candy bar was also run by CGIT members.

The Fidelis Evening Unit convened tea arrangements, setting the tables with centrepieces of holly.

Stalls featured novelties, aprons and other sewn items, greeting cards, a delicatessen, plants and superfluities.

THE MISERY OF PSORIASIS

New medicated formula guarantees relief from the itching and scaling of psoriasis...or your money back!

Psoriasis may first appear as a crusty patch on your skin or scalp. It's misery if psoriasis spreads and leaves your skin rough and scaly and if medications you've tried fail to bring the relief you want.

New Tegrin's medicated formula helps give you three-way relief:

1. Speeds soothing relief from itching.
2. Works fast to remove scales.
3. Continued use on affected areas helps keep scales from coming back.

Tegrin cream leaves your skin clearer, helps restore natural smoothness. And it's not greasy . . . no medical smell.

Here are the 13 spots where psoriasis most often starts:

(1) scalp (2) neck (3) shoulders (4) elbows (5) arms (6) hands (7) chest (8) back (9) mid areas (10) knees (11) thighs (12) legs (13) feet

But no matter where psoriasis may strike, new TEGRIN brings symptomatic relief.

TEGRIN™

WORDS—NO FACTS

Cloudy Picture Painted by LBJ In Discussions

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — There has been a strange development in President Johnson which may have gone unnoticed because, while he may seem to be talking as much as ever, he really isn't.

He has been talking in press conferences for months but that is scattered talk on a variety of subjects, not detailed and not in any sense full explanations on serious subjects.

He has not been making sustained speeches or explanations as he did in his early White House days. As a result he has become more remote from the people.

And as a result of that his popularity and the public's confidence in him have sagged. For example, it has been a long time since he took to the airways to talk about Viet Nam.

All that's been coming out of Texas about the American economy so far is a jumble. He will, of course, have the opportunity to be clear and specific about this in January in his budget and economic and State of the Union messages.

PUBLIC PUZZLED

Meanwhile, a rather puzzled public waits. But that he is losing ground with the public was illustrated in two public opinion polls published this week by George Gallup and Louis Harris.

The latest Gallup poll, which at the beginning of 1966 showed 63 per cent approving the way Johnson did his job, showed only 48 per cent did, although this was a four-point increase from October.

Gallup attributed the downward trend to disenchantment with the "Great Society" and the course of the war in Viet Nam. In the latest survey, 43 per cent said they approved Johnson's handling of the war, 40 per cent didn't.

But the Harris polls was even gloomier. Harris found only 42 per cent approved Johnson's handling of the war, a seven-point drop since his trip to the Manila conference in October.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, said in an interview recently the war "just might fade away . . . but nobody knows." That's not throwing much light on it. And Johnson has never thrown much light on it.

Still, there's no indication he will change his course.

If he wants to be re-elected he will have to make big changes.

Full Shifts to Resume At Crofton Pulp Mill

CROFTON — The B.C. Forest Products, Ltd., pulp mill here will resume full production with the 8 a.m. shift Sunday.

There has been a cutback for 10 days because of the longshoremen's dispute.

Jack L. Gallagher, industrial relations officer, said today the resumption of full production was possible because more pulp storage space has been found.

At the peak, Crofton mill laid off 150 men. About 110 will remain idle until Sunday.

NANAIMO — Ole Marland, 62, of Wellington, was fined $225 in magistrate's court here after being found guilty of impaired driving. He was also banned from driving for six months except to and from work.

Police gave evidence that Marland was spotted driving in an erratic manner.

★ ★ ★

NANAIMO — June, 1967, has been set as a tentative date for a referendum on formation of a district municipality here.

The date has been set as a result of a meeting last week of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and Tony Poje of Nanaimo, chairman of a committee which has been studying the issue.

The possibility of forming a district municipality has been under study for about two years.

At a November meeting of Nanaimo city council and Mr. Poje's study committee, the possibility of a merger of Nanaimo and surrounding areas was discussed.

At last week's meeting, however, Mr. Campbell said reorganization would be preferable to merger plans.

Also at last week's meeting were deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown, Nanaimo Alderman Jack Parker, Harewood secretary-treasurer Rod Glen, and Gordon Blank of Wellington waterworks district.

POLLUTION SOCIETY SOUGHT BY LAWYER

CVETKOVICH

CAMPBELL RIVER — A mass meeting will be held here tonight to discuss formation of a pollution control society.

Organizer of the meeting is lawyer Joseph J. Cvetkovich who has been active in opposing dumping of mine tailings in Buttle Lake by Western Mines Ltd.

Idea of the proposed society is to fill the gap created by the "inefficiency" of the provincial pollution control board, said Mr. Cvetkovich.

The local lawyer claims the provincial board has failed to do its job in ensuring there will be no pollution of the lake (Campbell River's main water supply).

The board earlier this year approved an application by the mining company to dump tailings and treated effluent into the lake.

Garbage Image Seen at Duncan

"Garbage Can of the Cowichan Valley."

This may become the new slogan for the city of Duncan unless littered sidewalks are swept, a group of Duncan businessmen warned council this week.

In a complaint about the "deplorable neglect" of downtown sidewalks, the businessmen suggested a letter from council to all property owners remind them of their responsibility to keep sidewalks clean.

A letter to this effect was sent out earlier this year.

Ald. James Saunders said the answer is for the city works crew to do the cleaning job and city hall to assess the property owners or tenants for it.

But city clerk Gordon Berry said he would have to check the legal position. He was not sure council could assess the owners who are already paying taxes.

Mayor Dobson said: "Any business too busy to sweep its own sidewalk is making enough money to have them cleaned. The main parts of downtown are the worst.

Pavilion at Expo 67 May Come to Coast

DUNCAN — The collapsible Indian pavilion at Expo 67 may be reassembled in the Cowichan district as a centre for Vancouver Island native exhibits.

At least the idea will be sent to Ottawa by Cowichan band council.

Abel Joe, a council member, said today: "It could be a tremendous tourist attraction."

The band acted after being told by J. W. Churchman, director of Indian affairs, the pavilion might be reassembled in Ottawa and become a contemporary Indian arts and crafts centre.

CULTURAL CENTRE

It is possible the Expo pavilion could be used in Cowichan instead of the cultural centre which the band's centennial committee is hoping to raise $250,000 to build.

Cowichan band council went on record as being in favor of forming a national group of registered Indians.

The council will hold a special meeting to discuss and study the matter.

The suggestion came from the Federation of Saskatchewan Indians.

John B. Tootoosis of the federation asked if Cowichan thought such an organization could be formed "to protect our rights and to bring our views to the attention of governments."

Registered Indians account for 95 per cent of Indians in Canada but exclude a number of "general" Indians on the prairies and the Metis.

HELP COMES

Bleeding Man Tries To Drive

VANCOUVER — A Tofino miner who lost consciousness while attempting to drive himself to hospital after slashing a leg artery was in satisfactory condition today in Vancouver General Hospital.

Murry Ralston, an employee of Brymor Mines, was apparently doing some wood carving Wednesday at his home when the knife he was using slipped and cut his leg.

He attempted to drive his car to hospital at Tofino but lost consciousness from loss of blood. A passing motorist found him and drove him to hospital.

He was flown to Nanaimo late Wednesday and was brought to Vancouver aboard a ferry.

New Tax Cost 75 Cents

No Sooke ratepayer should pay more than an extra 75 cents in taxes if the school building referendum is approved in Saturday's election.

This is one of the points emphasized by the school board in a statement issued today.

The $2,165,000 referendum is for 48 classrooms, purchase of land for future schools, and to supply up to date equipment.

The board said the provincial government will pay 75 per cent of the costs since every item in the referendum is "cost-shareable" and conforms to the provincial basic standard for all districts.

C. SAANICH ELECTION MEETING

Pair Clash Over Witty Action

Candidates for the reeveship of Central Saanich, incumbent Gordon Lee and Ray Lamont, clashed over the principle of expropriation of land for park purposes at an election meeting Wednesday.

Mr. Lamont, a former councillor, is opposed to the Capital Regional Parks Board expropriating land if the owner doesn't want to sell.

Citing the proposed plans to expropriate 40 acres of land in Metchosin owned by the Witty brothers, he siad he didn't want the same thing to happen to property owners in Central Saanich.

Reeve Lee, a member of the board who voted for expropriation, said the board had no other alternative because it was "impossible to do business with the Witty brothers."

"The provincial government negotiated 15 years for the land but got nowhere," he said.

He said the board did not want the land used for a subdivision.

"This property will serve as a recreational area for all residents of the Saanich peninsula," he said.

"But the point is if a farmer wants to keep his land as it is, why should it be expropriated?" asked Mr. Lamont.

The matter was dropped after a ratepayer objected to bringing in the Witty Lagoon controversy in the election issue on the grounds it had nothing to do with Central Saanich.

About 50 ratepayers turned up at the meeting held at the Brentwood Women's Institute Hall. Apart from the two candidates for the reeveship, six are contesting three vacant council seats.

The reeve challenged an allegation made by Mr. Lamont that all correspondence is not read in council.

Mr. Lamont said he wrote a letter to council in 1963 protesting against the construction of a marine drive road at the expense of taxpayers on the grounds it would only serve a subdivision. It was not read in council, he claimed.

The reeve replied that all councillors were supplied with a copy of his letter.

He also opposed a suggestion by Mr. Lamont that gravel from the municipal pit be sold to pay for the purchase of a loader and rock crusher.

"Why should we compete with private enterprise when it is providing a payroll to workers," he said.

The main points of the reeve's platform were:

- An early plebiscite to determine if the people of Brentwood are in favor of a sewage system with an efficient treatment plant.
- To submit within a matter of weeks a master plan to ensure the orderly development of the municipality.
- To extend and expand public services such as roads, policing, fire protection, street lighting.
- To make every effort to have Greater Victoria water made available to the northern half of the peninsula.
- To push for the early construction of a 100-bed hospital to serve the peninsula.

The reeve said it was important for Central Saanich to co-operate with other municipalities to get the B.C. government to take on a greater share of education costs.

NOT FAIR SHARE

The government was not turning over a fair share of its tax revenue to the municipalities, he charged.

"Do your realize that of the 40 mill tax rate for this municipality, that 14.40 mills is for services, such as health, road, recreation, library and all other services you demand" he said.

"But 26 mills is for education purposes or roughly 65 per cent of your taxes on property goes for education," he added. "This is too much."

Mr. Lamont's main points were:

- The immediate setup of a capital reserve fund for purchase of works, fire and police department equipment when needed, to save the taxpayer of a heavy burden on taxes in any one year.
- A five-year maintenance and road construction program.

Mr. Lamont also felt Central Saanich should be cautious in its dealings with Capital District Regional Board.

Two candidates seeking election on council disagreed over the proposed sewage system for Brentwood.

Charles Harris said he was opposed to the scheme because the sewer system would outgrow itself in a few years. (It will be capable of serving a maximum population of 4,000.)

SEWAGE SYSTEM

Archibald M. Galbraith, a marine engineer, said the system and treatment plant was so designed so that it could be connected to a greater sewage system at a later date. It would continue to be of use.

No raw sewage would be dumped in Saanich Bay, he said.

Coun. Margaret Salt, seeking re-election, said she would go along spending all of $12,000 centennial fund on Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

She said $4,000 has been allocated for building a small concrete museum, but the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society did not want it built at the Saanichton Fair. The Saanich Pioneer Society also didn't want the building located near their museum on the grounds.

Councillors A. K. Hemstreet and Tom Michell, also seeking re-election, supported the present policies of council. Peter Lazarz said he was strongly in favor of zoning plan for Central Saanich to prevent sprawl development.

102 DAYS AT SEA

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters) — Lone yachtsman Francis Chichester had his first face-to-face conversations Wednesday after 102 solitary days at sea.

Chichester told a reporter at sea a fishing boat rammed his Gypsy Moth IV Wednesday morning and said it was the most serious mishap in his voyage from England to Sydney.

THE SWINGER
Ann-Margret
Royal Theatre

The delectable Ann-Margret, so well-endowed by nature, is worthy of better material than this flimsy farce which exploits her sex but does little for her personality.

The supporting performers, headed by Tony Franciosa and Robert Coote, try manfully to keep things moving and do succeed, now and then, in raising a few horsy laughs. Most of the time they seem bogged down by the script.

It starts off in promising style as a skit on girlie magazines. Ann-Margret yearns to have one of her stories published but is told they are much too tame for the sensational periodicals.

In consequence, she picks up some lurid paperbacks, steals characters and situations from them and and writes what she claims is her own shameless autobiography.

★ ★ ★

The rest of the story is spread over Ann-Margret's attempts to convince the girlie-magazine that she is really depraved and not just a nice girl impersonating a bad girl.

Editor Tony Franciosa is shocked, for very obvious reasons, while publisher Robert Coote is delighted, for very mercenary reasons, and decides to publish the autobiography.

Tony spirits the girl away to his aunt's home in Malibu and determines to reform her. The aunt (Nydia Westman) sees through the deception and decides Ann-Margret is just the girl for him.

No girlie-magazine editor could be quite so fog-brained as Tony, but the light gets through eventually and Tony decides to teach Ann-Margret a lesson. He forces her to re-live all the lurid adventures she has described in his magazine.

This has tremendous possibilities and there is some lively slapstick along the way. But it never really gets off the ground.

ICE CAPADES COMEDY TEAM

Only Experts Clown It Up

John Labrecque, a former Canadian ice hockey player, is presenting a new kind of comedy routine with the Ice Capades in Memorial Arena Dec. 14-17.

This time he is partnered by a girl — Carolyn O'Kelly from California.

"Women are rare in ice comedy routines," says Mr. Labrecque, "but Carolyn is a natural. I first noticed her about a year ago when she skated with the Ballet Corps. Between rehearsals she mixed with the men on the ice, goofing most of the time."

Mr. Labrecque said it took a lot of talking to convince Carolyn they cold work out a successful comedy routine. Audience reaction since has proved they could.

"These comedy antics call for expert skating and perfect timing. After that, it's the ideas that count. I have Carolyn throw me around on the ice and it's a big laugh every time.

"I don't know any other girl who could do it."

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our grateful thanks and appreciation for the messages of sympathy and floral offerings received, and thanks also to Sands Mortuary Ltd., Drs. W. Graham, Carlow and Banks and the nurses and staff of St. Joseph's Hospital, Floor 3-A, for the wonderful attention given the late Mrs. Celine J. Godeau.—Ron and Emma Moss and family.

The memory of the kindness and sympathy shown us by our relatives, friends and business associates will remain with us through the years. We want you all to know that we are truly grateful for the comfort you have given us in our sad bereavement in the loss of our brother Donald McKenna. Special thanks to Rev. Father Pierre and Sands Funeral Home.—The Family.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BOLTON—In loving memory of my dear son, David Trevor Bolton, who passed away suddenly Dec. 8, 1961.
I think of his sayings
And treasure his smile,
I keep in my memory
My love of the past.
And always and always Forever will last.
—Lest we forget, Mom.

SILVER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Eileen Silver, who passed away on Dec. 8, 1963.
When a mother breathes her last farewell
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place
Without the smile of mother's face.
—Dearly loved and sadly missed by Jack and Pat Metcalfe and family.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

The news from Hollywood that Sebastian Cabot has been hospitalized with an ulcer and will miss at least eight episodes of his new series, "Family Affair," brought to mind immediately the old chestnut that comebacks are never successful.

Stephen

Much has been written about the failures of Milton Berle and Garry Moore to return to star prominence after having once been at the top.

But for every one failing to succeed on the comeback trail there are at least two who have succeeded without fanfare.

Sebastian is a perfect example of an actor who has returned successfully. He made his biggest impression as Dr. Hyatt in "Checkmate." Now as valet, Mr. French, in Family Affair he is again basking in the starlight.

Toothy Doug McClure was another Checkmate graduate who has been a regular performer on the 90-minute color western The Virginian.

Art Carney, who faded after the initial run of The Honeymooners with Jackie Gleason and several specials, is back bigger than ever with Gleason and a new spate of Honeymooner happenings.

Bob Denver, Maynard of the Dobie Gillis series, has successfully steered Gilligan's Island past ratings pitfalls. Jim Backus, on the same show, has returned more than once.

William Shatner of Star Trek was once the prosecutor in "For the People."

Howard Duff is the star of the police drama Felony Squad. He once had a series with his wife, Ida Lupino.

Robert Culp had the "Trackdown" series working for him. He disappeared but came back as a star in the highly-entertaining "I Spy" series.

David Janssen used to be the private detective Richard Diamond in a sad series many years ago. It went by the boards with a thump but Janssen came up strongly as "The Fugitive."

Ben Gazzara once teamed up with Chuck Connors in a series titled Arrest and Trial. Now he's healthily running for his life.

Then there's Fess Parker, once TV's Davy Crockett, now Daniel Boone. Dale Robertson, who starred in Wells Fargo is back as the big boss of The Iron Horse. Efrem Zimbalist Jr. was happy on his trips to bank with 77 Sunset Strip. He's even happier now with the FBI.

There are many others, and it does prove that comebacks are not as rare as we are sometimes led to believe.

COURT EXPERIMENTING WITH SUSPENDED TERMS

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Court of Appeal is experimenting with wider use of suspended sentences to provide control and guidance over young offenders, the court's retiring chief justice said Wednesday.

Chief Justice H. I. Bird, who retires on his 75th birthday, January 8, said the court is strongly in favor of this procedure where merited. He said the increased use of suspended sentences has not been in effect long enough to judge how it is paying off.

Once released on suspended sentences, the subject must conform to certain requirements and any breach of the rules can result in arrest and imposition of the sentence.

Toby Captures Obedience Title After Run-Off

A Pomeranian called Toby, owned by Mrs. R. F. Linton, won the highest score at a week-end obedience trial held at Sanscha Hall, Sidney, by the North Saanich Dog Obedience Club.

Toby placed first after a run-off with Ruth Thuillier's Sheltie, Sheppie, which won a rosette for the highest scoring junior.

Five braces of dogs competed for the Mirdinon Trophy, won by the Victoria team of two Labradors, Raven and Majorette, owned by Mrs. Mary Bates.

Other rosettes went to Mrs. L. Seibel's corgi Zuzu, utility class; Mrs. A. G. Stewart's poodle Juno, open B; Mrs. R. Thornber's German Shepherd Sheba, open A; Mrs. J. Reed's Sheltie Donna, novice B; Mrs. R. F. Linton's Pomeranian Toby, novice A.

Snow White's Christmas Surprise

4-YEAR STUDY

Problem Teen-Agers Can Be Aided

TORONTO (CP) — Problem teen-agers aren't easy to tame but it can be done, says James Feldstiner, a 30-year-old social worker who spent four years helping the tear-away youngsters who hang around downtown Toronto.

Mr. Feldstiner's experiences are recounted in Youth in Need, a report on a youth project sponsored by the University Settlement in which he took part.

He played the role of a "detached social worker" — a new breed in the profession, detached from the agency he represents and operating on a more informal basis. Mr. Feldstiner met the boys on their home ground: poolrooms, restaurants, on the streets.

He admits that the report fails to prove, by convential standards, that he achieved great success, but asks: "How can you prove it? We're not engaging in a science."

However, he is confident he has helped "his boys." Before he began concentrated work with 16 alienated youths in the last 18 months of the program, 11 of them were unemployed; when the program ended, 11 were working.

"For the layman, that's success," he says.

The report shows the process of reaching the boys between 15 and 18 years of age was difficut. He had to take uncertain boys to job interviews, help others move to better housing, listen to their complaints about parents, help them with homework — and, sometimes, accompany them to court.

Frustrations were many. His group of boys was in frequent conflict with others already in Settlement programs, and their influence caused the death of at least one project, according to Settlement officials whose comments are included in the report.

Mr. Feldstiner places much of the blame for the boys' problems on their home life.

More than half or the 16 lived in substandard rooms, or homes where no one provided them with parental support and guidance. One boy, unwilling to comply with his father's demands for total obedience, slept in his car trunk at night.

WHAT BETTER way to spend the cold winter evenings than with your favorite pipe? This might well be the question as one observes this bespectacled "monkey" contentedly puffing away. The "monkey" is a small statue carved from a coconut, and the pipe belonged to the photographer.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 02-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Michael Wilkin, age 9, of Rochester, N.Y., for his question:

How can a caterpillar make a cocoon?

In the winter woods there are millions of caterpillars sleeping in cocoons. Some hang from the bare branches disguised as bits of dry twig. Some pretend to be withered leaves, clinging to the trees. Some are stuck in the cracks of the tree trunks, and some rest under the old leaves on the ground. They come in assorted shapes and colors. Most of them are made of silk, but some of them are woven from silken threads mixed with dirt or scraps of tree bark or even a few caterpillar hairs.

There are hundreds of different caterpillars, each one different from the next. Each kind makes his own cocoon in his own way. Most of the caterpillars who make cocoons will become fuzzy-winged moths. Most butterfly caterpillars wrap themselves in stiff chrysalises. In the insect world the cocoon or chrysalis is called a pupa. The young fellow inside is resting through his pupa stage of life.

A cocoon caterpillar has tiny silk-making factories (special glands near his tail) right inside his body. The silk material is a gummy liquid, and it is stored inside little bags until the caterpillar needs it. There are tiney tubes that connect the liquid silk to the skin. The ends of the tubes are fitted with little faucets.

Half Mile Long

When the caterpillar is ready to spin his cocoon, thin streams of liquid silk come from the faucets. In the cool air the liquid changes at once into solid silk and blends into a single strand. As the caterpillar moves his wriggly body around, he pulls out more and more silk and the thread grows longer.

He uses the first length of silk to fix himself to the right spot. He wriggles his tail, pulling out the strand so that it winds around a twig or a withered leaf. Then the caterpillar begins to wind his silken thread around himself. He twists and turns, stretches and bends up and over, around and across. As a rule, he winds the thread around his body in figures of eight. The silken thread may be a half-mile long. When the winding is done the caterpillar is wrapped inside a warm, cosy blanket woven from fine, soft silk.

The cecropia moth has big brown wings with wide borders of orange and tan. Its chubby caterpillar of pale green has spikes down its back. This fellow fixes the two ends of his grayish-brown cocoon to a maple or willow twig. The woolly bear caterpillar mixes his own fuzzy hairs with the silken thread as he weaves his cocoon. The caterpillar of the handsome luna moth mixes dirt with its silken thread, and his chunky brown cocoon hides in the dirt on the ground.

All Because He Forgot To Write!

LONDON (AP)—For sending out the world's first Christmas card, Sir Henry Cole got a blast of angry criticism. His enraged critics accused him of encouraging drunkenness.

Two highly respected sources—the Victoria and Albert Museum and The Times—are the authority for this.

They say the first Christmas card was mailed in 1843 by Sir Henry, founder of the museum.

He had a habit of writing friends every Christmas. Just before that Christmas 123 years ago, he found he had forgotten to write the Christmas letter.

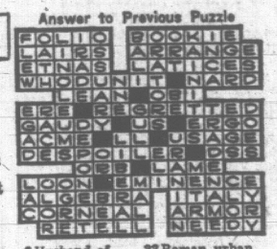

He asked an artist friend to whip up a card with a Christmas message that could be printed in quantity. It showed a group of well dressed people drinking the health of absent friends at Christmas time. Flanking the males and females were two panels picturing the handing out of presents to the poor.

The message on the card read: "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to you."

This year, experts say, Britons will spend $70,000,000 on cards.

ELLINOR

JAMESON

ON ADMINISTRATION SHAKE-UP

Candidates Back Report

Oak Bay voters have the choice between a man and a woman in Saturday's election for the school board.

Seeking his third two-year term on the board is Dr. Carron Jameson, a local dentist.

Making her third try for public office is Mrs. Dorothy Ellinor, a housewife and mother.

Dr. Jameson is chairman of the board's education committee and is the person principally responsible for commissioning the Downey-Hartrick report on the school system's administration.

The report recommended a thorough shake-up of the administrative structure and will have far-reaching effects on the system. Dr. Jameson was the trustee who first suggested the need for it.

He says one of the principal reasons he is running again is to ensure implementation of the report's recommendations. He claims that unless the board is composed of trustees acquainted with the background, some of the report's impact will be lost.

USE FACILITIES

Dr. Jameson supports greater use of school facilities by community groups and also wants an increase in school sports activities to ensure fuller participation by all students, not just the top athletes.

He was pushed in the board for a varied educational program such as the recently announced "major works program" for bright students.

He says he hopes to be able to promote greater experimentation in the schools and to extend the use of counsellors to all grades.

Dr. Jameson is a former president of the Victoria Dental Association and the B.C. Dental Association. He has four children in the school system at present.

Mrs. Ellinor has been active in PTAs for 12 years and is former president of the Willows PTA. She is a youth leader in the United Church, a one-time Sunday school superintendent, and has served as an organizer and fund collector for the Red Cross and the Community Chest.

She first ran for the position of school trustee in North Burnaby in 1958 and lost that time by only 27 votes. She was a runner-up last year in the school board election in Oak Bay.

Mrs. Ellinor is amazed at the lack of interest in education. It is her own vital concern about education that has again impelled her to try for a seat on the board.

She favors a more equitable distribution of education costs, with more financial aid from the provincial government and less burden on property owners.

Mrs. Ellinor adovcates steps to immediately bring about smaller classes in the schools, especially at the elementary level, and also wants speedy implementation of the recommendations of the Downey-Hartrick report.

Dollar Number One Million Paid Tuesday

Tuesday is Million Dollar Day at Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped.

On that day a total of $1,000,000 will have been paid as wages to handicapped workers in Victoria since Goodwill was founded nine years ago.

To mark this achievement, a commemorative millionth dollar will be presented to a Goodwill handicapped worker Tuesday at 3 p.m. by B.C. Provincial Secretary Wesley Black.

The ceremony will take place at the new Goodwill premises at the corner of Bay and Wilson streets. Civic, community and business leaders in the Greater Victoria area will attend.

"We are very proud of this new centre," says Samuel R. Rea, executive director, "because it is the finest in all Canada.

"But our Million Dollar Day gives us even greater pride, because our first responsibility is the provision of wages and training to handicapped people."

Goodwill Enterprises was started in Victoria in 1957 by Fred Blakeney, himself a severely handicapped worker. It has since expanded considerable under sponsorship of the Rotary Club of Victoria.

In addition to the new rehabilitation centre at Bay and Wilson, the non-profit society operates a branch workshop for the handicapped at Nanaimo and retail stores at Nanaimo, Duncan and 560 Yates Street, Victoria.

During Goodwill's first year, 12 handicapped workers were employed and a total of $900 was paid in wages.

Today 117 men and women are receiving training, employment and a full range of rehabilitation services at Goodwill.

By the end of 1966 the year's wages are expected to exceed $200,000.

Inquest Continues On Dec. 21

Both victims in a double traffic fatality on the Patricia Bay Highway Sunday were pronounced dead shortly after arrival at St. Joseph's Hospital, a coroner's jury was told Wednesday night.

The inquest into the deaths of Christopher Berryman, 15, of 5174 Santa Clara, and Mrs. Pauline Wilk, 1278 Denman, will continue at the Saanich courtroom Dec. 21.

Only identification and medical testimony on causes of death were heard at the inquest opening Wednesday night.

Both the Grade 10 student and the mother of three were passengers in a rear end collision between a car and a light truck at the highway intersection with Piedmont Drive. Mrs. Wilk was in the car and the boy in the rear of the truck.

Hamilton Votes For Fluoridation

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The city of Hamilton Wednesday night became the third Ontario community to approve fluoridation of its water supply in civic election referendums this week.

London and Smiths Falls gave approval to fluoridation in voting Monday, while Kingston, Orillia and Hanover rejected the water treatment measure.

Hamilton voters gave only a narrow margin of approval as 35,269 favored fluoridation and 34,074 objected. Fluoridation was rejected in Hamilton in a 1962 vote.

London approved fluoridation by a vote of 25,019 to 16,690, and Smiths Falls by 1,812 to 984.

HOME GARDEN

Even Plants Need A Shower

By HILDA BEASTALL

The indoor gardener with many potted plants to look after will usually schedule their care to fit in with her other household duties.

Hilda

The saucers beneath the pots and the pots themselves will be kept spotlessly clean, and we outdoor dirt gardeners often wonder how this is all managed.

Sometimes however we see indoor plants that we long to put under a gentle sprinkler to restore the fresh green color of outdoor cleanliness.

In winter this practice is not advisable, for the change from an indoor 70 degree F. to outdoor 40 or so would be a shock to many kinds of plants.

A method of cleaning dust deposit from the leaves must be devised, since dust exists in even the cleanest of homes and these days often carries a film of oil.

Such impurities not only spoil the appearance of lovely house plants but decrease the ability of leaves to fulfil their functions in the life process of the plants.

Almost any plant may have its leaves sprayed over with water without harm providing the surplus water is shaken off as it collects in droplets and the plant is dried reasonably quickly at room temperature out of sunshine.

Even African-violets receive this care regularly from some housewives, and the plants are beautiful and floriferous.

A deep sink and a spray attachment on the tap is useful, and the drainboard is handy for draining and drying.

SOFT CLOTH

Plants with large leaf surfaces, such as philodendrons and aspidistras need a soft cloth for going over each leaf after spraying. This prevents spotting, which may occur as a result of the water collecting the dust and oil deposit and failing to be entirely removed under the spray.

Then too, large leaves need that little extra gentle polishing with a dry soft cloth.

The leaf stems and the "trunks" or main stems of many house plants often collect dust too, and its removal will reveal again their lost beauty.

Right Place, Wrong Time Says Accused

Right place, wrong time was the claim of a 19-year-old Nanaimo youth who Wednesday pleaded guilty in central court to breaking into Western O.K. Tire Store Nov. 4.

Monday in court Elwood Katona denied being the accomplice of three other Nanaimo youths who admitted breaking into the same store a month later—Dec. 5.

Judgment in the Dec. 5 case and sentence for the Nov. 4 offence will both be handed down Tuesday.

Wednesday police testified Katona told them he drove down from Nanaimo with two friends and went for a tour of the city.

The tour ended at Western O.K. Tire Sales, 2968 Douglas, when the trio noticed all the lights in the store were off.

They pried the padlock off the rear door and helped themselves to 10 tires worth a total of $250, before returning to Nanaimo.

Dock Strike Settled With Compromise Pact

'Extend Viet Truces'

Pope Appeals For Peace Talks

VATICAN (UPI) — Pope Paul Thursday appealed to both sides in the Viet Nam war to extend the Christmas and New Year holiday truces into a full-fledged "armistice" for peace talks.

He said failure to take advantage of such a "golden opportunity" will be "fraught with danger."

(UN Secretary General Thant said in New York he hoped all parties involved in the war would "heed the Pope's appeal." Thant made a similar truce extension suggestion when he accepted re-election Friday.)

It was the pontiff's first specific public Viet Nam peace proposal since last Jan. 29 when the Communists ignored his plea for neutral arbitration of the war.

SINCERE TALKS

Speaking at a mass in St. Peter's Basilica, the pope urged the Communists and South Viet Nam, United States and the other free world allies to merge the 48-hour Christmas and New Year truces already announced into an extended cease fire.

"We earnestly beg and beseech . . . that this truce become an armistice and that the armistice be the occasion for since negotiations, negotiations that will lead to peace," he said.

"We are aware that this possibility is favored by influential men," said the pope, who has discussed the Viet Nam conflict with a succession of world leaders in private audiences. "But why should it not win the consent of all?"

'HONOR OF ALL'

"Such a decision would redound to the honor and credit of all concerned, but the neglect of such a golden opportunity to bring an end to this sad episode of contemporary history will involve heavy responsibilities and be fraught with danger."

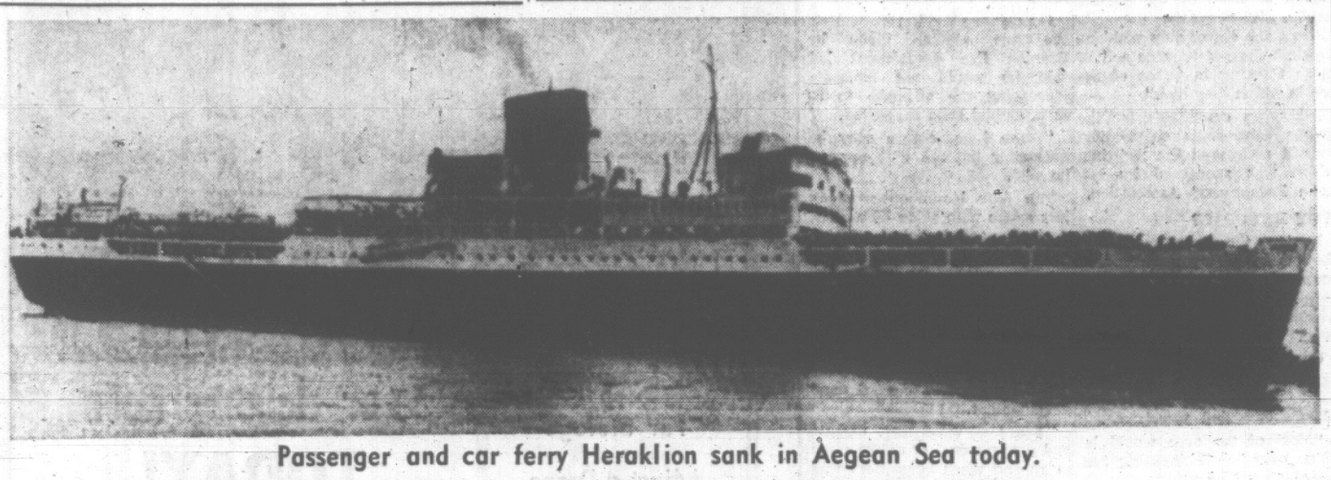

Among those with whom the pontiff has discussed peace proposals in recent months were Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, U.S. presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman and Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

But he gave no hint if any of these were among the "influential men" favoring extension of the holiday truces into an armistice.

IRAQ HIKES TENSION WITH OFFER OF TROOPS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq tightened the tension in the Middle East another notch today with reports that it was preparing to send troops into Syria to face the Israeli Army.

Baghdad radio said an Iraqi military delegation would visit Syria to confer on positions where the Iraqi troops could be stationed along the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

Passenger and car ferry Heraklion sank in Aegean Sea today.

White Whale Rescue Better Than Expo

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP)—An Edmonton salesman is convinced the 17 Beluga whales trapped near Inuvik should be saved as a Centennial project.

Peter Benson, of Edmonton, says saving the trapped white whales "would be a better Centennial project than Expo 67".

The whales swam last summer into the Eskimo Husky Lakes region 30 miles northeast of Inuvik and were trapped when winter ice started closing in.

Mr. Benson suggested the use of massive bonfires or large portable industrial heaters to keep open several air holes in the ice.

45 RESCUED IN AEGEAN STORM

235 Feared Drowned As Greek Ferry Sinks

(Times News Services)

ATHENS—The 9,000-ton Greek ferry Heraklion sank in a raging storm in the Aegean Sea early today with a heavy loss of life.

The Greek ministry of merchant marine said the Heraklion carried 210 passengers and 70 crew members and there were 45 known survivors. This would make the feared death toll 235 in one of the worst shipping disasters of the decade.

(The Typaldos Steamship Line office for Italy said in Venice it had received word the passenger ship Chanea, sister ship of the Heraklion, had picked up 62 passengers and crew members.)

The steam ferry was en route from the island of Crete to Piraeus, the port for Athens.

Cretans in Athens stormed the office of the Typaldos steamship office today, wild with anger and grief. They attacked with clubs and rocks which broke company windows but police kept them out.

The U.S. 6th Fleet rushed the aircraft carrier Shangri-La and a cruiser and a destroyer to the disaster area while U.S. Air Force planes flew in from Germany to aid the search for possible survivors. Helicopters fired flares which lit up the area.

King Constantine flew over the disaster area for five hours in his own plane to see the disaster that plunged the nation into shock and official mourning.

Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos declared a period of national mourning.

The justice ministry ordered a maritime commission formed of naval officers to open an investigation of the disaster.

The 17-year-old vessel was on a regular 10-hour overnight run from Crete when a great storm of the type once attributed to the anger of Zeus sank her near the rocks of Milos Island, where the Venus de Milo was found.

The Heraklion was built in Glasgow and first sailed as the British Leicestershire. Captained by E. Vernikos, she was one of three ferries operated between Crete and Piraeus by Typaldos brothers of Athens.

She was converted to carry a maximum 1,000 passengers and 200 automobiles.

The ship was making its

Roadside Tests Hit Vial Snag

The provincial government's plan to put its roadside suspension program into effect here and in Vancouver during the Christmas rush has run into a roadblock of its own.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he did not know whether a supply of cheap breath-test vials will be available in time.

He said it was "doubtful" but not impossible.

The vials would be used by police when invoking the still-unproclaimed amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act which would enable them to stop any motorist they suspected of having taken a drink.

Driving licences and car keys would be lifted for a 24-hour period if the vials showed a motorist's breath contained .08 per cent or more of blood-alcohol.

Mr. Bonner said a U.S. manufacturer had run into "some sort of technical difficulty in meeting our requirement that the device give a straight 'yes' or 'no' reading."

The firm now manufactures vials, filled with chemical crystals, which give graduate readings of blood-alcohol content when a subject blows into them but the department wants vials pre-set to change color only if the content is .08 per cent or more.

Gov't Takeover Move Averted

From Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Labor Minister Jack Nicholson told an applauding Parliament today that the British Columbia dock tie-up is over.

At 11:40 a.m. Victoria time, he told the House that work was expected to resume on the West Coast within a matter of hours.

The minister stated both sides have agreed to the compromise proposal he made in Vancouver at the weekend to end the economy-crippling, almost three-week tie-up of shipping.

He said one additional condition has been added.

He will set up an industrial inquiry commission to inquire into the question of work stoppage with a view to recommending what might prevent any other such stoppages.

Nicholson told Parliament that the matter had been resolved within five minutes of his speaking to the House.

He said he had received confirmation in writing from one side — presumably the employees who had agreed to the proposal he made at the weekend — and he had received a wire from the other side.

He said certain supplementary clauses had to be added to the wire and he expected they would be sent out to Ottawa withing the next few minutes.

'One of the Few Occasions . . .'

Nicholson told the House when he got to his feet: "This is one of the few occasions that the minister of labor can act with some satisfaction. A problem that has been confronting Canada for the past several weeks seems to have been resolved."

He referred to the serious situation that had developed and said both sides had maintained that they had a certain position to maintain.

But he said because of the tie-up of grain, lumber, other forest products, and all other waterborne products, both sides had agreed to the proposals made and the appeals of Prime Minister Pearson and Premier Bennett.

The amicable solution resolved a tricky situation in Parliament.

When Nicholson sat down to applause, among those applauding was Gilles Gregoire, a Quebec separatist who defected from the Creditistes to sit as the independent member for Lapointe.

On Wednesday night he had refused to give unanimous consent for legislation the government wanted to bring in at a special session this morning to appoint a public administrator and re-open the docks.

Without unamimous consent, the government was required to give 48 hours' notice and the legislation could have been delayed until Friday.

Cabinet Met This Morning

Cabinet met early today to discuss the situation and how to handle it.

When the House opened at the normal time, 11:30 a.m. Vancouver time, Gregoire was in his seat at the far end of the chamber.

He had set as his price for consent an assurance that the St. Lawrence River would be kept in full operation this winter by means of ice-breaking.

Gregiore had been roasted by the Quebec press and commentators for the stand he had taken.

But when proceedings started it still was uncertain what he was going to do.

Gregoire, questioned by reporters, had said he was not sure of his action, and was awaiting what the government proposed.

But Nicholson's statement ended the impasse.

Gregoire joined in the applause.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said it was too bad that the ports could not have been opened sooner.

HELLYER

Single Chief Key in New Unified Force

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Wednesday the appointment of a single chief of the defence staff was the keystone of the reorganized command structure.

It provided that one man would be responsible to the minister for the control and administration of the Canadian forces.

The new position combines the functions of the chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee and the Chiefs of Staff of the three services. It meant that the three services were no longer independent entities for the purpose of control and administration, said Mr. Hellyer.

"Thus military command and management came into line with the unified policy direction which was established with the appointment of a single minister responsible for defence in 1964," the minister added.

He spoke in the Commons when he moved for second reading of the bill to amend the National Defence Act and bring about the re-organization of the Canadian armed force.

TWO PARTS

The bill is divided into two parts. Part one relates to the structure of the Canadian forces and contains the provisions necessary for unification.

Part two contains a number of amendments consequential upon the changes made by part one and other amendment designed to simplify administration and to clarify and improve provisions of the code of service descipline.

In a 65-page speech he launched his campaign to convince Parliament that unification was the right move for the nation and essential for the armed forces.

After a one-day skirmish, the consideration of the unification bill was put off until a later date. A marathon debate is expected to develop when it again comes before the House.

Progressive Conservative Marcel Lambert of Edmonton provided the first reaction to Mr. Hellyer's actions.

Mr. Hellyer and the Canadian government was in effect converting Canada's forces into a peacekeeping force for the United Nations, said Mr. Lambert.

But peacekeeping is no longer "in good odor" at the UN, he contended.

RELY ON U.S.

"We would have to rely more and more on the U.S. to defend us in future attacks," he said.

"We would have to look to the presence of U.S. troops and installations on Canadian soil."

In this way Canada would

The explosion was followed by a rapidly spreading fire which caught the sleeping soldiers by surprise.

COURAGE, DETERMINATION HELPS KEEP FAMILY ALIVE

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

This is the tale of a Hong Kong woman who has nothing in the world — nothing but three children.

A heavy load of responsibility and great courage and determination are her other possessions.

And at an age when many women in Canada could sit back and enjoy their grandchildren and their garden club, her struggle is just beginning.

Although it began 10 years ago when her husband died, it is likely to go on well into old age.

She is now 52. Her two oldest children, a daughter, 17, and a 14-year-old boy, must work.

But her son brings in an income of only one dollar a month, and the girl not much more.

The mother's occupation: ragpicker.

Every day she scours the back streets of Hong Kong slums picking up scraps of paper.

She brings them home, then with great care she washes the bits of paper and hangs them out to dry.

When the process is finished, she sells the paper scraps which are made into cheap innersoles in a factory elsewhere in the city.

From this she earns 80 cents a day, which must feed, clothe and shelter herself and her family.

When the rain comes, she can't work. The paper can't be dried outdoors, and in her shack there is no room to hang it.

"During the rainy season," she says, "we add more water to our rice gruel at night."

And then she and her children pray that the rain will stop so she can continue her ragpicking.

This woman, and others like her in India, Hong Kong and Korea, are helped immensely by relief organization like the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund.

Contributions to the fund may be sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.

Home Warns Wilson Against Oil Sanctions

LONDON (UPI) — The opposition Conservative party demanded today that Prime Minister Wilson promise to veto any United Nations move to impose oil sanctions on South Africa.

The backlash from such sanctions could ruin Britain financially.

Former Conservative prime minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home asked Wilson in the House to give such an assurance before Foreign Secretary George Brown's UN Security Council speech.

'Canada Security' Reason for Bugs

(See story Page 9)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former assistant to a private detective accused of bugging rooms at a Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention said Wednesday he was told an investigation of Communist activity that could involve national security was the reason for the electronic eavesdropping.

Howard William McAnish told a royal commission inquiry into the bugging he was given the information by private detective Weldon (Bud) Graham.

Mr. McAnish said Mr. Graham claimed he was requested "by people he had worked with before to do certain things."

Mr. McAnish said he knew the private detective had worked for the RCMP security and intelligence branch and assumed the RCMP made the request.

He said Graham gave the names "Braaten and McPhee" as persons alleged to be Communists. Angus McPhee is vice-president of the Canadian union and Orville Braaten is an executive board member of the union.

Ex-Officials Arrested

BELGRADE (UPI) — Yugoslavia has arrested two high officials of the former secret police dominated by ousted vice-president Aleksander Rankovic, informed sources said today. The arrested officials were Vojin Lukic, former federal secretary of internal affairs, and Zivotije-Srba Savic, who held the same post in the Serbian Republic appartus, the sources said.

CONTROLS B.C. PACKERS

Stunning Scope of Weston Empire Unfolds

OTTAWA (CP)—The stunning scope of the Weston - Loblaw food empire was unfolded for all to see today in a full disclosure of the names of its 150 active companies.

The extent of the great North American organization was made known simultaneously to shareholders and to the Senate-Commons committee investigating living costs.

Biggest surprises: A controlling interest in the Tamblyn drug chain and British Columbia Packers Ltd., largest fish-packing company in Canada.

The sales volume of the George Weston Ltd. and Loblaw Cos. Ltd. groups, now approaching $3,000,000,000 annually, is said to make them the fifth-largest merchandiser in the world.

There assets are set at $793,000,000, including 1,850 supermarkets and retail outlets, interests in another 1,500 through franchise arrangements, 80 plants and 250 warehouses.

The empire's tentacles had already been considerably exposed this fall in hearings of the parliamentary committee.

The Weston-controlled Loblaw Groceterias Co. has testified that it owns or controls such food chains as Power Supermarkets Ltd., O.K. Economy Stores Ltd., National Grocers Co., and Kelly Douglas and Co.

WERE OTHER SURPRISES

Today's revelations include besides B.C. Packers and G. Tamblyn Ltd., such interests as the Dionne Ltd. supermarkets in Montreal, Donalds Dairy Ltd., Zehr's Markets Ltd., and Federal Farms Ltd., a produce company in Holland Marsh north of Toronto.

Some other new ones: Eplett Ice Cream Ltd. and Eplett Dairies Ltd. in Northern Ontario, Lane's Bakeries Ltd. in the Maritimes, Devon Dairies Ltd. in Toronto, and Universal Coolers Ltd. of Barrie.

After a corporate chart had been tabled before the committee, Weston lawyer Struan Robertson of Toronto told reporters it had been intended to disclose the complete group before long.

When the committee last month asked Loblaw Groceterias to name companies above and below it on its own chart, Weston executives decided it was the "appropriate time" for disclosure of the entire group.

MAY CALL OFFICIALS

The steering committee of the prices inquiry will consider calling Weston executives to testify. It has been reported that 30 per cent of the food industry in Canada is controlled by Weston-Loblaw.

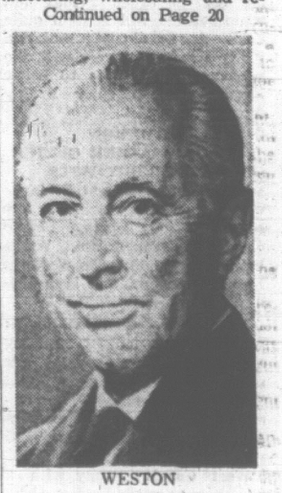

At the head of the Weston and Loblaw sections of the group are holding companies whose existence has helped keep secret the identity of some of the group's holdings.

Even the chart now public leaves out the names of several important non-operating companies whose activities are handled by the parent companies. These include such well-known names as Sunbeam Bakeries Ltd., Montreal Biscuit Co., and Paulin Chambers Ltd. The Canada-wide Red and White franchise belongs to the group.

Operating profit of the Weston and Loblaw sections was about $43,000,000 last year. After deducting minority interests, the group's share was $32,000,000.

Most of the business is in manufacturing, wholesaling and re-

VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, DEC. 8, 1966 --PAGE 25

Record $15 Million Budget Faces 1967 City Council

Arthur Mayse

In its November issue, a mass circulation women's magazine offered a short story dominated by a female character of more than ordinary charm and grace.

Her name was Elaine and she had chosen to wed a fool.

This character is Richard, an academic type who has just blown his chance at a foundation grant or some such for the ninth consecutive time. Through most of the story, we observe him playing martyr, while his devoted slave of a wife attempts to convince him that life is worth living even though he can't escape to Italy after all.

But Richard prefers to remain miserable, salving his inability to cut the mustard by giving Elaine a bad time.

His wife, who should have sent the sullen fellow packing long ago, finally rebels, at which point Richard changes skins and becomes a human being.

The switch comes about pretty abruptly, and for a homework assignment, the adult education creative writing class I harangue each Wednesday evening undertook to tailor a more satisfactory end to the tale.

★

The students, a keen and argumentative group of mustard - cutters, turned in their revamps a week ago. As I read them it became plain that an arresting division of opinion had taken place.

Most of the men either made a case for the story as it stood, or subjected Richard to varying degrees of chastisement. I haven't got their papers here, and can't be certain; but I don't recall that any of them took potshots at Elaine.

And the women?

Well, I don't understand this, and hope someone, sometime, can come up with a sstisfactory explanation.

In paper after paper, women students ignored the author's intent and by arbitrary tugging and twisting, managed to elevate Richard from toad to princeling.

In several versions, Richard, who through nine-tenths of the story had been about as futile as a man can be, was transformed into a roaring lion bent on rescuing his mate from another guy.

The fact that the latter was completely inoffensive didn't signify. Richard, for them, had to emerge a hero.

As for Elaine, the nice kid who had endured a stuffy, bossy opinionated spouse for year after year, it became apparent that if a reconciliation was to be brought about, she must achieve it.

This she was crowded into accomplishing by diverse unfair tactics.

The suggestion came through something like this:

'Darling, I am just a poor, weak, silly woman, and I have misjudged you ever since you were noble enough to marry me. You were right, I am wrong, and if you take me back I will mend my ways.'

★

There were, of course, exceptions, and a few women students acknowledged by their re-shaping of the denouncement that silk purses aren't made from pig's ears.

But the reaction was sharp enough to suggest certain deductions.

One of these seems to be that female emancipation hasn't yet penetrated much more than skin deep and possibly never will.

Another is that the man who insists on being the head of his household in fact as well as name may discover that his wife has been wishing he'd find the gumption to do so for many a year.

I guess, too, we'd better assume that the nicest girl may entertain a masochistic weakness for some Richard-type jerk who will keep her happily miserable for half a lifetime.

By way of warning, gents, I could be terribly wrong about all this. Come to think of it, there was one distaff member of the class who disposed of Richard by tumbling him over a handy cliff!

FOOD DONATION MAGIC KEY TO FESTIVAL OF CARTOONS

A can of food buys admission to the 13th annual cartoon show at the Odeon Theatre Saturday at 11 a.m. But youngsters or adults can bring as many cans as they wish.

All will be donated to Victoria's Free Food Stall for the Christmas season.

The show will include famous Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Bugs Bunny cartoons.

Help Yourself To Trouble, Say Burglars

Two Gangs Nabbed In Tire Shop Raid

Three youths who surprised burglars breaking into a city tire store Sunday night were invited to join in and help themselves.

They did and carted off more loot than the original gang, according to evidence in central court today.

Richard Drinkwater, 19; Benjamin Devison, 18, and John Butts, 18, all of 632 Manchester, pleaded guilty to breaking, entering and theft when they appeared in court this morning. They will be sentenced Dec. 16.

Four of the five Nanaimo youths previously arrested for the same theft have already pleaded guilty earlier this week and will be sentenced Dec. 13. The fifth appeared in juvenile court.

Detective Richard Ward told the court today that the three accused spotted activity around Western OK Tire Store, 2968 Douglas, early Sunday and went to investigate.

HELP YOURSELVES

"C'mon and help yourselves," they were told by the youths who had already pried a hasp off a rear door of the store.

The Nanaimo youths' car was stopped by Saanich police within a half-hour of the break-in and about $170 worth of stolen goods recovered.

The three local youths took tires, wheels, discs, headrests, a typewriter and an adding machine, all worth about $360, court was told.

Police recovered most of the loot from where it was dumped behind a tree on Little Saanich Mountain. The typewriter and adding machine were disposed of at a downtown store, one being pawned and the other sold.

Sidney Gets 'Threads' In January

Decentralization of Victoria's overcrowded Silver Threads Centre will begin early in January with the opening of a new branch at Sidney.

The first branch centre, located in St. Paul's United Church Hall, will be open four afternoons a week. It will offer the same kind of recreational facilities as the main centre at 4 Centennial Square.

"This is a step in the right direction," Silver Threads director Mrs. Catherine Horne said today, "and there is every prospect similar extensions will follow in Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay.

"All the municipalities have endorsed our brief in favor of decentralization."

Membership in the Victoria centre topped 4,700 this week and no further registrations will be accepted until the first week in January.

But guest cards will be issued to men and women of 65 and over wishing to use the centre before then.

The membership fee will be increased from $1 to $2 in the new year in order to assist with branch programs.

EVERY STUDENT at McKenzie Elementary School turned out today to cheer Craig Anderson shown here completing his 1,000th lap around the school. That represents a distance of 100 miles that he has run since September. Sixty students at the school, including four girls, trying to get into the 100-Mile Club. Craig, a 12-year-old grade 7 student, said he "just wanted to see if I could run 100 miles before anyone else. I almost didn't make it. Two other fellows are just a mile behind me." He is now planning on running 200 miles. School principal R. J. Berod said the running was inspired by the school's physical education teacher Ed Hedley. Youngsters have been running "at recess and lunch-time, in rain or shine," said Mr. Berod. (Times photo.)

Prairie Blasts Go Astray More Cold, Snow on Way

Snow flurries are expected in Victoria the next few days as temperatures drop below freezing.

For the first time this year, city motorists had to hunt out their windshield scrapers this morning following a night which saw the mercury drop to 31.

And it looks like they'll be needing them for some time to come with even colder weather forecast for tonight.

Areas away from the sea can expect as low as 20 degrees while Victoria will drop to 30.

With even city roads slippery, highways crews the length of Vancouver Island were kept busy sanding major highways.

And further north, snow was still on the roads — up to 12 inches on the Alberni-Tofino highway — following Tuesday night's fall.

HIGHER GROUND

On higher ground, up to two feet of snow forced closure of several logging operations.

At the Courtenay division of Crown Zellerbach, 200 men working above the 2,000-foot level have been laid off.

While 40 or 50 will be kept busy on other operations, the majority will not return to work until mid-February.

And at Crown Zellerbach's Ladysmith division, plans were being made for the Christmas closure this weekend.

Some 300 men will be laid off until Jan. 9.

MacMillan Bloedel, which closed three Vancouver Island divisions Wednesday, had only one out today — at North West Bay near Nanaimo.

The 200 men who normally work there will work on a day-to-day basis if weather permits.

YULE CLOSURE

Snow plows managed to clear the way for work today at the Nanaimo River and Cameron divisions. Mac-Bloedel has not yet decided when the Christmas closure will come into effect.

At Gold River, where there is still three inches on the ground, the Tahsis company is continuing its normal work schedule.

Meanwhile, the Friday forecast is for increasing cloud over Victoria with snow or rain showers in the afternoon.

Temperatures will continue to drop below freezing overnight, rising to 40 to 42 during the day.

He'll Fish In February After Jail

Frank Ellis wants to go fishing in February.

He'll get his wish but until then he'll wait in jail.

Ellis, of no fixed address and a familiar figure in the prisoner's box, admitted in central court today that he had not worked for about two years.

But he wanted to go to work in February, commercial fishing with his uncle at Cowichan Bay.

He was jailed for two months when he pleaded guilty for the third time this year to vagrancy.

"You're a perfectly healthy, intelligent man who has ruined his life with alcohol," Magistrate Ostler told him. "It's a great pity."

The most merciful thing to do was to get him off the streets, said the magistrate in passing sentence.

"That should get you out just about in time to go fishing."

Swear-In Set 5 p.m. Monday

Swearing-in of new cabinet ministers at a Government House ceremony Monday has been set for 5 p.m., a government spokesman said today.

Premier Bennett has said a new health minister and three women ministers without portfolio will take the oath.

LIONS HOST FESTIVAL

Victoria Lions Club is sponsoring the 20th annual Christmas Carol Festival in Metropolitan United Church Friday at 8 p.m.

Choirs from secondary and elementary schools in Greater Victoria will be conducted by Frank Tupman, with Eric Boothroyd at the organ and Irving Green on the chimes. Harry Bigsley will be in charge of the program.

There will be a collection at the door and proceeds will be presented to the Silver Threads organization by Ted Chamberlain, Lions Club president.

NORTH SAANICH

All-Candidate Rally Assured Next Year

This will be North Saanich's last blind election, Reeve J. B. Cumming said today.

Next year, voters will have opportunity to see and hear their municipal candidates, he said.

"I am going to see to it that there is a public meeting for voters and candidates next year.

"The municipality will take the responsibility if no one else does," he said.

North Saanich electors will chose two councillors from four candidates Saturday. Two are incumbents and two are newcomers. But many voters have never had opportunity to meet any of the four.

THREE BACK OUT

An all-candidate meeting was called by the Sidney-North Saanich Chamber of Commerce Tuesday but was cancelled Tuesday afternoon when three of the candidates backed out.

Told that the Times had received complaints from some residents, the reeve said he felt some effort should have been made earlier. The lapse could not be laid to any one person, he said.

But while he felt the candidates are all good men, he agreed also that the candidates themselves bear some responsibility.

THEIR MINDS

One candidate, Joseph Saville agreed that as matters stand, ratepayers have not even been able to assure themselves that their candidates can read or write. Many voters will be making up their minds on the basis of who has the nicest-sounding name.

He said he was prepared to attend the chamber-sponsored meeting which was to have taken place tonight. It was cancelled when candidates Frank Adams and J. H. Wilson said they could not attend. The fourth candidate, George Aylard then backed out also.

Mr. Aylard today said the meeting was called too late in the election campaign. He added, "I would have been able to attend. But I didn't see much good in my going if the others were not going."

NO ISSUES

Mr. Wilson was asked to explain why he was unable to attend.

"I don't know that I should," he said. He suggested that because there are no contentious questions involved in North Saanich, the issue was not too important.

Mr. Wilson said he too, however, would be willing to attend an all-candidate meeting "if the others were, too."

Frank Adams was not available for comment.

Wages, Costs Force $1 Million Boost

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

Victoria's new mayor will be charged with supervising the administration of a $15.2 million budget in 1967.

Preliminary budget figures, scheduled for release in January, will show a $1 million increase over last year's record high.

City hall officials refuse to comment on the estimate but admit "it isn't far out."

The budget was struck last year at $14,141,685, a close to $2 million jump over the $12.7 million of 1965.

Preliminary budget figures are traditionally presented to the first council meeting held in January with the final budget presented in detail in the late spring.

The mill rate, the figure which finally informs taxpayers what their bill for the year will be, will remain a mystery until late spring when the school board makes its budget known and the provincial government releases its tax grant figures.

GENERAL DEBT

Last year the mill rate was struck at 62.5, being comprised of 39.3 for the general debt mill rate and 23.2 for schools.

The mill at present is valued at $116,130 as compared with the 1965 mill valued at $103,221.

The mill rate in 1965 was set at 62.9.

City officials point out that while council candidates may assure voters of tax reductions, the hard facts of wage increases and ever-rising costs make it impossible to hold the line on expenditures if the city is to make progress.

Wage increases scheduled for 1967 will account for almost a quarter of the anticipated $1 million boost in the budget.

SCHOOL COSTS

Taking up the balance will be education, debt charges, and special expenditures such as extraordinary grants to hospitals.

Council has already agreed to set aside a specific sum, as yet unstated but expected to be in the $100,000 bracket, to relieve the serious hospital crisis.

This year the city paid $83,850 in emergency funds to hospitals.

But all is not gloomy on the budget front.

City treasurer James Bramley is reluctant to discuss specific figures before his preliminary budget is discussed by council but he estimates, tentatively, that the city will close the 1966 books with a $50,000 surplus.

BLACK SIDE

"That's the way it looks now," he said. "Although it is impossible to say accurately at present. But I think we shall finish up a few dollars in the black."

Mr. Bramley declined to comment on the possible mill rate for 1967 or the possibility of a tax increase.

"Until we know just what the government grants will be — and they don't tell us until just before we bring down our budget — it is impossible to forecast what a logical mill rate would be. And we have to wait for school cost figures, too, before we know just what is expected of us locally."

NO GUARANTEE

Even if the mill rate is held there is no guarantee that the tax bill will be reduced or even confined to this year's level.

In his 1966 budget report in the spring of this year Mr. Bramley reminded council members that "though it should be possible to maintain the same over-all mill rate ... it must be pointed out that even if this is done that the over-all tax bill would still jump by some $800,000.

"Only 32.4 per cent, or $260,000, of this increase would be picked up by new assessment, while the balance of $540,000 would be met from increases in existing assessment, mainly by land.

"This fact should not be lost sight of in establishing this year's budget."

Indications are that the same statement will still apply when council begins its annual wrestle with department budgets in 1967.

One Big Union For Shipyards Wins Support

All unions have joined in joint certification applications at the big three west coast shipyards, it was announced Wednesday.

Two spokesmen for the Joint Shipyard Conference said the applications are being considered by the Labour Relations Board after hearings Tuesday and part of Wednesday.

If granted, the applications will wrap up 36 individual union certifications into three — one each at Victoria Machinery Depot, Yarrows and Burrard Dry Dock.

Spokesmen for union locals which earlier did not go along with the larger Joint Shipyard Conference could not be reached for comment.

The latest move was disclosed by William Stewart and Neil Hindle, two spokesmen for the Joint Shipyard Conference.

BUSINESS AGENT

Mr. Hindle, business agent of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers in Victoria, said he is "most happy" at the outcome.

In the past, unions have bargained together through a voluntary arrangement.

But two years ago, after a strike ended, one union remained on strike seeking an extra 10 cents which it eventually won.

This fall, negotiations have proceeded on several levels with electricians and pipefitters bargaining separately.

Talks and conciliation moves have been delayed pending the outcome of the joint certification applications. A decision by the Labour Relations Board is expected shortly.

Woman's Tip Ends Flight Of Youth

A 17-year-old prisoner who gave police the slip Friday night was recaptured Wednesday when a woman store detective recognized him from a telephoned description.

Jan Moller of 1162 Fort bolted through a window and down a fire escape at his home Friday night after two detectives had taken him home so that he could hand over goods he had stolen.

Mrs. Margaret Campbell, a Woodwards security officer, recognized the lanky youngster in the store Wednesday and alerted several clerks to watch him while police were summoned.

She was able to identify him from the description that had been telephoned to her in the area-wide search.

Moller pleaded guilty to seven counts of theft as well as escaping lawful custody when he appeared in central court today. He will be sentenced Dec. 17.

Among the goods he admitted shoplifting from several stores in the past 10 weeks were two cameras, one of them worth $350, an electric shaver, a hair clipper, a tape recorder, a transistor radio and a wrist watch.

Ask The Times

Q. What is the largest port in the world. T. H.

A. The largest port in the world according to the Guinness Book of World Records is New York Harbor with a total navigable waterfront of 755 miles — 460 miles in New York State and 295 in New Jersey. A total of 409 ships can be berthed simultaneously in 331 general cargo berths and 78 other piers. Total warehousing space is 422.4 acres and the number of ships handled annually is about 30,000.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problmes. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

FEARS FOR EMPRESS, CRYSTAL IN SALUTE

Hundred Bangs and All Fall Down

Victoria's finance committee this morning approved the use of floats in the Inner Harbor for a Centennial Celebration New Year's Eve.

But it did so with reservations and some rare flashes of humor.

The Greater Victoria Centennial Society wants the use of city-owned floats to stage a 100-gun salute as the midnight hour marks the arrival of 1967 on Dec. 31.

"One hundred?" questioned Ald. Geoffrty Edgelow. "The Empress almost collapses when they fire a three-gun salute. What's going to happen if they fire 100? I can see the Empress and the Crystal Garden falling down."

City manager Dennis Young explained that the "guns" referred to were not the military kind.

"They are actually giant firecrackers," he said.

"Even at that I don't think we should fix the Crystal roof until it's all over," said Ald. Edgelow. "You never know."

In addition to the 100-bang salute to Centennial Year the society will release 100 helium-filled balloons.

"I must admit I can't see the purpose of releasing 100 balloons at midnight," said Mr. Young.

"I just hope they stay up, that's all," quipped Ald. Edgelow. "I still remember 1958."

It was in 1958 that Ald. Edgelow championed giant balloons to mark special city-wide celebrations. They never did stay inflated.

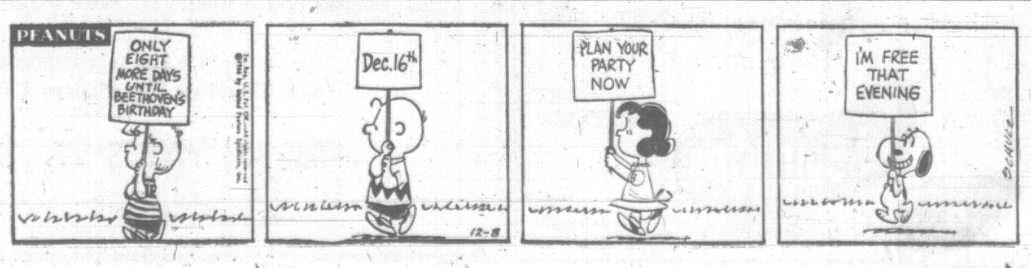

IT'S TOO DARK

It was pointed out that whether they stayed up or not wouldn't really matter New Year's Eve because it would be too dark to see the balloons anyway.

"Maybe they're going to put messages in them," grinned city treasurer James Bramley.

The committee gave its blessing to the request for balloons and bangs and the playing and singing of "Auld Lang Syne" as the New Year comes in.

And they all expressed the hope that the Empress and the Crystal would come through intact.

Falling Tree Cuts Fairfield Power

Power was off for 30 minutes in Fairfield Wednesday afternoon after a falling tree limb sliced through a circuit on Moss Street, with the additional result of several traffic signal failures.

With every eye upon her, Miss Barbara Wade, last of the debutantes to be presented, walks down the long stretch of red carpet to where His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes wait to greet her. The other debutantes and their escorts know that, for her, this is the highlight of the evening. (Bill Halkett photo.)

Debutantes Capture Limelight at USI Ball

By PAT DUFOUR

Couturier ballgowns, dress uniforms and impressive rows of miniature medals paled into insignificance, Wednesday evening. All were outshone by 12 young women, this year's debutantes at the annual ball of the United Services Institution of Vancouver Island.

Dressed in traditional white, the lovely debutantes upstaged everyone as, one by one, they entered the ballroom of the Empress Hotel. At the far end, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. George R. Pearkes waited to receive them. To the debutantes, the walk between was the step from childhood to exciting maturity.

The first to be presented was Miss Cairine Ash, daughter of former Victorians, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ash, who now make their home in Reno, Nevada. Sequins glinted on the satin bodice of her chiffon and satin gown that was styled on simple lines with a tiny satin bow highlighting the waistline. Satin banded the gracefully full skirt of chiffon over satin. A rhinestone necklace and earrings completed the picture. Her escort was Mr. Donald Mosedale and her sponsor was his father, Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale.

Miss Catherine Bell was the epitome of regality as she made her appearance in a gown of white chiffon over taffeta that proved a perfect foil for her dark hair. The slim-fitting sheath was topped with a bodice that was traced with floral appliques of organdy and finished with shoestring straps. Daughter of Mrs. C. S. Bell, 3120 Humber Road, and the late Mr. Bell, the young debutante was sponsored by Wing Cmdr. C. J. H. Holms, and escorted by Officer Cadet Ken Bindernagel.

A front panel of satin and overlay of lace highlighted the A-line skirt of the satin gown worn by Miss Jacqueline Burling, daughter of Major H. G. Burling and Mrs. Burling, 1724 St. Ann Street. Lace also fashioned the empire-line bodice that had a scoop neckline, tiny cap sleeves and a bow at the front waistline. She wore a tiara of rhinestones and a diamond cross. Miss Burling was sponsored by her father and escorted by Officer Cadet Ken Benoit.

Lovely with the freshness of youth, Miss Diana Crabtree, daughter of Major K. S. Crabtree and Mrs. Crabtree, 2083 Windsor Road, chose brocade in shades of off-white and gold for her classically styled gown. The skirt was gentled with a double box pleat at the waistline, giving it an A-line effect. The fitted bodice had a scoop neckline and narrow straps. Her only jewelry was pearl earrings. Miss Crabtree was sponsored by her father and escorted by Mr. Paul Stenner.

Two sisters, the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. L. Fanthorpe, 2934 Cedar Hill Road, were the next to be presented, both being sponsored by Lt.-Col. R. D. Travis, a former USI president.

Miss Lynne Fanthorpe chose a gown of white delustred velvet for her debut. The skirt was pencil slim with a side slit. The sleeveless bodice was slightly fitted and finished with a scoop neckline. A pearl pendant and earrings formed jewelry accents. Her escort was Officer Cadet Geoff Haswell.

Miss Maureen Fanthorpe chose a brilliant and pearl necklace, rhinestone bracelet and earrings to add brilliance to her gown of peau de soie. Wide inverted pleats at the side emphasized the full skirt. The sleeveless bodice had a rounded neckline and was corded at the waist. She was escorted by Mr. Michael Fall of Cobble Hill.

Miss Kirsty Gladwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Gladwell, 2830 Murray Drive, had worn a stole of white satin and fox on her arrival at the hotel. Making her appearance in the ballroom, the fair-haired debutante had removed it to show a classic gown of rich white satin that had a band of metallic velvet giving softness to the strapless top and ending in a large bow at the back. Fullness at the back of the skirt gave dignity to her walk down the long length of carpet. She wore a diamond tiara and pearl necklace. Major Crabtree was her sponsor and she was escorted by Mr. David Redmond.

Tall and graceful, the next debutante to appear was Miss Gillian Gregory, daughter of Chief Constable J. F. Gregory and Mrs. Gregory, 3240 Uplands Place. Back tucking lent interest to the squared neckline of her simply-styled gown of peau de soie that was A-line and sleeveless. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls. Chief Constable Gregory was sponsor for his daughter and her escort was Mr. Mark Clark.

A tiny star centred the pearl tiara which Miss Heather Henderson teamed with earrings for her choice of jewelry. A peau de soie band, ending in a tiny bow at the front, cinched the crescent waistline of her gown which had a bodice of re-embroidered Venetian lace and a slim-fitting skirt of knife-pleated chiffon over taffeta. The young debutante is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Henderson, 3131 Woodburn Avenue. Mr. Henderson was sponsor and Officer Cadet Terry Rogers acted as her escort.

Miss Cecily Mosedale, daughter of Lt.-Col. W. J. Mosedale and Mrs. Mosedale, 3923 Cumberland Road, looked as if she had just stepped out of a painting by one of the old masters when she entered the ballroom. Her gown of white silk crepe was fashioned on Grecian lines with a crystal brooch giving accent to the shoulder from which her gown draped in the appearance of a toga to the tips of her shoes. In perfect harmony, her blonde hair was piled high in Grecian curls and adorned with a tracery of narrow white velvet ribbon. Crystal earrings lent the final touch. She was sponsored by her father and escorted by Officer Cadet Robert Ogilvy.

Delicate touches of pink enhanced the floating panel that gave extra beauty to the white and silver brocade gown worn by Miss Kathy Smith, daughter of Col. Normart Smith and Mrs. Smith, 1984 Waterloo Road. Backed in shell pink, the panel had pink and silver beading outlining the flowers in the brocade. The skirt was slightly A-line and the empire bodice featured a scoop neckline. Only jewelry was a pair of crystal earrings, Officer Cadet Martin K. Middleton escorted Miss Smith, who was sponsored by her father.

Miss Barbara Wade, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Wade, 2357 Pacific Avenue, provided a fitting finale to the parade of 1966 debutantes. All eyes were on her as she walked the length of the ballroom in a gown of Swiss organza that had an underlay of satin. The empire-line bodice had a low oval neckline and the skirt was gently A-line. Her pendant rhinestone earrings repeated the sparkle of the silver embroidery on her gown. The fair-haired debutante was sponsored by her father and escorted by Mr. Allan McDiarmid.

WHO CAUSED THE DELAY AT USI BALL?

Even a well-organized affair like the USI Ball can have its anxious moments. Guests waiting in the ballroom for the arrival of His Honor and Mrs. Pearkes were treated to twin fanfares, an abashed length of silence between. Explained one red-faced official, "The Pearkes have so many friends, they must have stopped to chat to someone on the way in."

Dock Tie-Up Settled With Compromise Pact

Gov't Takeover Move Averted

From Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Labor Minister Jack Nicholson told an applauding Parliament today that the British Columbia dock tie-up is over.

At 11:40 a.m. Victoria time, he told the House that work was expected to resume on the West Coast within a matter of hours.

The minister stated both sides have agreed to the compromise proposal he made in Vancouver at the weekend to end the economy-crippling, almost three-week tie-up of shipping.

He said one additional condition has been added.

He will set up an industrial inquiry commission to inquire into the question of work stoppage with a view to recommending what might prevent any other such stoppages.

Nicholson told Parliament that the matter had been resolved within five minutes of his speaking to the House.

He said he had received confirmation in writing from one side — presumably the employees who had agreed to the proposal he made at the weekend — and he had received a wire from the other side.

He said certain supplementary clauses had to be added to the wire and he expected they would be sent out to Ottawa later today.

'One of the Few Occasions . . .'

Nicholson told the House when he got to his feet: "This is one of the few occasions that the minister of labor can act with some satisfaction. A problem that has been confronting Canada for the past several weeks seems to have been resolved."

He referred to the serious situation that had developed and said both sides had maintained that they had a certain position to maintain.

But he said because of the tie-up of grain, lumber, other forest products, and all other waterborne products, both sides had agreed to the proposals made and the appeals of Prime Minister Pearson and Premier Bennett.

The amicable solution resolved a tricky situation in Parliament.

When Nicholson sat down to applause, among those applauding was Gilles Gregoire, a Quebec separatist who defected from the Creditistes to sit as the Independent member for Lapointe.

On Wednesday night he had refused to give unanimous consent for legislation the government wanted to bring in at a special session this morning to appoint a public administrator and re-open the docks.

Without unanimous consent, the government was required to give 48 hours' notice and the legislation could have been delayed until Friday.

Cabinet Met This Morning

Cabinet met early today to discuss the situation and how to handle it.

When the House opened at the normal time, 11:30 a.m. Vancouver time, Gregoire was in his seat at the far end of the chamber.

He had set as his price for consent an assurance that the St. Lawrence River would be kept in full operation this winter by means of ice-breaking.

Gregoire had been roasted by the Quebec press and commentators for the stand he had taken.

But when proceedings started it still was uncertain what he was going to do.

Gregoire, questioned by reporters, had said he was not sure of his action, and was awaiting what the government proposed.

But Nicholson's statement ended the impasse.

Gregoire joined in the applause.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said it was too bad that the ports could not have been opened sooner.

Trade Minister Robert Winters, who is responsible for the

'Extend Viet Truces'

Pope Appeals For Peace Talks

VATICAN (UPI) — Pope Paul Thursday appealed to both sides in the Viet Nam war to extend the Christmas and New Year holiday truces into a full-fledged "armistice" for peace talks.

He said failure to take advantage of such a "golden opportunity" will be "fraught with danger."

(UN Secretary General Thant said in New York he hoped all parties involved in the war would "heed the Pope's appeal." Thant made a similar truce extension suggestion when he accepted re-election Friday.)

It was the pontiff's first specific public Viet Nam peace proposal since last Jan. 29 when the Communists ignored his plea for neutral arbitration of the war.

SINCERE TALKS

Speaking at a mass in St. Peter's Basilica, the pope urged the Communists and South Viet Nam, United States and the other free world allies to merge the 48-hour Christmas and New Year truces already announced into an extended cease fire.

"We earnestly beg and beseech . . . that this truce become an armistice and that the armistice be the occasion for since negotiations, negotiations that will lead to peace," he said.

"We are aware that this possibility is favored by influential men," said the pope, who has discussed the Viet Nam conflict with a succession of world leaders in private audiences. "But why should it not win the consent of all?"

'HONOR OF ALL'

"Such a decision would redound to the honor and credit of all concerned, but the neglect of such a golden opportunity to bring an end to this sad episode of contemporary history will involve heavy responsibilities and be fraught with danger."

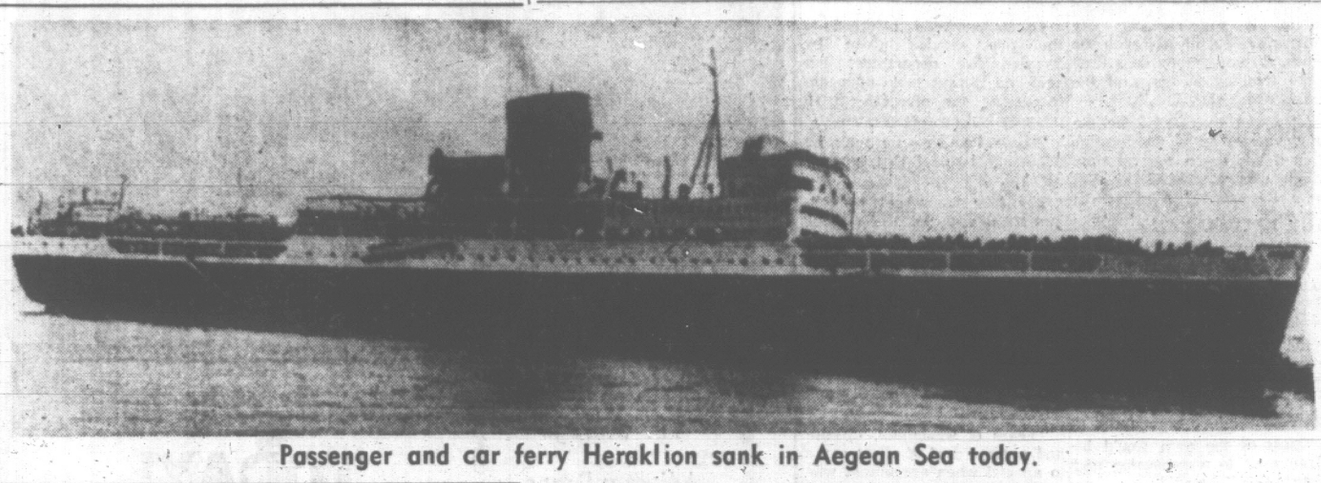

Among those with whom the pontiff has discussed peace proposals in recent months were Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, U.S. presidential envoy W. Averell Harriman and Arthur Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

But he gave no hint if any of these were among the "influential men" favoring extension of the holiday truces into an armistice.

IRAQ HIKES TENSION WITH OFFER OF TROOPS

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq tightened the tension in the Middle East another notch today with reports that it was preparing to send troops into Syria to face the Israeli Army.

Baghdad radio said an Iraqi military delegation would visit Syria to confer on positions where the Iraqi troops could be stationed along the Syrian-Israeli frontier.

White Whale Rescue Better Than Expo

INUVIK, N.W.T. (CP)—An Edmonton salesman is convinced the 17 Beluga whales trapped near Inuvik should be saved as a Centennial project.

Peter Benson, of Edmonton, says saving the trapped white whales "would be a better Centennial project than Expo 67".

The whales swam last summer into the Eskimo Husky Lakes region 30 miles northeast of Inuvik and were trapped when winter ice started closing in.

Mr. Benson suggested the use of massive bonfires or large portable industrial heaters to keep open several air holes in the ice.

45 RESCUED IN AEGEAN STORM

235 Feared Drowned As Greek Ferry Sinks

(Times News Services)

ATHENS—The 9,000-ton Greek ferry Heraklion sank in a raging storm in the Aegean Sea early today with a heavy loss of life.

The Greek ministry of merchant marine said the Heraklion carried 210 passengers and 70 crew members and there were 45 known survivors. This would make the feared death toll 235 in one of the worst shipping disasters of the decade.

(The Typaldos Steamship Line office for Italy said in Venice it had received word the passenger ship Chanea, sister ship of the Heraklion, had picked up 62 passengers and crew members.)

The steam ferry was en route from the island of Crete to Piraeus, the port for Athens.

Cretans in Athens stormed the office of the Typaldos steamship office today, wild with anger and grief. They attacked with clubs and rocks which broke company windows but police kept them out.

The U.S. 6th Fleet rushed the aircraft carrier Shangri-La and a cruiser and a destroyer to the disaster area while U.S. Air Force planes flew in from Germany to aid the search for possible survivors. Helicopters fired flares which lit up the area.

King Constantine flew over the disaster area for five hours in his own plane to see the disaster that plunged the nation into shock and official mourning.

Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos declared a period of national mourning.

The justice ministry ordered a maritime commission formed of naval officers to open an investigation of the disaster.

The 17-year-old vessel was on a regular 10-hour overnight run from Crete when a great storm of the type once attributed to the anger of Zeus sank her near the rocks of Milos Island, where the Venus de Milo was found.

The Heraklion was built in Glasgow and first sailed as the British Leicestershire. Captained by E, Vernikos, she was one of three ferries operated between Crete and Piraeus by Typaldos brothers of Athens.

She was converted to carry a maximum 1,000 passengers and 300 automobiles.

The ship was making its

Roadside Tests Hit Vial Snag

The provincial government's plan to put its roadside suspension program into effect here and in Vancouver during the Christmas rush has run into a roadblock of its own.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he did not know whether a supply of cheap breath-test vials will be available in time.

He said it was "doubtful" but not impossible.

The vials would be used by police when invoking the still-unproclaimed amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act which would enable them to stop any motorist they suspected of having taken a drink.

Driving licences and car keys would be lifted for a 24-hour period if the vials showed a motorist's breath contained .08 per cent or more of blood-alcohol.

Mr. Bonner said a U.S. manufacturer had run into "some sort of technical difficulty in meeting our requirement that the device give a straight 'yes' or 'no' reading."

The firm now manufactures vials, filled with chemical crystals, which give graduate readings of blood-alcohol content when a subject blows into them but the department wants vials pre-set to change color only if the content is .08 per cent or more.

HELLYER:

Single Chief Key in New Unified Force

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Wednesday the appointment of a single chief of the defence staff was the keystone of the reorganized command structure.

It provided that one man would be responsible to the minister for the control and administration of the Canadian forces.

The new position combines the functions of the chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee and the Chiefs of Staff of the three services. It meant that the three services were no longer independent entities for the purpose of control and administration, said Mr. Hellyer.

"Thus military command and management came into line with the unified policy direction which was established with the appointment of a single minister responsible for defence in 1964," the minister added.

He spoke in the Commons when he moved for second reading of the bill to amend the National Defence Act and bring about the re-organization of the Canadian armed force.

TWO PARTS

The bill is divided into two parts. Part one relates to the structure of the Canadian forces and contains the provisions necessary for unification.

Part two contains a number of amendments consequential upon the changes made by part one and other amendment designed to simplify administration and to clarify and improve provisions of the code of service descipline.

In a 65-page speech he launched his campaign to convince Parliament that unification was the right move for the nation and essential for the armed forces.

After a one-day skirmish, the consideration of the unification bill was put off until a later date. A marathon debate is expected to develop when it again comes before the House.

Progressive Conservative Marcel Lambert of Edmonton provided the first reaction to Mr. Hellyer's actions.

Mr. Hellyer and the Canadian government was in effect converting Canada's forces into a peacekeeping force for the United Nations, said Mr. Lambert.

But peacekeeping is no longer "in good odor" at the UN, he contended.

RELY ON U.S.

"We would have to rely more and more on the U.S. to defend us in future attacks," he said.

"We would have to look to the presence of U.S. troops and installations on Canadian soil."

In this way Canada would

MOST AGAINST UN SANCTIONS

LONDON (AFP)—An opinion research survey published today by The Evening Standard indicates more people in Britain are against the government's proposals to ask the United Nations to impose mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia than are in favor.

Only one-third of British people believe that sanctions will force the Rhodesians to make a settlement.

FIRE KILLS 65 SOLDIERS IN BARRACKS

ANKARA (AFP) — Sixty-five soldiers were killed and another 27 severely injured by an explosion in the sleeping quarters of the Dumlu army barracks near Erzurum in eastern Turkey early today.

The explosion was followed by a rapidly spreading fire which caught the sleeping soldiers by surprise.

COURAGE, DETERMINATION HELPS KEEP FAMILY ALIVE

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

This is the tale of a Hong Kong woman who has nothing in the world — nothing but three children.

A heavy load of responsibility and great courage and determination are her other possessions.

And at an age when many women in Canada could sit back and enjoy their grandchildren and their garden club, her struggle is just beginning.

Although it began 10 years ago when her husband died, it is likely to go on well into old age.

She is now 52. Her two oldest children, a daughter, 17, and a 14-year-old boy, must work.

But her son brings in an income of only one dollar a month, and the girl not much more.

The mother's occupation: ragpicker.

Every day she scours the back streets of Hong Kong slums picking up scraps of paper.

She brings them home, then with great care she washes the bits of paper and hangs them out to dry.

When the process is finished, she sells the paper scraps which are made into cheap innersoles in a factory elsewhere in the city.

From this she earns 80 cents a day, which must feed, clothe and shelter herself and her family.

When the rain comes, she can't work. The paper can't be dried outdoors, and in her shack there is no room to hang it.

"During the rainy season," she says, "we add more water to our rice gruel at night."

And then she and her children pray that the rain will stop so she can continue her ragpicking.

This woman, and others like her in India, Hong Kong and Korea, are helped immensely by relief organization like the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund.

Contributions to the fund may be sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.

Home Warns Wilson Against Oil Sanctions

LONDON (UPI) — The opposition Conservative party demanded today that Prime Minister Wilson promise to veto any United Nations move to impose oil sanctions on South Africa.

The backlash from such sanctions could ruin Britain financially.

Former Conservative prime minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home asked Wilson in the House to give such an assurance before Foreign Secretary George Brown's UN Security Council speech.

'Canada Security' Reason for Bugs

(See story Page 9)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former assistant to a private detective accused of bugging rooms at a Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention said Wednesday he was told an investigation of Communist activity that could involve national security was the reason for the electronic eavesdropping.

Howard William McAnish told a royal commission inquiry into the bugging he was given the information by private detective Weldon (Bud) Graham.

Mr. McAnish said Mr. Graham claimed he was requested "by people he had worked with before to do certain things."

Mr. McAnish said he knew the private detective had worked for the RCMP security and intelligence branch and assumed the RCMP made the request.

He said Graham gave the names "Braaten and McPhee" as persons alleged to be Communists. Angus McPhee is vice-president of the Canadian union and Orville Braaten is an executive board member of the union.

Ex-Officials Arrested

BELGRADE (UPI) — Yugoslavia has arrested two high officials of the former secret police dominated by ousted vice-president Aleksander Rankovic, informed sources said today. The arrested officials were Vojin Lukic, former federal secretary of internal affairs, and Zivotije-Srba Savic, who held the same post in the Serbian Republic appartus, the sources said.

CONTROLS B.C. PACKERS

Stunning Scope of Weston Empire Unfolds

OTTAWA (CP)—The stunning scope of the Weston - Loblaw food empire was unfolded for all to see today in a full disclosure of the names of its 150 active companies.

The extent of the great North American organization was made known simultaneously to shareholders and to the Senate-Commons committee investigating living costs.

Biggest surprises: A controlling interest in the Tamblyn drug chain and British Columbia Packers Ltd., largest fish-packing company in Canada.

The sales volume of the George Weston Ltd. and Loblaw Cos. Ltd. groups, now approaching $3,000,000,000 annually, is said to make them the fifth-largest merchandiser in the world.

Their assets are set at $793,000,000, including 1,850 supermarkets and retail outlets, interests in another 1,500 through franchise arrangements, 80 plants and 250 warehouses.

The empire's tentacles had already been considerably exposed this fall in hearings of the parliamentary committee.

The Weston-controlled Loblaw Groceterias Co. has testified that it owns or controls such food chains as Power Supermarkets Ltd., O.K. Economy Stores Ltd., National Grocers Co., and Kelly Douglas and Co.

WERE OTHER SURPRISES

Today's revelations include besides B.C. Packers and G. Tamblyn Ltd., such interests as the Dionne Ltd. supermarkets in Montreal, Donalds Dairy Ltd., Zehr's Markets Ltd., and Federal Farms Ltd., a produce company in Holland Marsh north of Toronto.

Some other new ones: Eplett Ice Cream Ltd. and Eplett Dairies Ltd. in Northern Ontario, Lane's Bakeries Ltd. in the Maritimes, Devon Dairies Ltd. in Toronto, and Universal Coolers Ltd. of Barrie.

After a corporate chart had been tabled before the committee, Weston lawyer Struan Robertson of Toronto told reporters it had been intended to disclose the complete group before long.

When the committee last month asked Loblaw Groceterias to name companies above and below it on its own chart, Weston executives decided it was the "appropriate time" for disclosure of the entire group.

MAY CALL OFFICIALS

The steering committee of the prices inquiry will consider calling Weston executives to testify. It has been reported that 30 per cent of the food industry in Canada is controlled by Weston-Loblaw.

At the head of the Weston and Loblaw sections of the group are holding companies whose existence has helped keep secret the identity of some of the group's holdings.

Even the chart now public leaves out the names of several important non-operating companies whose activities are handled by the parent companies. These include such well-known names as Sunbeam Bakeries Ltd., Montreal Biscuit Co., and Paulin Chambers Ltd. The Canada-wide Red and White franchise belongs to the group.

Operating profit of the Weston and Loblaw sections was about $43,000,000 last year. After deducting minority interests, the group's share was $32,000,000.

Most of the business is in manufacturing, wholesaling and re-

OTTAWA—Defence Minister Hellyer told the Commons Wednesday the appointment of a single chief of the defence staff was the keystone of the reorganized command structure.

It provided that one man would be responsible to the minister for the control and administration of the Canadian forces.

The new position combines the functions of the chairman of the Chiefs of Staff Committee and the Chiefs of Staff of the three services. It meant that the three services were no longer independent entities for the purpose of control and administration, said Mr. Hellyer.

"Thus military command and management came into line with the unified policy direction which was established with the appointment of a single minister responsible for defence in 1964," the minister added.

He spoke in the Commons when he moved for second reading of the bill to amend the National Defence Act and bring about the re-organization of the Canadian armed force.

TWO PARTS

The bill is divided into two parts. Part one relates to the structure of the Canadian forces and contains the provisions necessary for unification.

Part two contains a number of amendments consequential upon the changes made by part one and other amendment designed to simplify administration and to clarify and improve provisions of the code of service descipline.

In a 65-page speech he launched his campaign to convince Parliament that unification was the right move for the nation and essential for the armed forces.

After a one-day skirmish, the consideration of the unification bill was put off until a later date. A marathon debate is expected to develop when it again comes before the House.

Progressive Conservative Marcel Lambert of Edmonton provided the first reaction to Mr. Hellyer's actions.

Mr. Hellyer and the Canadian government was in effect converting Canada's forces into a peacekeeping force for the United Nations, said Mr. Lambert.

But peacekeeping is no longer "in good odor" at the UN, he contended.

"We would have to rely more and more on the U.S. to defend us in future attacks," he said.

"We would have to look to the presence of U.S. troops and installations on Canadian soil."

In this way Canada would

MOST AGAINST UN SANCTIONS

LONDON (AFP)—An opinion research survey published today by The Evening Standard indicates more people in Britain are against the government's proposals to ask the United Nations to impose mandatory sanctions against Rhodesia than are in favor.

Only one-third of British people believe that sanctions will force the Rhodesians to make a settlement.

Oil Sanctions Warning Given By U.K. Tories

LONDON (UPI) — The opposition Conservative party demanded today that Prime Minister Wilson promise to veto any United Nations move to impose oil sanctions on South Africa.

The backlash from such sanctions could ruin Britain financially.

Former Conservative prime minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home asked Wilson in the House to give such an assurance before Foreign Secretary George Brown's UN Security Council speech.

45 RESCUED IN AEGEAN STORM

235 Feared Drowned As Greek Ferry Sinks

(Times News Services)

ATHENS—The 9,000-ton Greek ferry Heraklion sank in a raging storm in the Aegean Sea early today with a heavy loss of life.

The Greek ministry of merchant marine said the Heraklion carried 210 passengers and 70 crew members and there were 45 known survivors. This would make the feared death toll 235 in one of the worst shipping disasters of the decade.

(The Typaldos Steamship Line office for Italy said in Venice it had received word the passenger ship Chanea, sister ship of the Heraklion, had picked up 62 passengers and crew members.)

The steam ferry was en route from the island of Crete to Piraeus, the port for Athens.

Cretans in Athens stormed the office of the Typaldos steamship office today, wild with anger and grief. They attacked with clubs and rocks which broke company windows but police kept them out.

The U.S. 6th Fleet rushed the aircraft carrier Shangri-La and a cruiser and a destroyer to the disaster area while U.S. Air Force planes flew in from Germany to aid the search for possible survivors. Helicopters fired flares which lit up the area.

King Constantine flew over the disaster area for five hours in his own plane to see the disaster that plunged the nation into shock and official mourning.

Premier Stephanos Stephanopoulos declared a period of national mourning.

The justice ministry ordered a maritime commission formed of naval officers to open an investigation of the disaster.

The 17-year-old vessel was on a regular 10-hour overnight run from Crete when a great storm of the type once attributed to the anger of Zeus sank her near the rocks of Milos Island, where the Venus de Milo was found.

The Heraklion was built in Glasgow and first sailed as the British Leicestershire.

She was converted to carry a maximum 1,000 passengers and 300 automobiles.

The ship was making its

Mother's Courage Lauded

By CANDIDE TEMPLE

This is the tale of a Hong Kong woman who has nothing in the world — nothing but three children.

A heavy load of responsibility and great courage and determination are her other possessions.

And at an age when many women in Canada could sit back and enjoy their grandchildren and their garden club, her struggle is just beginning.

Although it began 10 years ago when her husband died, it is likely to go on well into old age.

She is now 52. Her two oldest children, a daughter, 17, and a 14-year-old boy, must work.

But her son brings in an income of only one dollar a month, and the girl not much more.

The mother's occupation: ragpicker.

Every day she scours the back streets of Hong Kong slums picking up scraps of paper.

She brings them home, then with great care she washes the bits of paper and hangs them out to dry.

When the process is finished, she sells the paper scraps which are made into cheap innersoles in a factory elsewhere in the city.

From this she earns 80 cents a day, which must feed, clothe and shelter herself and her family.

When the rain comes, she can't work. The paper can't

Roadside Tests Hit Vial Snag

The provincial government's plan to put its roadside suspension program into effect here and in Vancouver during the Christmas rush has run into a roadblock of its own.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today said he did not know whether a supply of cheap breath-test vials will be available in time.

He said it was "doubtful" but not impossible.

The vials would be used by police when invoking the still-unproclaimed amendment to the Motor Vehicles Act which would enable them to stop any motorist they suspected of having taken a drink.

Driving licences and car keys would be lifted for a 24-hour period if the vials showed a motorist's breath contained .08 per cent or more of blood-alcohol.

Mr. Bonner said a U.S. manufacturer had run into "some sort of technical difficulty in meeting our requirement that the device give a straight 'yes' or 'no' reading."

The firm now manufactures vials, filled with chemical crystals, which give graduate readings of blood-alcohol content when a subject blows into them but the department wants vials pre-set to change color only if the content is .08 per cent or more.

Compromise Pact Accepted

From Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Labor Minister Jack Nicholson told an applauding Parliament today that the British Columbia dock tie-up is over.

At 11:40 a.m. Victoria time, he told the House that work was expected to resume on the West Coast within a matter of hours.

The minister stated both sides have agreed to the compromise proposal he made in Vancouver at the weekend to end the economy-crippling, almost three-week tie-up of shipping.

He said one additional condition has been added.

He will set up an industrial inquiry commission to inquire into the question of work stoppage with a view to recommending what might prevent any other such stoppages.

Nicholson told Parliament that the matter had been resolved within five minutes of his speaking to the House.

He said he had received confirmation in writing from one side — presumably the employees who had agreed to the proposal he made at the weekend — and he had received a wire from the other side.

He said certain supplementary clauses had to be added to the wire and he expected they would be sent out to Ottawa later today.

'One of the Few Occasions . . .'

Nicholson told the House when he got to his feet: "This is one of the few occasions that the minister of labor can act with some satisfaction. A problem that has been confronting Canada for the past several weeks seems to have been resolved."

He referred to the serious situation that had developed and said both sides had maintained that they had a certain position to maintain.

But he said because of the tie-up of grain, lumber, other forest products, and all other waterborne products, both sides had agreed to the proposals made and the appeals of Prime Minister Pearson and Premier Bennett.

The amicable solution resolved a tricky situation in Parliament.

When Nicholson sat down to applause, among those applauding was Gilles Gregoire, a Quebec separatist who defected from the Creditistes to sit as the independent member for Lapointe.

On Wednesday night he had refused to give unanimous consent for legislation the government wanted to bring in at a special session this morning to appoint a public administrator and re-open the docks.

Without unanimous consent, the government was required to give 48 hours' notice and the legislation could have been delayed until Friday.

Cabinet Met This Morning

Cabinet met early today to discuss the situation and how to handle it.

When the House opened at the normal time, 11:30 a.m. Vancouver time, Gregoire was in his seat at the far end of the chamber.

He had set as his price for consent an assurance that the St. Lawrence River would be kept in full operation this winter by means of ice-breaking.

Gregoire had been roasted by the Quebec press and commentators for the stand he had taken.

But when proceedings started it still was uncertain what he was going to do.

Gregoire, questioned by reporters, had said he was not sure of his action, and was awaiting what the government proposed.

But Nicholson's statement ended the impasse.

Gregoire joined in the applause.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker said it was too bad that the ports could not have been opened sooner.

Trade Minister Robert Winters, who is responsible for the

'Canada Security' Reason for Bugs

(See story Page 9)

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former assistant to a private detective accused of bugging rooms at a Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada convention said Wednesday he was told an investigation of Communist activity that could involve national security was the reason for the electronic eavesdropping.

Howard William McAnish told a royal commission inquiry into the bugging he was given the information by private detective Weldon (Bud) Graham.

Mr. McAnish said Mr. Graham claimed he was requested "by people he had worked with before to do certain things."

Mr. McAnish said he knew the private detective had worked for the RCMP security and intelligence branch and assumed the RCMP made the request.

He said Graham gave the names "Braaten and McPhee" as persons alleged to be Communists. Angus McPhee is vice-president of the Canadian union and Orville Braaten is an executive board member of the union.

CONTROLS B.C. PACKERS

Stunning Scope of Weston Empire Unfolds

OTTAWA (CP)—The stunning scope of the Weston - Loblaw food empire was unfolded for all to see today in a full disclosure of the names of its 150 active companies.

The extent of the great North American organization was made known simultaneously to shareholders and to the Senate-Commons committee investigating living costs.

Biggest surprises: A controlling interest in the Tamblyn drug chain and British Columbia Packers Ltd., largest fish-packing company in Canada.

The sales volume of the George Weston Ltd. and Loblaw Cos. Ltd. groups, now approaching $3,000,000,000 annually, is said to make them the fifth-largest merchandiser in the world.

Their assets are set at $793,000,000, including 1,850 supermarkets and retail outlets, interests in another 1,500 through franchise arrangements, 80 plants and 250 warehouses.

The empire's tentacles had already been considerably exposed this fall in hearings of the parliamentary committee.

The Weston-controlled Loblaw Groceterias Co. has testified that it owns or controls such food chains as Power Supermarkets Ltd., O.K. Economy Stores Ltd., National Grocers Co., and Kelly Douglas and Co.

WERE OTHER SURPRISES

Today's revelations include besides B.C. Packers and G. Tamblyn Ltd., such interests as the Dionne Ltd. supermarkets in Montreal, Donalds Dairy Ltd., Zehr's Markets Ltd., and Federal Farms Ltd., a produce company in Holland Marsh north of Toronto.

Some other new ones: Eplett Ice Cream Ltd. and Eplett Dairies Ltd. in Northern Ontario, Lane's Bakeries Ltd. in the Maritimes, Devon Dairies Ltd. in Toronto, and Universal Coolers Ltd. of Barrie.

After a corporate chart had been tabled before the committee, Weston lawyer Struan Robertson of Toronto told reporters it had been intended to disclose the complete group before long.

When the committee last month asked Loblaw Groceterias to name companies above and below it on its own chart, Weston executives decided it was the "appropriate time" for disclosure of the entire group.

MAY CALL OFFICIALS

The steering committee of the prices inquiry will consider calling Weston executives to testify. It has been reported that 30 per cent of the food industry in Canada is controlled by Weston-Loblaw.

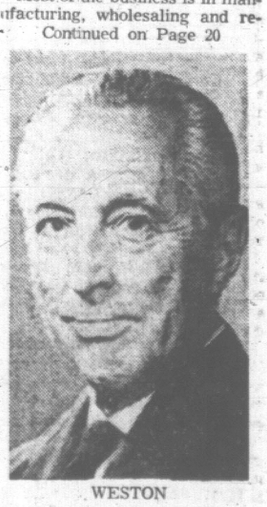

At the head of the Weston and Loblaw sections of the group are holding companies whose existence has helped keep secret the identity of some of the group's holdings.

Even the chart now public leaves out the names of several important non-operating companies whose activities are handled by the parent companies. These include such well-known names as Sunbeam Bakeries Ltd., Montreal Biscuit Co., and Paulin Chambers Ltd. The Canada-wide Red and White franchise belongs to the group.

Operating profit of the Weston and Loblaw sections was about $43,000,000 last year. After deducting minority interests, the group's share was $32,000,000.

Most of the business is in manufacturing, wholesaling and re-

Full Shifts to Resume At Crofton Pulp Mill

CROFTON — The B.C. Forest Products, Ltd., pulp mill here will resume full production with the 8 a.m. shift Sunday.

There has been a cutback for 10 days because of the longshoremen's dispute.

Jack L. Gallagher, industrial relations officer, said today the resumption of full production was possible because more pulp storage space has been found.

At the peak, Crofton mill laid off 150 men. About 110 will remain idle until Sunday.

NANAIMO — Ole Marland, 62, of Wellington, was fined $225 in magistrate's court here after being found guilty of impaired driving. He was also banned from driving for six months except to and from work.

Police gave evidence that Marland was spotted driving in an erratic manner.

NANAIMO — June, 1967, has been set as a tentative date for a referendum on formation of a district municipality here.

The date has been set as a result of a meeting last week of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell and Tony Poje of Nanaimo, chairman of a committee which has been studying the issue.

The possibility of forming a district municipality has been under study for about two years.

At a November meeting of Nanaimo city council and Mr. Poje's study committee, the possibility of a merger of Nanaimo and surrounding areas was discussed.

At last week's meeting, however, Mr. Campbell said reorganization would be preferable to merger plans.

Also at last week's meeting were deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown, Nanaimo Alderman Jack Parker, Harewood secretary-treasurer Rod Glen, and Gordon Blank of Wellington waterworks district.

POLLUTION SOCIETY SOUGHT BY LAWYER

CVETKOVICH

CAMPBELL RIVER — A mass meeting will be held here tonight to discuss formation of a pollution control society.

Organizer of the meeting is lawyer Joseph J. Cvetkovich who has been active in opposing dumping of mine tailings in Buttle Lake by Western Mines Ltd.

Idea of the proposed society is to fill the gap created by the "inefficiency" of the provincial pollution control board, said Mr. Cvetkovich.

The local lawyer claims the provincial board has failed to do its job in ensuring there will be no pollution of the lake (Campbell River's main water supply).

The board earlier this year approved an application by the mining company to dump tailings and treated effluent into the lake.

Garbage Image Seen at Duncan

"Garbage Can of the Cowichan Valley."

This may become the new slogan for the city of Duncan unless littered sidewalks are swept, a group of Duncan businessmen warned council this week.

In a complaint about the "deplorable neglect" of downtown sidewalks, the businessmen suggested a letter from council to all property owners remind them of their responsibility to keep sidewalks clean.

A letter to this effect was sent out earlier this year.

Ald. James Saunders said the answer is for the city works crew to do the cleaning job and city hall to assess the property owners or tenants for it.

But city clerk Gordon Berry said he would have to check the legal position. He was not sure council could assess the owners who are already paying taxes.

Mayor Dobson said: "Any business too busy to sweep its own sidewalk is making enough money to have them cleaned. The main parts of downtown are the worst."

FIRE KILLS 65 SOLDIERS IN BARRACKS

ANKARA (AFP) — Sixty-five soldiers were killed and another 27 severely injured by an explosion in the sleeping quarters of the Dumlu army barracks near Erzurum in eastern Turkey early today.

The explosion was followed by a rapidly spreading fire which caught the sleeping soldiers by surprise.

Officials here said the blast appeared to have been caused by a soldier trying to rekindle a stove he thought had gone out by throwing gasoline into it.

be dried outdoors, and in her shack there is no room to hang it.

"During the rainy season," she says, "we add more water to our rice gruel at night."

And then she and her children pray that the rain will stop so she can continue her ragpicking.

This woman, and others like her in India, Hong Kong and Korea, are helped immensely by relief organization like the Unitarian Service Committee, which is supported by the Times' Share with Asian Children Fund.

Contributions to the fund may be sent care of the newspaper, or made at the main branch, Bank of Montreal, 1225 Douglas Street.
